CHAMBER FAVOURS DEATH PLEA

Twenty out of 27 members of Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce want the death penalty enforced.

Bert Timbers reported to the Chamber directors on Monday evening that he had sent out a circular to members in connection with the death penalty. Circular asked each member whether he was in favour of the Chamber distributing a petition asking for the re-instatement of the death penalty.

While many members did not respond, of the 27 who replied, 20 called for the petition.

Directors discussed the question of whether it was an appropriate task for the Chamber.

The results of the circular and the views of the Chamber will be passed on to T. C. Douglas, MP. No other action was decided on Monday.

GANGES SEWER PLAN

Regional Board Withdraws Appeal

— FIELD CLEAR FOR NEW SCHEME

Capital Regional District will not appeal the cancellation of the Ganges sewage discharge permit.

Last week the regional board agreed to withdraw the appeal on the grounds that close co-operation with the Pollution Control Branch was paramount.

Announcement spells a new chapter in a long history. Need for a sewer system in Ganges has been recognized for many years. A decade ago a project was devised and the sponsoring Chamber of Commerce agreed that the best route to government aid in financing it was by incorporation as a village. The community agreed with the need but not with the village. It was thrown out.

About five years ago the same Chamber of Commerce took a new look and gained the support of the Capital Regional District. Permit was granted by the Pollution Control Branch to discharge effluent into Ganges Harbour. SPEC launched an appeal against the issue of the permit and the appeal function of the branch, the Pollution Control Board found for the appellants and cancelled the permit for fear of contaminating the harbour.

Initially, the Regional Board announced its intention of appealing the cancellation. The present decision reverses the earlier intention and leaves the field open to devise a new disposal plan likely to prove acceptable to the Pollution Control Board.

The Capital Regional District would probably require provincial and federal assistance to install an experimental sewage treatment system for the village of Ganges, on Salt Spring Island, board believes.

Board Chairman Jim Campbell announced that the Ganges planning and sewer committee, formed under the auspices of the Salt Spring Island Planning Association, had found considerable support among island residents for the Coulthard method of high temperature sludge digestion and coal filtration.

In view of these developments, Campbell felt that the Capital Regional Board should withdraw its notice of appeal against a Pollution Control Board ruling which had blocked a proposal for a treatment plant at Ganges.

Minister Is Back For 50th Fair

It was no new experience for Agricultural Minister David Stupich to formally open Mayne Island Fall Fair.

On Saturday, the minister expressed his satisfaction at returning to the island and, although he could not be present at the 100th annual fair, he expressed his good wishes to those among his audience who might.

Mayne Islanders had every reason to take pride in the fair and the attendance, said Stupich. He had attended a similar event at Nanaimo last week. The Hub City has 40,000 residents and could only find a crowd a quarter the size of Saturday's gathering, he recalled.

The minister was repeating history. In 1965 David Stupich Esq., M.L.A., officiated. On Saturday, the Honorable David Stupich did the honours. In 1965 he was a member of the opposition. In 1975 he came as a minister of the government.

Saturday's fair was a special occasion in the history of Mayne Island. It marked the 50th anniversary of the island fair.

HIS WORK COST HIM DEAR

Ed Chew, of Ganges, was a saddened man last week, when his contribution to swimmers at Blackburn Lake was rejected.

Ed built a wharf at the Salt Spring Island lake, recently. He used lumber donated by Ralph Magee. When the structure was finished, he tied up his boat at the wharf.

First time he went back, the rear seat had been torn out of his boat. Second time, the boat had been deliberately sunk. Last week he went to the boat and discovered that everything movable had been stolen.

"That's the last time I ever do anything for the community," he told Driftwood.

NO HELP FOR TRIP

Department of Education has not undertaken to provide more money for transport from Galiano students. The students are required to travel from Galiano to Mayne for the new Middle School and parents had asked for more

BUSINESS LICENSES ON ISLAND

Business licenses are to stay at home.

In the islands the RCMP has been responsible for the collection of fees for business licenses. This will be changed in the near future, reports Regional Director George Heinekey.

The function of licensing businesses is to be assumed by the Capital Regional Board. This will enable the regional district to police holders of business licenses more carefully and to combat the fly-by-night operators, explained the director.

It will also ensure that monies collected from this source will be ploughed back into the community.

LAKESIDE RESIDENTS OPPOSED

Residents of St. Mary Lake have expressed concern at the use of the lake by aircraft. Regional Director George Heinekey told the Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce on Monday that he had received a number of complaints in that respect.

The lake is registered on aviation charts as a landing ground for float planes.

LIONS GET CHEQUE

Second instalment in the amount of $10,000 of a provincial grant to the Lions Recreational Complex was received this week.

Government has assisted the project with various grants in order to provide a new, centralized recreation facilities.

In charge of the Lions project, Tom Portlock explained that the first instalment was received last December.

DIRECTOR IS HAPPY WITH PLAN

Subdivision by-law on Salt Spring Island was scheduled this week for third reading on Wednesday at the meeting of the Capital Regional District.

The final draught of the by-law has been prepared after a year and a half of deliberation. It was not unanimously approved on the island, but Regional Director George Heinekey assured Driftwood this week that it is as complete a follower of the Community Plan as can be undertaken.

The only degree in which it fails to comply with the Community Plan is where the present provincial laws fail to allow for it, said the director.

"It is as nearly perfect as we can make it," he averred.

VANDALS ATTACK COURTS

Nothing on Salt Spring Island is safe.

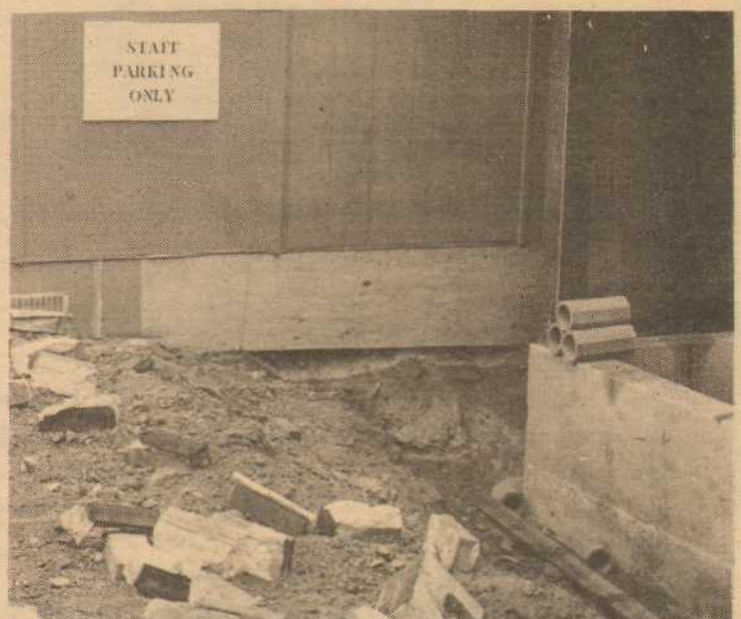

Tom Portlock reports that the tennis courts at the new Lions Recreational Complex at Central have been the target of at least two drivers.

The hard-surfaced courts were driven on by a car within two days of laying the blacktop.

Next thing, he found a young motorcyclist using the courts as a highway.

The breaking straw was the discovery of visitors loading top soil into the trunk of their car.

Portlock is a past president of the Lions Club and has been one of the hard working Lions behind the recreation project.

Who else would want to park there? Park predates Mayne project.

Death Breaks Link With 1800's

Man who has been around Salt Spring for almost a century is gone.

On Tuesday evening, Aug. 12, William Manson Mouat died in Lady Minto Hospital, four days before his 91st birthday.

Pioneer, merchant, churchman and political observer, "Willie" Mouat had watched the islands develop from the sleepy, unknown by-ways of the Victorian era to the popular retirement and holiday area they represent today.

He had seen his own Mouat's Store survive the fluctuations of history, as the nation went through war and peace, hunger, want and plenty. Throughout those long years, he retained a keen interest in affairs and on many occasions he was in Victoria and Ottawa as an accredited spokesman for his own community. Always close to the political scene, he was invited on several occasions to take an active part in the national administration, but he preferred his role of observer and adviser.

Throughout his life he was closely identified with the church and although an adherent of the United Church, he was friend of all churches and churchmen on Salt Spring Island.

William Manson Mouat was born in Spokane of Scottish parents who were making their way to Nanaimo. Before he was six months old his father came to Salt Spring Island with his small family, to farm and to establish the Mouat line on another island. In Scotland the family is still living in the Shetlands.

W. M. Mouat grew up in the sparsely settled community of Salt Spring Island. His family had a farm near St. Mary Lake and his father died there at the age of 45. He had been a stonemason and the stone dust took its toll.

When the young Willie Mouat was scarcely into his majority the general store in Ganges was offered for sale. Store had been operated by Malcolm and Purvis, who were brothers-in-law. Malcolm died suddenly and Percy Purvis had no desire to remain on Salt Spring Island. Employed as a clerk in the store was the late Gilbert Mouat. At his urging the family decided to buy the business and W. M. abandoned his college days to assist his brother.

For a lifetime he was one of the Mouat Brothers in the company of that name. The store passed into the direction of Malcolm "Mac" and Laurie Mouat, but W. M. was actively engaged in the business until he was over 70.

Before the First World War, Mouat Brothers engaged a Vancouver girl as secretary. She was Effie Wayne, who came here from North Vancouver. She spent the remainder of her life on the island after marrying W. M. Mouat in 1913. She died in 1967.

They had four children, Gilbert was drowned many years ago and Grace died in 1972; Oliver is in Seattle and Ivan is an educationalist in the North West Territories.

During his long career in Ganges, W. M. Mouat was active in almost every phase of island life.

He was staunch member of the United Church; he was a charter member of the Lady Minto Hospital Board and he served as school trustee for many years. He was a Justice of the Peace and he was one of the pioneers of the chamber of commerce and other earlier organizations here.

Almost all his life he played golf by day and in the evening he was a bridge addict.

Nothing on the island escaped his attention and he was pressing the Chamber of Commerce to support his own pet enthusiasms until last year.

In his last years he had become an institution on Salt Spring Island and he was accorded a warm welcome everywhere.

Last August he celebrated his 90th birthday and entertained widely for that event. He drove his own car to the celebrations. During the ensuing year his health began to fail and he was in Lady Minto Hospital, after suffering a heart attack, at the time of his death.

There were few events or trends in nearly a century of island life which had escaped the note and concern of W. M. Mouat.

A packed Ganges United Church was the scene of the funeral services on Monday afternoon, when three ministers took part.

Conducting the service was Rev. Vern McEachern, Rev. Peter McCalman read the scriptures and Rev. Fred Anderson gave the eulogy.

Interment followed at the Island Cemetery at Central. Flowers were declined in favour of contributions to the new intermediate care wing at Lady Minto Hospital.

By Richards

I was in Victoria last week and I parked on Government St. Across the road was the New England Hotel, established 1858. I was impressed, because after having walked along Government St. for 35 years, I had only now noticed the building and its architecture. I was looking up the rest of the day. On Pembroke St., I parked opposite an elderly wooden building whose long-gone fascia sign once announced Grimm's Carriage Factory. On Johnson St., was a poster announcing the killer whale would perform hourly. There was no reference to the victims, but the inference is that they would be Christians. The final combination of signs was on Quadra, where a large sign announced Jesus Saves and a smaller one almost beneath it warned, Valid Ticket in Car or Tow Away.

Willie K. Gritter is the publisher of two small weekly newspapers in Michigan. On Wednesday she was a visitor at Driftwood, where she inspected the operation. Her mainstay in the eastern state of the United States is the Shiawasse County Journal, which is located in a town named Perry. Willa did not come west simply to look at Driftwood. She is staying with the Gossett family on Cranberry at the former R-Bar-T Ranch.

Bad news travels fast. Last week a report reached the island that a date had been set for the proposed appeal by the Capital Regional District against the decision of the Pollution Control Board in respect of the Ganges sewer plan. The story came a day before the Capital Regional District announced that it had withdrawn the appeal.

Fine fishermen make fine sailors. Like on Legion Derby Day. There they were, the three FISHERMEN of Ganges. Off in a boat they went to sit over on Vancouver Island, get out early in the morning to catch the salmon unaware. At Cowichan Bay they remained reasonably sober and turned in early to get up very early. At four o'clock in the morning they were up and away. They came out of Cowichan Bay and started for the fishing grounds of the Really Big Fish. And it took a lot of finding. Finally, they were ready to catch three massive salmon in order to win the first three prizes in the derby. There were an unexpected number of houses around the bay. It had built up a lot since they did the same thing last year. As the light grew they saw more. When it was light enough to see just what was going on there, across the water, the three gleeful seamen found that the houses were strangely familiar. They were in Fulford Harbour.

Met Rhona Ashlee in Victoria last week. Rhona was a correspondent for the Sidney Review when her husband Ted was cutting hair in his little shop opposite Mouat's Store. They left Salt Spring Island about 15 years ago, give or take a year or two. They were both engaged in the newspaper business for a few years and last time I met either of them Ted was back as a barber and Rhona was lazing away the long days. Things have changed. Ted is now back to the sea shore and is carpentering on board ship, while Rhona is running a florist shop. Whether he was cutting hair or selling a advertising or building ships, Ted was always writing. He has already published a small list of books and hopes to see two more out this year. He has written boys' books for several years. I have only one thing against Ted. I took his picture a few years ago and it didn't come out!

Another former correspondent of the Sidney Review, when I was editor there, was in Ganges last Wednesday. Nancy Hume put her name to many a Galiano Island report a few years ago. She left the islands to live in Victoria and last week she was here on a day trip.

Mayne Island Highway crews are working on Miner's Bay Road. On Saturday it rained for Mayne Island Fall Fair. The two circumstances brought mud. Department gave us the choice of mud or dust," said Fred Dodds, "and we chose mud!"

Been looking at television lately. And not always liking what I see. Like Joseph Campanello who can pretend he is in pain. This fine actor sits and pretends he has sinus trouble. He gets paid for that I have sinus trouble and nobody pays me for it. Believe me, that announcement doesn't sell me one pill!

Television, with its absurdities and exaggerations and obviously false claims for products does get heavy. It is so heavy that when I bought an appliance recently and saw it advertised on television I automatically assumed that it was valueless. On using it and learning that it did, in fact, do a job, I was consciously surprised that something I had seen advertised on television actually works.

Wilfred J. Peck met Wilfred J. Peck on Salt Spring Island last week.

The incident was notable because Wilf Peck explained that Wilf Peck is a less common name in Texas than on Salt Spring Island. Wilfred Peck lives on the Island and Wilfred Peck was staying with his son, Mike Peck at Fulford.

Wilfred Peck is the secretary-treasurer of Gulf Islands School Board.

THEY STRIKE AND WE'RE OUT!

It is a disappearing age. The horse and buggy has disappeared and the whooping crane is slowly moving off stage. The salmon has disappeared according to many fishermen and the Five-cent cigar, fifty cent gasoline and 10-cent beer have passed on their way.

Paper is disappearing almost as quickly as DDT. While the consumption of newsprint remains high, the production remains low. An impasse is almost inevitable.

We may be facing that impasse at Driftwood.

With the paper producers on strike and the paper users busy, the stocks are drying up. Many larger operations have stocks to last for six months. Not so Driftwood.

The impasse will take the form of rationing. This newspaper is likely to grow thinner. The staff may well follow suit. The number of pages are likely to be restricted and if the pulp strike is a long one, the supply could dry up altogether.

In the event of a complete exhaustion of newsprint, there will be no time to get down to recriminations. Whether to blame the printers for lack of foresight or the workers for lack of consideration for others or the Fates for letting it all happen, will have no bearing on the matter.

The publisher will be away on holiday once the paper supply runs out and the holiday will last until more paper is available or until welfare payments run out.

ISLAND IS CHOPPED IN TWO

A few people on Salt Spring Island experienced a foretaste of disaster one week end when a mobile home ceased to be mobile any longer. The long, long structure was jammed across Ganges Hill.

There was scarcely enough room for a shadow to get by.

While the vehicle was thus jammed in the road there was no traffic up or down the hill. Essential services were cut off from the south and communication was at a standstill.

Mrs. Ian Macdonald has been sounding the warning bell so long that the casting is cracked. There has been none to hear the clanging of her bell.

The regional district and the provincial government both agree that the closure of Ganges Hill would represent a major disaster to the island. Who could deny it?

But nobody wants to meet the cost of a new route

If the traffic hold-up on Saturday had had its roots in a more serious obstruction Mrs. Macdonald might have been able to cite more substantial statistics.

It did, however, prove her right.

Letters to the Editor

MISMANAGEMENT

Sir,
 Some facts about Premier Barrett's financial priorities may be of interest to your readers in the Gulf Island area. During the Spring Session of the Legislature, the Official Opposition strongly criticized Premier Barrett's $3.2 billion budget because it represented a decline in spending for services to people as a percentage of the total spending picture.

In that budget, there are many examples of Premier Barrett's mistaken spending priorities: $40 million for new government office space but only $20 million for revenue sharing with municipalities to help ease homeowners' property tax burden; a half-million dollars for the minister without portfolio, Alf Nunweiler, just to run his office, but only $5 million for the entire department of economic development; the job-making arm of government: $15 million for government office space rentals (much of it unused) but only $350,000 for development of alternative health care facilities; $2.3 million for education research and development (a division in chaos which has produced nothing) but only $12 million for new construction for all universities and colleges in British Columbia.

On top of Premier Barrett's mismanagement and waste, the provincial treasury is being drained empty by massive overruns by Government departments and Crown Corporations. ICBC, $36 million. B.C.R., $32 million. Hydro transit $17 million. B.C. Ferries, $25 million. In addition, the last two years, the Provincial budget has been overrun by about $750 million.

During my travels to many parts of British Columbia this summer, I have seen hard evidence that the NDP government's poor management of British Columbia's resources over the past three years is resulting in a real decline in the standard of service the government is providing for our people. This decline is becoming more severe as economic conditions worsen and the treasury becomes more hard pressed.

The staff of many provincial health and penal institutions is overworked because the government has failed to provide funds for more staff to meet the demands for service. High ways in many parts of the province are in their worst condition in more than a decade because the government has not provided sufficient funds to properly maintain them.

Community colleges throughout the Province are facing a financial crisis because the government cannot find money to keep pace with the growth in enrolment, in some cases as much as 50 per cent. Many students hired on the government's Summer Employment Program who were initially advised they would have work for July and August have been laid off at the end of July.

SATURNA SCENE by Papajohn

There are some nice people in this world and our Postmistress, who is, herself, one of them, thinks Eddie Reid and Donn Hogg are special. Well they are. Eddie found a nice pole, painted it, put on a proper pulley and rigging for a flag pole and Don dug the hole and raised the flag pole you now see beside the Post Office. Now we can lower the flag to half mast when our summer friends depart. Jeannie is quite proud of her flag pole and wants me to officially thank Eddie and Don. THANKS BOYS.

In short, many British Columbians are feeling the very real consequences of the reckless spending and extravagance of the Barrett government since it came into office. Money which should have been reserved for the economic rainy day British Columbia is now suffering through, has been spent—much of it on frivolous items.

Now, the government is faced with two options, neither of which is acceptable to me. With the provincial treasury depleted, Premier Barrett must either cut back on services or face a deficit budget.

My commitment to the people of British Columbia is to form a government which will not only establish the highest and finest level of services for people, but to provide sound and stable management of our Province's resources so that these services can be fully maintained in both good and bad economic times.

The Lions Lyre:

Let's get the sad parts over first, Uncle Art Ralph won the Golden Draw and Tom Davidson, our Prez, won the Texas Mickey. Now not sad are our guests, Bob Close, Auctioneer par excellence Mike Hayes, David Obate from California and our good friend Don Hogg. As this was the first visit of our Zone Chairman, Jerry Medcalf from Mayne, Jack Evans, Fred Bennett, Don Mitchell and Gordon Duchow all dressed up as pirates dragged in our new Zone

Chairman in chains to open this meeting. Our tail twister Steve Maskow fined them each for not being properly dressed and we were able to eat our supper.

We had a nice talk from our old Island Friend Jerry Medcalf and as this was his first official visit he started out among friendly neighbours. The Generalisimos of the gourmet dinner we had were Lil Barnett Barie Elliott and that super general Laura Coombs. Work bees for the school grounds will be posted and again we ask all and everybody to come out and help as this is a community project as well as a Lion do. A standing vote of thanks went to Mike Hayes for his valiant work as auctioneer from which we made a couple of bucks to spend on our Island. There will be more news about the Labour Day week end.

Haven in Nepal For Waifs

From Kathmandu, in Nepal, to Salt Spring Island is a long hop. Donations by well-wishers in this part of British Columbia have been sent to the foot of the Himalayas.

In Kathmandu the family of Mendies, Tom and Elizabeth, has never grown smaller. In face of want and privation the couple have been taking in homeless children in a land where there are many children without homes.

The plight of the couple and their own children meeting the needs of so many adopted children was described by Doris Anderson, of Beaver Point when she visited Asia several years ago. Miss Anderson was so impressed with the work of the Nepal couple that she instituted a drive for funds when she came back.

The fund is still active at the Bank of Montreal and last week Miss Anderson sent off $100 collected at the bank.

Mrs. Mendies mailed a brief diary of her life and obligations: On a Saturday evening she describes the trials of having a pet dog bitten by a mad dog and developing rabies. In the meantime her husband was suffering a facial stroke and she sat up with him during the night to aid him in two more such strokes.

On Sunday morning the dog's distress is identified as rabies and all the children must have seven injections. Except Toshi, Amar, Moti and Olive, who must have 14. Two are in pain and one is sick. They are nursed.

The Haven, Kathmandu is a haven for all who come to its door. It remains a haven, in part, due to the generosity of islanders.

FORMER RESIDENT PASSES

Former resident of Saturna Island, Laura M. Simpson Cowan died on August 7, in Vancouver. She was the wife of Thomas Cowan and they at one time owned Random Acres at Saturna.

Memorial service was held in the Chapel of St. John's United Church on August 9. Born in Prince Edward Island in 1895, she came to Vancouver when she was 18. In 1929 she married Tom Cowan.

Mrs. Cowan was a teacher for many years at the Queen Mary School.

Mrs. Cowan was largely responsible for the research for a book and a monument marking the 200th anniversary of the landing of the Simpson, Clark and McNeill families at Cavendish, P.E.I.

Scenes from Mayne Island's 50th

Fred Bennett and Paddy Lambert are welcoming visitors to the fair as they take in the money on Saturday.

MAYNE ISLAND FAIR

BY M. P.

The 50th anniversary of the Mayne Fair was certainly in the best-ever category in many respects. By far the largest ever crowd, and a record number of exhibits of very high quality, made it the most interesting fair yet. It was nice to see old timers, Mrs. Hall and Wilbur Deacon, both of whom were at the first fair, and also to have Rollie Foster there too. He was born on Mayne in the early 20's and suspects that he was taken to the fair. "Mr. Mayne Island Fall Fair", Walter Hunt-Sowrey, the one most responsible on the island for the success of the fair in the '50's and '60's, was there, along with honorary member Geo. Slinn, happy at winning one of the major prizes in the raffle, the first prize in any draw he has ever won on the island. The children's entries in the fair were not only the greatest ever in number but were of an outstandingly high quality and wide variety of subjects. As was suggested at the fair, several more trophies are needed for the children's section and it is to be hoped that interested Mayne Islanders will offer to donate new trophies for next year's fair.

The Mayne Island museum, across the road from the agricultural hall, drew record numbers of visitors, who were invariably amazed at the work that has been done on the museum by the young people on the island. This will in a few years be one of the outstanding places to visit when coming to Mayne and it is to be hoped that more residents will support their museum by donations of artifacts and especially photographs both past and present.

The 75 odd year old Mayne Island Agricultural Hall all decked out in a new coat of paint and with a splendid Don Grant mural on the side, never looked better to show off the many facets of Island life in agriculture, arts and crafts, and the success enjoyed by this year's fair a great tribute to the executive of the association.

MINISTER OPENS FAIR

Established in 1925 under the sponsorship of Lady Constance Hawkes, the island fair was a continuous feature of island life until the war years. In 1941 the annual fair was suspended and it was not reinstated until the war was over.

Mrs. Nesta Hall was there in 1925. She recalled that it was the brainchild of Lady Constance, but she could not remember the officiating dignitary who opened it.

Fred Bennett was there, but he could remember little about it. Wilbur Deacon agreed that there had been a first fair and that he attended, but he was hazy about the details.

Those who were old enough to take part in the first fair could no longer remember the details and those who were young at the time were too young to have any clear recollection.

PIONEER OF FULFORD DIES AT AGE OF 95

Mrs. Sophie King died at the age of 95 in Lady Minto Hospital on Friday, Aug. 15. Mrs. King was born on Salt Spring Island in 1880 and had lived here all her life. At the time of her death she was the island's senior citizen.

Mrs. King was born on Beaver Point Road on what is now the Browndale property. When she was three years old, her father died and the small family was left in sore straits. Sophie went to the convent at Cowichan, where she stayed and studied.

She recalled in later life that her brother paid for her stay in the convent by cutting and splitting 2,000 cedar shakes to roof a large barn.

She returned to Salt Spring Island and had lived on the island for the remainder of her life.

When she was married she and her husband were living in a log cabin off Beaver Point Road. Leon King was then working in the lumber mill and there he sawed all the lumber that went into his house.

Mrs. King was associated with her husband in the operation of their farm until the closing of the Creamery at the foot of Ganges Hill.

For years Mrs. King occupied herself with painting pieces of driftwood and creating shapes and forms. Her considerable collection is now in the possession of Bob Akerman. In latter years she has been a link with the pioneer days of the island.

She leaves her son, Leon, at Fulford; two daughters, Mrs. W. (Vera) Loxton, Fulford and Mrs. J. (Evelyn) Klassen, Seattle; three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held in St. Paul's Catholic Church at Fulford on Tuesday, Aug. 19, with Rev. Fr. P.A. Bergin, OMI, officiating.

Interment followed in the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

Arrangements were by Goodman Funeral Home.

ISLAND MARKSMEN WIN OUT

Seven Salt Spring Islanders attended a P.I.T.A. two-day shoot in Campbell River, August 16 and 17. Those attending were Jack and Carolyn Reynolds, Bernie and Sharon Reynolds, John and Ellen Bennett, and George Moulton. Two trophies came home with the group. One was won by John Bennett in event number one. He scored 97 points out of 100 in the 16 yard "D" class singles. Bernie Reynolds scored 99 in event number four in the 16 yard B class singles, also winning him a trophy.

On July 26 and 27 a group went to Vancouver for a P.I.T.A. shoot. Bernie Reynolds won the high-over-all for C class, and tied in the event number five handicap with a score of 98.

The V.I.S.L. Championship shoot was held at the Victoria Fish and Game Club on August 3. Bernie Reynolds won two prizes, the high-over-all and the B class 16 yard. Sharon Reynolds was runner-up for the ladies' handicap. Carolyn Reynolds won the ladies' D class 16 yard.

The two-day Salt Spring Shoot and Luau is to be held August 23 and 24.

Activity Rooms and Community

Activity rooms may be constructed at some Outer Islands schools next year.

Island communities will be invited to co-operate with the school district as they did at Ganges and provide augmented facilities at the expense of the community.

The invitation would enable the islands to provide community hall facilities at the activity room. Cost of the construction of the activity room would be borne by the school district. Additional costs for larger space, theatre facilities, projection rooms or any other facilities sought by the community would be charged to the community as a tax levy on that island alone.

The invitation to islanders to take part in such a program was extended last week by Gulf Islands School Board Chairman Charles Baltzer.

Same show Same time New place

It's the same show and the same time, but the place has been changed.

Last week Stuart Margolin announced plans to present a double-feature movie show in Ganges in September to keep alive his Summer Theatre. He was right all along the line except when he mentioned the location.

The five showings of two films will be staged in the Activity Room of Salt Spring Island School which is at the west end of the school and accessible from Kanaka Road.

Features are Ingmar Bergman in Scenes From a Marriage and Kes. They will be seen on Friday, Sept. 12, Saturday, Sept. 13 and Sunday, Sept. 14.

R ON SATURDAY

It was Mr. Mayne Fair Hunt Sowrey who came to the rescue.

Former fair secretary scratched his head vigorously and recalled that the opener had been with the Canadian Scottish. "Cy Peck!" he said.

There was none to make comparisons. It was likely that the first fair had boasted no more exhibits and less visitors, they agreed.

A harassed Marjorie Haggart was in charge of the fair. While she policed the hall, checked the awards, answered questions, attended the door and tied up the loose ends, she was looking forward to five o'clock when she could go home and call it a day.

Master of ceremonies was Fred Dodds, who met the minister and drove him to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Rainsford for lunch. The meal had originally been laid on outside the hall, but the rare feature of the Mayne Fair, rain, had washed that out. The Rainsfords came to the rescue.

Agriculture minister examined the exhibits in the hall while it was filling up. He had made the Grand Tour by the time he was called on to officiate.

Livestock was not entered and some officials were disappointed in the number of entries in the wine section. Mayne Island is a big wine-making centre.

Prizes were awarded during the afternoon to the winners in all sections.

Weather frowned during the morning, but by afternoon the rain held off sufficiently to permit tea in the open. Other outside activities were busy beneath waterproof covers. Alongside the hall, the miniature golf course kept busy and the Mayne Golf was put to good use all afternoon.

Here comes da judge! It's Mrs. Anne Foerster giving a Mayne Island loaf a close look on Saturday.

Sidney Banks...Mystic or Prophet or

BY BRENDA ANDERSON

Call him a mystic; call him a prophet. Sydney Banks is, perhaps, each of these, but this quietly-spoken Salt Spring Islander is a leader of men and women over a wide area.

Sydney Banks is gaining recognition in all of the west coast as something of an oracle. People flock to his door not to hear his answer to their problems, but to have him lead them to their own answer.

Unknown a few months ago, he is, today, the subject of tales, books and reports, while his time is now taken up with travelling and speaking.

Call him what you will... you cannot refuse to recognize that Sydney Banks has something going for him. But there is nobody yet to define just what that is.

"Nature is simply taking care of herself." More people are becoming aware; good things are coming together. Sydney Banks is providing a strong motivating force in that direction.

Speaking with a soft Scottish burr in his voice, Sydney Banks has a gift for clarity. His wisdom puts into words, many unexplained realities of life. The knowledge he has found, with the gift of communication, unclouds obvious truths. Syd offers no trips, no confusing complexities. He brings people to a realization. Nothing is forced. There is no

Throughout the ages, humanity has had enlightened men in their midst. Sydney Banks does not claim to have new concepts. He only speaks the truth he knows. On occasion, something he says will be pointed out as a quote from a wise man of bygone times. Syd, not ever having seen the book, merely shrugs his shoulders, saying, "He knew, also"

This gentle man offers simple truths. His manner of speaking seems to open doors. He doesn't profess to hold the keys - the keys are in your own hands. In his unassuming way, he is sharing the self-realization that came to him two years ago.

Sydney Banks is a prophet of modern times. He brings about positive responses. A leader on a pedestal, he is not; and he has no "followers" as such. The people he has reached, merely share the love and truths he conveys.

Sydney Banks is a 44 year old family man. His wife, Barbara, and their children live here on Salt Spring Island. Syd is a former welder. He had no formal education beyond age fourteen. He was not an avid reader of books; he was on no conscious search for the "secrets of life". There is no logical explanation for the enlightenment that came to him, nor is there a need for one. His life has simply reflected the change. People close to him picked up the glow, and it has been spreading ever since.

preaching. When he speaks, he seems to hold a mirror before you. Through his guiding words, he can express truths basic to being. He brings to acknowledgement things so deep-rooted we have become unaware of them. He puts human games into a new light, and possesses the power of understanding and perception that helps people to truly see themselves.

Sydney Banks' recognition is snowballing. He produces a chain-like-reaction. It is not uncommon for 200 people to pass through the Banks' home within three days. His time is becoming more and more in demand. He has been travelling and speaking on Vancouver Island, the outer islands, and on the mainland. People respond with energy. They ask for tapes, writings

Some could remember

It was not the Mayne Island farmers who had the reminiscences of early Mayne Island fairs last week. It was a visitor from another, and larger island.

He remembered the days when Jack James was called on to judge cattle, of which he knew little or nothing. An established judge of produce, Jack was called on to fill in for the expert who failed to appear. Seems to me that Jack could count the number of exhibits but he couldn't cut through them to assess quality.

The time when sheep dog trials were all set, the sheep were brought to the hall by the No. 1 man of the fair, Walter Hunt-Sowrey. At the last minute the sheep got away and the sheep dogs spent a rewarding afternoon herding banties.

Another memory concerned veteran arts judge David Anderson. Having his own section completed, he folded his arms and waited. He was then called on to make an assessment of a number of classes to decide whether the top painting was better than the top photograph or the top product in the crafts section.

Man of Wisdom ?

whatever they can obtain. The gatherings have grown so large a normal-sized home is not adequate. Halls must be rented. Syd has no extra time for his welding profession. Posters have been printed to inform people so that they may share. There are books to be published.

There is one coming in the near future, incidentally, written by a young woman from Salt Spring about the experiences shared through Sydney Banks.

Thus, it has become necessary to set up a Foundation. This non-profit institution will provide a means, establish a base, and cope with legal technicalities.

Sydney Banks is not a spectacular man; he is simply a wise man. A man with the gift of being able to share, teach, and spread this wisdom. His awareness is basic to all of us. He has the insight to be able to make others aware. He appeals to the "innermost".

When the Maharishi visited here a few years back, he made the statement that Salt Spring Island could become the spiritual centre of the world. That could well be... we have Sydney Banks!

UNDER THE ALDERS

On Saturday, August 9, Isobel Curtis and Laurie Birdsall were united in marriage. Chaplin Sandy Hill of the Unitarian Church of Vancouver presided. The ceremony took place in a beautiful alder grove beside the beach on the Saturna property of the David-Elford Holdings Co-op, of which Isobel and Laurie are members.

The wedding vows were written by the bride and groom and rings were exchanged.

Friends and family came from Vancouver for the day.

A reception was held in the pavilion at the orchard. Isobel and Laurie plan a trip to England on August 27 when they will visit Isobel's family.

Info / Health

Today we will continue discussing routine maternity care, and suggest modifications for those living in isolated areas.

Prenatal visits after the first are easier. Your weight and blood pressure will be checked, and a urine specimen will be examined. This is a nuisance, perhaps, but is important. Ask the nurse for a new container for the next time -- I've had specimens presented in everything from perfume bottles to antifreeze cans.

Your doctor will advise about diet and exercise -- generally neither are restricted. Vitamins, if used, are usually started after any morning sickness has passed -- about three months.

Examination of the abdomen will be done with increasing attention as the uterus grows. The baby's heart, the position of the afterbirth, and the way the baby is lying, will be checked. Ask the doctor to let you hear the baby's heartbeat -- now you know you're pregnant! If you hear two heartbeats, start knitting faster!

During each visit, but especially as your due date approaches, your doctor will be

NEWS FROM GALIANO

By W. Liver
E. Steward

The Thrift Shop situated in the Rectory on Burrill Road has been redecorated and enlarged. How about dropping in on Saturdays, 2-4 pm? (Our church needs some new paint). Greatly welcomed are donations of household articles, clothing, furniture, etc. Please phone 539-5554 for off-hour visits. The Galiano Lions report that they made a profit of approximately $2,000 at the Fiesta, which will go towards assisting various international charities. They wish to thank all the local organizations which participated.

A Fire Sale is coming up on August 31 - 2-5 pm at the Fire Hall sponsored by the WA to the SGVFD. There will be lots of paperbacks for sale among other things and coffee will be served.

The new Fire Chief is Don Baker of Twiss Road, who, before he retired to Galiano about three years ago owned the Jo-Marc, a big dragger well known in these waters. His wife Jo is active in the W.A.

Taking the services on Galiano for the past two weeks was Canon Brian Page of St. Barnabas, Victoria who, with his wife Edith, stayed at the Rectory.

A new grandchild for Mrs. L. T. Bellhouse, making it an even dozen. A daughter Jennifer was born to Trish and Leonard at Dawson Creek on August 7.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. D.A. New are seven relatives from Oxford England - Mrs. Phyllis Cadman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ker with their four young daughters, Rachel, Ruth, Alice and Mary. The David News are coming for the week end which makes a big family gathering.

The local Gulf Islands branch 84 of the Royal Canadian Legion would like to have more members from Galiano in particular. Would any interested ex-service people please phone. Hugh MacFarlane at 539-5520. Amongst other things this branch sponsors the inter-island school sports trophies.

Friends of Elisabeth Hopkins will be pleased to hear that she is returning to live on Galiano in October.

Mrs. Anne Deas who now lives at Ganges has taken off for Scotland and England for a month's holiday, her first trip back for 19 years.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Frewer of Montague announce the engagement of their only daughter Lorraine to Al Hornby of Edmonton. The wedding will take place next February.

CLUBHOUSE NOTES Golf & Country Club

BY PAT DOHERTY

Several weeks ago our ladies' team had the temerity to win their first and only match of the season against the ladies from Nanaimo.

They learned the folly of their rashness when they travelled to Nanaimo to play the return match two weeks ago. The ladies from the island course thrashed the local lasses twenty to one. As they say, Hell hath no fury like a ladies' team that is defeated by a team from Salt Spring!

There was no play again this week in the men's No. 1

In the mixed No. 1, holders Joy Tuckey and Malcolm Robertson successfully held off the challenge of Dorothy and Gordon Kennedy.

At the tenth hole Malcolm was feeling pretty happy with himself when he got an eagle three. However, his joy was shortlived when Dorothy picked up a birdie four, and with her stroke allowance tied him for the hole.

Jean Jefferies passed the second of golfing milestones last week when she broke 90 for the first time, with a fine 88.

The first golfing milestone is when a golfer first breaks a hundred. One of the top international golf magazines has stated that only ten per cent of all the people in the world who play golf ever break 100. So to break 90 is a real accomplishment. Mind you, the next milestone, breaking 80 is a wee bit tougher. However congratulations Jean, and when you break 80 it will be headlined in the Driftwood!

Playoffs are going along smoothly in the Parsons Cup, with a few surprising results.

Juniors are reminded that play is continuing every Monday at 5 P.M. until school commences, and any junior who is a member or whose parents are members may join in at any time.

The big Salt Spring Invitational Open takes place next week end and there have been some complaints from the people who are running the B.C. Open on the same week end that we have drawn all the big names to our tournament. But really, who

CLAMBAKE RAISES 3,000 CLAMS

It was the helpers and the people who attended who made an overwhelming success of the Fulford Clambake.

President Roy Lee and other members of the Fulford Hall Committee were loud in their gratitude.

"Without the helpers and the visitors our success would not have been possible," said Lee.

In the weeks preceding the big day, clams were dug for the chowder and the pit; oysters were gathered and the park grounds were prepared. The pit was dug and lined with rocks, and wood and sea weed were gathered to garnish it.

The problems of organizing a beer garden were doubled this year due to the strike. A "beer brigade" was organized and many people dutifully purchased their two-case allotment and turned it over to the hall committee.

Trying to determine the amount of food and the dishes to serve it on proves an interesting task when the number of arriving guests and the weather conditions are unknown factors.

Approximately 2,000 people poured through the gates and proceeded to eat their way through dozens of ears of the first corn on the cob of the season; gallons and gallons of clam chowder and slices of watermelon.

There was great interest as would want to be in Vancouver when they could be on Salt Spring?

Barry and his hardworking grounds crew have been hard at work getting the course in the best possible shape for the big event. There have been several complaints from members at the inconveniences they had to put up with in the process of getting the course in top notch condition. However, go to any golf course where they are holding their biggest event of the season, and you will hear exactly the same complaints.

In order to make a success of the tournament, helpers are needed as fore caddies, scorekeepers etc. and if you can spare the time please contact Dave Nisbet, J. Jeffrey, Al Whorley, or J. Fraser, and they will remember you in their prayers. It may be those extra few petitions that will get you through the pearly gates.

NEW COURSE ON RELIGIONS IS OFFERED

World religions course, conceived and designed locally, has been approved by the board of trustees of Gulf Islands School District. Course was prepared when trustees signified their approval of course on religion, offering a broad picture of comparative religions.

Course is offered on an optional basis and no student is required to take it.

people watched the salmon barbecuing on the enormous grill.

Further down the beach, many stood and watched as the cover was rolled back from the large pit of local clams and oysters.

Children enjoyed kool-aid, candy and novelties as well as the races. Refreshments for the day ranged from coffee to beer and cider, served in the beer garden. To go with the coffee were home made donuts.

Hot dogs were cooked and served by a hard working crew and enjoyed by hundreds. Music poured forth from the stage during the festivities.

The not profit this year was approximately $3,000 and will be used for further development of Drummond Park and to maintain and improve the Fulford Hall.

SEWER APPEAL IS WITHDRAWN

Campbell said that it became clear during discussions on the matter that the Pollution Control Board would not consider any modification of the Capital Regional District sewage treatment proposal for Ganges until the Regional District withdraws its application for an appeal.

"The Coulthard treatment system is an experimental method and for security reasons it might be necessary to install it parallel to a proven system," Campbell said.

"This means, of course, that the entire cost of the experimental portion of the system should be borne by a federal or provincial agency rather than by the residents of such a small community as Ganges," he said.

Campbell said a collection system and a means of disposing of the effluent would be needed, regardless of how the sewage is treated.

The Ganges committee had referred to land disposal, an extended outfall to deeper water, and higher levels of treatment as possible alternatives to the Coulthard method of treatment.

Campbell hoped, however, that the community would not expect big returns from sale of the end product of such a plant. He also expressed the hope that islanders would not make too high a demand concerning the chemical quality of effluent.

"The bacteriological quality of effluent is an important consideration," said Campbell, "but the removal of nutrients such as phosphates and nitrates is irrelevant in terms of their possible detrimental effect upon sea water, having regard for the extremely small amount that would be produced."

The prime need is to assure a better quality of effluent and this may be achieved through some form of filtration after treatment, he added.

THEY WANT TO FLY AGAIN

Familiar sight in Ganges Harbour last year was the arrival of the Saturna high school students who regularly flew backwards and forwards between Saturna and Salt Spring.

Bart Scruggs, veteran pilot, used his own plane to bring the students to Ganges, often making two trips each way.

The Gulf Islands School Board arranged a transportation allowance for the students to meet part of the costs involved.

Saturna parents are asking for more of the same treatment this year. Last week they wrote to Chairman Charles Baltzer pressing for confirmation of the board's assistance in maintaining the service into the coming school year.

Following is a copy of the letter sent to the chairman, the minister of education and Hugh Curtis, MLA.

We, the parents of Saturna whose children will be attending school in Ganges, demand that the School Board enter immediately into a contract to secure the daily air transportation of our children to Ganges, as initiated and subsidized by us last year. The attitudes of the children have improved, home life is happier and school grades are much improved over marks made while boarding. Daily transportation was better in every way.

Knowing that you are so receptive and responsive to our needs, we are somewhat confused by your delay in attending to this matter.

Yours truly,
Ted and Bari Elliott,
John and Shirley Money,
Bill and Irene Lawson,
Tom and Marjorie Davidson
Bart and Lorene Scruggs.

He Can't See Much Love

BY FRANK RICHARDS

They will know that we are Christians by our Love, she sang.

And I wondered.

If I find a group of people genuinely concerned about other people's well-being, I figure they must be hippies or freaks. Nobody else has the time.

You can tell they are Christians.....

I wouldn't make any bets.

Take any group of churchgoers. But don't take them far, they'll probably prove too quarrelsome.

We all see them. We see them in church and we see them out of church, but first you've got to figure out what love is. If it consists of helping the Almighty put his finger on the deadbeats, then most Christians are right there.

But if it means showing help and particularly compassion.....look again!

Over the years, I have found more Christians than love. I reckon they just don't make enough to go round. But if I was in trouble and looking for help I would have to pause a long time and figure where and who to go to.

I don't mean ministers, although I have met some pretty un-Christian ministers of all denominations. The majority are warmer and more helpful and more aware of love for their fellows than are a lot of their fellows.

If I needed help in a hurry I'd look to the Legion or the service clubs first.

The Legion is leaning towards the uptight, but if a veteran needs help the Legion doesn't stop to ask whether he's a nice fellow. They might hate my guts, but the rest of the men who once marched under the same, or similar, flag will come a-running to help.

And perhaps that isn't love; but it's help for a fellow human being.

Then the service clubs.

A man and his family lose their house and their possessions tonight. Tomorrow there'll be a cheque from the Lions Club and a member of the Rotary Club at the gate to see what's needed. That's why they call them service clubs. They aim to serve the community and that's anybody who needs help.

Sure enough, if I look like something out of ancient history and I conform to no known conventions, they might look sideways at me. But they'll offer a helping hand first.

Some church groups are right there. Majority could be, but aren't very often.

"They will know that we are Christians by our Love....."

Who knows?

In my own business I know from long and sometimes bitter experience that a mistake in connection with a report on most organizations means you take a beating next time you see them. But make a mistake in connection with a church group: any church; and you realize you've committed the eighth, ninth and tenth deadly sins! I have to admit I can't tell a Christian by his love. Does that mean there's something wrong with me?

But don't get me wrong. I know a lot of Christians who fit right into the words of the song and they stand out like a sore thumb.

CONCERT PARTY ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Elsie Thacker entertained in her home on Wednesday, Aug. 13.

The guests were all members of the Salt Spring Old Age Pensioners Organization concert party and all arrived in costume.

The guest of honor was Mrs. Darel Foard of Guernsey, Channel Isles, at present staying with her mother, Mrs. D.

M. Jones.

After a smorgasbord luncheon, pictures were taken, and then followed an hour of old fashioned songs.

Mrs. Foard will leave the island, August 20 to spend some time in Brighton, England, before returning to her home.

WHAT'S HE DOING AT MAYNE ISLAND?

Jack James is judging produce just like he does every year.

Boarding Help is Increased

Boarding assistance for students from the Outer Islands attending Salt Spring Island or other schools has been augmented.

The maximum rate is now $75 a month, payable by the school district to those parents whose children must live away from home during the school week.

It is a sharable cost inasmuch as the $75 is split between the school district and the department of education.

TO OFFER STRAW VOTE ON PARKS

Fresh water parks are under discussion again. Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce has been looking at St. Mary Lake for many months. The chamber is looking for a fresh water park on the lake, where residents and visitors may swim or launch small boats. Gerry Haarbrucker has been the driving force behind the proposal.

On Monday evening he told his fellow directors that the provincial government has declined to help in the acquisition of land for the purpose. The parks branch has a major commitment at Beaver Point, he told the Chamber and it is planned to spend several hundreds of thousands of dollars in the next several years. The branch will not look at any other site on the island.

Parks branch had recommended that the Chamber look to the Capital Regional District, he explained. He had approached Regional Director George Heinekey who reported that the island could undertake to enter the parks acquisition scheme of the region.

No referendum would be necessary, Heinekey told the meeting, taking up the tale from Haarbrucker. It would merely require his vote at a region meeting. Without the assurances of islanders that they wanted parks and park facilities here, he would not be prepared to offer that support, he warned the Chamber. The regional director suggested that if Driftwood were prepared to publish a straw vote he would be guided by its results.

This procedure was used, he recalled, when there was dispute on the island over the minimum lot size in watershed areas. A ballot was published and the results of the unofficial vote were used as his guide.

The Chamber of Commerce is advocating the acquisition of a small piece of land on the lake to provide facilities for bathing and to take the pressure off the public access near Blue Gables. The Chamber may sponsor the straw vote. No firm commitment was made.

Grants Elude Islander

The latest grants made under the terms of the Community Recreational Facilities Fund totalled $2,353,775.85, Jack Radford, minister of recreation and conservation announced on August 1. Benefiting from the grants are 86 projects planned or underway in 60 communities throughout the Province.

Not benefitting are the two projects sought in the Islands. In making the announcement, Mr. Radford added that an additional $2,088,935.30 had been tentatively approved for 27 projects pending completion of administrative work.

Announcement shows that Saanich and the Islands did not fare very well in this allocation of grants, commented Hugh Curtis, MLA.

"We wish to advise you that applications from the following agencies within your electoral district have now been adjudicated with the following results," wrote Recreation and Conservation Minister Jack Radford.

"District of Saanich, library $196,666.67, deferred; Saturna Lions Club, community playground, tennis courts, playing field, $5,000, deferred; and Y.W.C.A. of Vancouver, re-Camp Yawaca on Salt Spring Island, rebuild burnt-out cabin, add shower and washroom facilities, rebuild cabin floors, $4,869, deferred."

"One can only speculate as to the reason for deferral in each instance; however, I am going to pursue this question with the minister within the next few days," said Curtis.

GANGES FIGHTS NOISE

Residents of Ganges Harbour are protesting the noise of aircraft in the narrow waterway.

Regional Director George Heinekey told Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce on Monday night that a petition was being circulated calling on the Capital Regional District to press the proper authorities for tighter controls.

Petitioners seek a directive that aircraft taking off from Ganges Harbour should taxi further down the harbour, to reduce the engine noise as they take off.

Harbour is used by various planes at all times. Scheduled services into Ganges are maintained by Victoria Flying Services Ltd.

More Views on Lakes and Water

BY MIKE LARMOUR

Lately, there has been considerable interest expressed in our lakes - these lakes which are so beautiful, complex, and so vital to our community. During our recent proposal for a 10-acre minimum lot size in the watershed areas of Salt Spring, Salt Spring SPEC investigated a number of physical, chemical and biological characteristics of the lakes. Some of this information follows, in the hope that it will be of interest to the reader.

SOURCE OF THE WATER
Precipitation from the atmosphere reaching the soil surface is disposed of by surface run-off; groundwater run-off (interflow); deep percolation; storage; and evaporation and plant transpiration.

The first three of these can, and do, contribute to eutrophication by providing pathways of nutrient movement to the lakes and streams. Water that does not run off or evaporate infiltrates the soil.

Some of this water percolates into deeper layers, eventually joining groundwater, and many lakes and streams receive a major part of their water from groundwater flows. Part of the water that enters the soil drains downslope, to reappear at a lower elevation as surface water or seepage. The velocity of groundwater movement may vary from as little as one foot per year to several miles per month.

The volume of water that falls in the drainage basin of St. Mary Lake is considerable.

Our average annual rainfall is 33 inches, with about 16 inches lost from evapotranspiration, leaving 17 inches for runoff and groundwater supplies.

Over the drainage basin area of 2.2 sq. miles for St. Mary's, this could amount to approximately 490 million gallons.

Part of this runs off through Duck Creek during the winter and spring. We have only partial figures on runoff through the creek, but an estimate of 375 million gallons per year appears reasonable. It takes about 10 years, therefore, for the entire volume of the lake (14,460 ac. ft.) to be "flushed". Parts of the lake will take much longer to flush. Thus, the overwhelming evidence is that the lake is supplied rainfall, either by surface runoff or by groundwater runoff and deep percolation (which may enter the lake in the form of springs).

EFFECTS OF MAN

Therefore, it is important to realize that man's activities over the entire watershed area can seriously affect the quality of the water draining into the lake, and the quality of the lake water, too.

Some of the activities are sewage disposal, use of phosphate detergents, agriculture, land clearing and road building. Septic tanks, for instance discharge nitrates and phosphates, the two major nutrients for algae growth. Nitrogen, in the form of nitrates and ammonium is extremely soluble in water, and a high percentage will reach the lake, even through deep percolation over a long distance. Soluble phosphates are more likely to be carried to the lake by surface runoff.

The amounts of these nutrients that can cause undesirable growths of algae are extremely small, measured in parts per billion or, at most, a few parts per million of lake water. It has been estimated that sewage, per capita, contains enough nutrients to grow 550 lbs. of algae, under ideal conditions in one year.

St. Mary Lake has a rich and varied growth of microscopic algae - diatoms, blue-green, and green algae.

In the spring, Asterionella formosa is a dominant diatom, and small amounts of it can give an earthy odour, followed by a fishy odour for larger amounts.

At times during the summer, bluegreen algae (such as Anabaena) seem to predominate and these can give a grassy odour in small amounts, followed by a "pig pen" odour in larger amounts.

The presence of bluegreen algae in a lake is considered by limnologists to be an indication of an enriched state. That is, too many nutrients are entering the lake, especially from the point of view of drinking water quality.

Bluegreen algae, given sufficient phosphorus, can quickly develop into massive blooms (dense growths of algae), partly because they are not edible to small animal life in the lake.

One of the best indicators of what is happening to a lake is the changes in species and amounts of algae in a lake. This is currently being studied by the Water Investigations Branch, at SPEC's request.

WATER QUALITY

A number of factors can influence domestic water quality, chiefly pathogenic (disease causing) organisms, turbidity, colour, pH, dissolved oxygen, dissolved salts, suspended solids and taste and odour.

The Lake's water in terms of taste and odour certainly is not ideal - and if more nutrients are added through man's activities in the watershed, this problem will get worse.

In terms of turbidity and suspended solids, the only measurements we have that can be used for comparison purpose are Secchi disk meas-

With DRIFTWOOD

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

The parks committee of the Chamber of Commerce has now established three picnic sites: one at the head of Ganges Harbour, half way between the Anglican Church and Harbour House on Lower Ganges Rd.; another at the head of Fernwood Wharf; and the other 200 yards down Isabella Rd. from the head of Fulford Harbour. The next picnic site will be at Beaver Point on the Ruckle Estate, where a permanent masonry-type stove will be constructed.

Nearly 80 people gathered at "Shady Acres" on Cusheon Lake last Wednesday for a picnic sponsored by the Liberal Association of Salt Spring Island.

You can't disguise your feelings when you put a lot of your relatives on the ferry for home.

TEN YEARS AGO

August 15 marked the 98th birthday of Mrs. Marie Stark Wallace who resides with her daughter Mrs. Myrtle Holloman, on Walker Hook Road near Fernwood Wharf. Mrs. Wallace is the oldest native born Salt Spring Islander and it is believed the senior citizen of the community.

Scott Clarke, one of many disappointed fishing enthusiasts around these parts this year, tells the fish story this year. It seems he hooked one of the scarce salmon out off Chocolate Island and as he was reeling it in, it flopped off the hook just as a bald eagle swooped down on it. Instead of getting the salmon, the eagle picked up the lure in his beak but fortunately for everyone concerned didn't get hooked. It finally dropped the line. Scott is prepared to take an oath on it.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Ganges is approaching the point where it is likely to drown in its own discharges. Every year has brought an increasing odour of filth around the harbour. This year the odour of Ganges has rivalled that of the Gorge.

A THOUGHT OF YOU

The weary, old world is sleeping,
All Nature is sunk to rest;
Only the night birds peeping
The last farewell to the west,
A hush hangs over the hillside;
The rush of the day is through;
But alone, I wait in silence,
Alone with a thought of you!

The busy day soon is waking;
The dark turns slowly to gay Dawn's curtains reveal the light breaking;
To tell the coming of day;
The feathered songsters are soaring,
Far up from a nest of dew;
But to me the birds and morning
Bring only a thought of you!

Salt Spring Island May Queen Maureen Gurney will be Miss Salt Spring Island when she takes part in the P.N.E. parade on Saturday.

urements (a rough measurement of the clarity of the water). The St. Mary's measurement of 5.57 meters (8/6/73) contrasts with a typical measurement of about 20 meters for clear, cold, glacier-fed mountain lakes.

Ph varies with the season and depth, from slightly acid to slightly alkaline, hovering around neutral, and indicating typical conditions of a well buffered, medium water bicarbonate lake.

Dissolved salts levels are also quite low, and very acceptable for domestic water.

We understand that the levels of heavy metals have recently been analysed by the Water Investigations Branch and are very low.

Dissolved oxygen levels on the surface are around 9.00 mg/l or saturation level. However, during the summer and fall, St. Mary's Lake develops two distinct layers which do not mix.

The upper layer (epilimnion), about 20 feet deep, supports plant and animal life, and has a high dissolved oxygen content, generally. The lower layer (hypolimnion) has little or no dissolved oxygen, due to bacterial action decomposing organic matter, and the lack of circulation with surface waters. This means that during summer and fall this layer can support little life.

Oxygen levels in the lake are a cause for concern, and this will become a more serious problem with increasing development around the lake.

The mechanism whereby a lake "turns over" in the fall is, of course, well known. As mentioned earlier, during the summer the lake forms two layers, the top being much warmer than the bottom, due to the influence of the sun and air. During late fall, the cold weather rapidly cools the surface layer below the temperature of the deeper water. The colder, surface layer is heavier, and sinks, thus causing turbulence and mixing.

ISLAND WATER AND THE FACTORS BEARING ON CONDITIONS IN ST. MARY LAKE AS PUBLIC INTEREST IN SUPPLIES INCREASES

On the subject of pathogenic (disease causing) organisms, our knowledge is far from complete. This being the case, the only sensible course is to be very cautious.

To our knowledge, only one partial study has been done of coliform counts on the lake itself, and it disclosed total coliform counts of 93, 4 and 9 at three separate parts of the lake.

After chlorination this count may be reduced to zero, as required by health authorities. However, there are concerns about the effect of chlorine on human health. Viruses are not totally killed by normal levels of chlorination, nor is their presence detected by routine coliform counts.

Individually, septic tanks may meet health department standards, but collectively, they may add enough nutrients and disease-causing organisms from runoff to endanger the lake.

In conclusion, we must learn from the experience of other communities who have allowed their water supplies to deteriorate. Limnologists agree that prevention of eutrophication is very important because correction measures are extremely difficult.

St. Mary's Lake is already verging on the eutrophic state, so it would be most unwise to let it get worse. Both the Department of Lands, Forests and Water Resources and the Capital Regional District (Technical Planning Committee and Health Department) have demonstrated their concerns by supporting SPEC's request for a minimum 10-acre lot size in the watershed areas.

We appreciate the public's support of SPEC in our concerns over water quality. Currently, we are studying the possibility of using ozone to replace chlorination (it can remove taste and odour and is more effective against viruses). We have also learned of a simple addition to a septic tank system that can remove up to 80% of the phosphorus - equivalent to the best tertiary systems. The problems are complex, and the decisions we make today not only affect ourselves but future generations, as well.

Clearly, on the basis of what we do know now, one of the most important steps to take is to look very closely at any and all development in our watershed areas.

A MIRACLE IS OCCURRING
on Salt Spring Island! An enlightened man has appeared on the island and is sharing his wisdom with all who seek the freedom of true peace, tranquility, love and understanding in their lives. An enlightened man is one who has directly realized or experienced the truth about all mankind: that we are each a conscious centre in an infinite sea of energy
we call the universe or God;
that our true nature is God,
Sydney Banks is an enlightened man. His teachings are transforming the lives of all who hear him. Marriages long full of frustration and boredom have miraculously turned into intensely joyful relationships.
Children have changed from noisy irritating hindrances to calm, beautiful wise wee people full of laughter, joy and health. Such complaints as migraine headaches, allergies, back problems, hypertension and eyestrain have disappeared.
All of us have become more beautiful, healthier, energetic and more loving. Sydney Banks lives on Salt Spring Island. He is here and available now to show all of us the way to experience truth directly. His words have the power to turn the lives of all who hear him into a literal paradise! Everyone has the opportunity to hear this beautiful man and share in the music and joy of his wisdom this Saturday, August 23 at Beaver Point Hall at 7 pm. 32-1

Letting you know what will happen during labour and delivery. Knowing what to expect will make this easier for you. Prenatal classes, if available, are also very helpful in answering this, and other questions about your pregnancy. If you have any particular concerns, discuss them with your doctor. Remember, he has delivered many mothers and knows his job. Trust him and respect his judgment.

The above represents the "ideal", and some cheating can be done, if necessary. Early visits can be six weeks apart, without undue danger. Your doctor's schedule may allow him to see you on short notice if you are in town between appointments, saving a special trip. In extreme cases (say having to charter a plane to make the visit) urine testing and weight recording can be done at home. Your husband can be taught to take your blood pressure, and you can be told what to watch for.

I would, however, make every effort to move into town for the last four or five weeks. Most serious obstetrical problems occur during this time, and at delivery. The rapid availability of medical help, and the associated peace of mind would be, in my opinion, worth the added expense.

DO-IT-YOURSELF PROJECT FOR MAYNE SCHOOL ADDITION

Middle School, the board of trustees decided to play it safe. The new construction was undertaken by the school district. Last week, when the trustees met at Mayne Island they were told that the addition is on schedule. Pictures show the rapidly growing island school.

TWO BOARDS DEBATE TRANSFER

Trustees of Gulf Islands School District met with representatives of Saanich School District this week to discuss the problems and loopholes of Pender Island students attending Saanich schools.

Number of parents on Pender Island have advocated the scheme in order that their children may take secondary school courses commuting daily and relying on the BC Ferries for transportation.

Costs and other problems were threshed out between the two boards.

When Mayne Island School was extended the construction project dragged out for a year. This summer the trustees of Gulf Islands School District fired the contractors and engaged a second firm to complete the job.

When a further room proved necessary to house the new

ART CRAFT FOLDS LABOUR DAY

Art-Craft 75, the most successful summer show since its founding, will remain open to the public through the Labour Day week end.

More than 80 exhibitors have participated in the display this year; new and original items are added daily. Pender Island artists recently added new samples of their work.

Exhibitors will be notified in next week's Driftwood concerning the times for them to pick up remaining articles once the show has closed.

Meanwhile, Art-Craft 75 is open daily in Mahon Hall from noon to five. Admission is free to CAC members and a small charge is made for non-members.
