Tom Sawyer comes to life at Ganges

BY TONY RICHARDS

The presentation of Tom Sawyer by the Salt Spring Elementary School last week was very well done.

The parts were well-played and the lines well-learned by this group of very capable young actors.

Those involved in the production of the play had obviously put a lot of time into it. Apart from the cast of 20, there were 15 others who worked behind the scenes to make the play what it was.

The sets, made under the direction of Katie Keinast, were excellent, and so were the costumes, for which Sharon Popowich was responsible. And the play would probably have not been produced were it not for the effort on the part of producer and director, Reid Collins, who also accompanied the 19-member chorus on the piano.

I have never been fond of musicals, but this play was an exception. There were enough selections sung by the chorus to keep the play going, but not enough to make it a wholly musical, instead of theatrical, production.

TWAIN WOULD, TOO

I have only one criticism to make and that concerns enunciation. The play was difficult to follow in a few places because some of the lines weren't spoken clearly enough. This was especially the case when it was necessary for the lines to be shouted. But that is only minor when you consider the age and experience of these players.

I'm sure that most of the 100-odd people who saw the play on Friday night would agree that they spent a very pleasant hour and a half at Mahon Hall. And I think if Mark Twain had had the opportunity to be there also, he too would have been most pleased with the Elementary School presentation.

Six awards are won by Weaver's Guild

The Pacific Northwest Weavers Conference was held at the University of Victoria last weekend and the Salt Spring Island Weavers' Guild won six awards.

The tapestry illustrated in last week's Driftwood received an award for excellence of design. A handspun rug, another group project, won two ribbons, one for artistic excellence and the other for technical excellence (workmanship and finishing).

Josie Clement won two awards with her rug of unspun island wool: one for artistic excellence and the other as the 'Judges' Choice'.

Seven hundred weavers attended the conference. 30 Guilds exhibited their work in separate booths and Salt Spring Island was awarded an Honourable Mention.

The Handweavers' Guild of America took photographs of the tapestry for their records and possible publication at a later date.

The next conference will take place in two years' time at Spokane.

First ever brings newsmen to Salt Spring Island for three-day meet

First ever on Salt Spring Island, last week's spring convention of British Columbia and Yukon Community Newspapers Association justified the preparations.

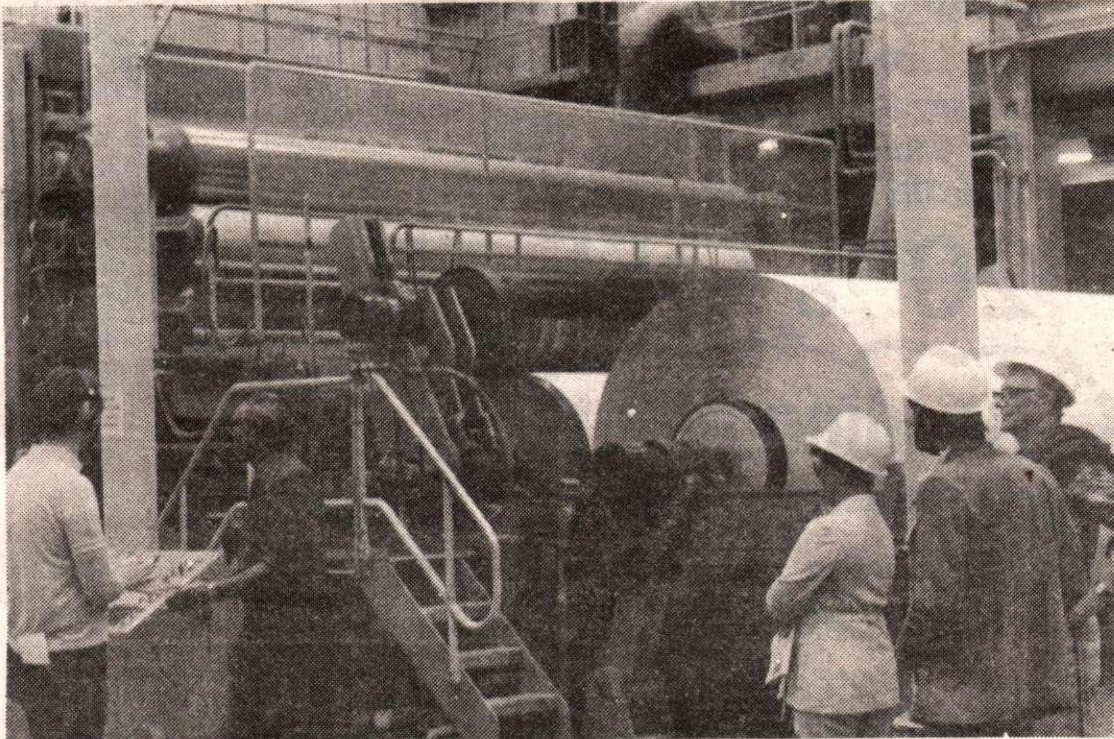

Some 60 newsmen and their wives gathered at Harbour House Hotel to meet socially and to pursue their deliberations in connection with association business.

The weather was delightful and delegates left the island on Saturday full of praise for the island and the island people and for the convention held in such holiday surroundings.

They came from near and far. There were delegates from Toronto and the Yukon as well as most parts of British Columbia.

Phil Stannard, of the Campbell River Courier, summed up the three-day gathering on Saturday when he expressed the warm appreciation of the delegates for the welcome they had received from every resident of the island they had met.

First arrivals were on the island on Wednesday, when Dennis Stanley and his family from the Arrow Lakes News flew in to Gordon Cudmore's airstrip at Fulford.

On Thursday afternoon the party visited the pulp mill at Crofton when B.C. Forest Products demonstrated the manufacture of the raw materials of the business.

On Thursday evening the delegates visited Frank and Barbara Richards, of Driftwood and enjoyed a buffet supper as guests of Nippon Kokan Company. Rita Dods and her associates prepared supper.

POTTERY FOR WIVES

Friday was devoted to the business of the association, while the visiting wives were given a practical demonstration of pottery at the home, and kiln, of Maggie Schubart.

Many of the participants took home a Raku pot they had potted there.

Dinner at Salt Spring Island Golf Club rounded out Friday, after sightseeing tour of the island and a fishing tour of the harbour waters. Neither party caught any fish.

The convention concluded its business on Saturday morning and by midday many were already speeding on their way.

The end of the road came on Sunday as the final participants had to bow to the calendar and leave the island ready to be in their respective offices on Monday morning.

The entire gathering was unstinting in its praise of the island catering staffs and the friendliness of the island people.

Flower Festival on Sunday

Seven Salt Spring Island churches will be specially decorated with flowers on June 19, Flower Festival Sunday.

This popular event, initiated some years ago by the Salt Spring Island Garden Club, has been adopted by the local churches as part of their June activities.

All churches will be open for visitors throughout Sunday afternoon and evening. The public are invited to attend and sign the guest register in each church.

Churches participating are: the Community Gospel on Drake Road, Our Lady of Grace Roman Catholic on Drake Road, Ganges United on Hereford Avenue, St. George's Anglican on Lower Ganges Road, St. Mark's Anglican on North End Road, St. Mary's Anglican and St. Paul's Roman Catholic at Fulford.

Trust gives green light to by-laws

Two rezoning by-laws were approved by the Salt Spring Island Trust Committee at a meeting of the Trust at Ganges last Saturday.

Rezoning from rural residential to Commercial 1 of a property adjacent to the Legion Hall on Hereford Avenue in Ganges was approved. Property belongs to Joyce Bowden-Baker and a crafts supply store is being planned for it.

Rezoning from commercial to rural residential of a lot at Scott Point was also approved. Owner of the property is Reg Taylor.

Saturna getting closer

It's getting close to Dominion Day and the Saturna Lamb Barbecue, both of which come on July 1. Unlike many holidays of the year, Dominion Day is marked on the calendar day and not on the nearest convenient Monday.

This year it falls on a Friday. Saturna farmers are fattening their lambs for the big feast of roast lamb and other attractions.

The cooks are sharpening their knives and setting up the ironwork which supports the cooking whole lambs.

Attendance is expected to exceed previous years if the weather continues as June has started.

The day's events on Saturna Beach, are scheduled to start at 11 am, with the lamb barbecue to be served at 2.30 pm.

Golf for beginners at Ganges

Len MacDonald, golf pro at the Salt Spring Island Golf Club, will be offering lessons through Continuing Education on Tuesday afternoons, starting June 28.

Clubs will be provided for those who need them.

Mr. MacDonald, retired from 25 years service in the Navy, is a member of the Gorge Vale Golf Club in Victoria. His wife and daughter will soon be joining him on Salt Spring.

The meeting was held at the school for the first time. Desks were a bit small for us older folk but brought nostalgic memories of our own school days.

Refreshments were served by the Saturna ladies and enjoyed by all. Thanks from the other members for the hospitality.

Men's softball fields seven teams

As Cablevision stands at top of league

The Salt Spring Recreational Softball League is well under way.

This year there are seven teams entered, compared with five, last year and three, the year before.

The season began with the May Day Tournament won by the Fulford Salties. Placing second was the Salt Spring Cablevision.

Teams entered in the league are Salt Spring Cablevision, Dagwood's Deli, Legg's Gang, Bill's Engine Repairs, Ganges All Stars (G.A.S.), Kitchen's and Police.

Fulford has decided to play exhibition games against some teams and to place a great emphasis on off-island games. The league schedule will last through the summer until the end of August.

In games played during the last week Bill's upset the Police 14-11 and lost to Cablevision 20-3. Cablevision defeated Kitchens 11-3 with Mike Sutherland hitting two home runs. Cablevision knocked over the Ganges All-Stars, with Brian Logan getting a pair of home runs.

Legg's Gang defeated Dagwoods by a score of 17-4 with the pitching of Don Perkins and Cliff Hatch being the major difference.

Legg's rolled over Bill's by a score of 37-2. Jay Bourdin hits two home runs and Gary Hartwig and Randy Howard collected seven and six hits respectively. David Woodley looked sharp at shortstop.

Despite a seven-inning rally in which Dagwood's scored nine runs, the Ganges All-Stars held on for a 15-12 victory.

Pioneers of Salt Spring Island

The Collins family arrived on Salt Spring in 1894, farmed various properties and served the island in many capacities. In addition, the family was known for their grand collection of antiques, many of which still remain on the island.

One day in early 1917 on their way to feed the sheep at the family farm at Ganges, the brothers spotted cougar tracks and returned home to gather dogs and guns. They tracked the cougar in the snow and located it within 100 yards of their sheep. The cougar, when shot, was estimated to be five years of age, weighed over 200 pounds and measured an even eight feet, tip to tip.

Ernest Collins took up taxidermy as a hobby. Today the cougar is still on Salt Spring, and looks as he did in 1917 - thanks to Ernest.

We at Mouat's hope that the readers of the Driftwood are appreciating our series of photos. As you are probably aware, we will be producing an album shortly portraying these wonderful old days and great families that have made our Gulf Islands what they are today.

Photos loaned to us will be copied and the originals returned to the donor. Thanks again for your co-operation and trust. This album will commemorate Mouat's 70th Anniversary.

Please phone John Lees at 537-2292 or Dick Toynbee at 537-5537, both of Ganges.

NEWS FROM GALIANO

The two-week swimming lessons for Galiano School are well underway, thanks to the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Hall Tingley. Everyone is having a great time and making rapid progress under the careful instruction of Cathy Buttery and Marie Hardy.

The co-operation of Gwen Granick, Margaret Howell, Susan Friend, Winnie Liver, Lorna Tweedale and the weather is much appreciated.

Prizes were awarded on Tuesday, at a morning assembly, for the Historical Essay Contest sponsored by the Gulf Islands Branch of the B.C. Historical Society.

The contest was for all of the outer islands so we are extra proud of our winners who were: Colleen Crocker, first for Grades 6-7; John Stafford, second for Grades 4-5; Bob Wilson and Kathy Baines, honourable mention.

Many students submitted interesting essays and we all learned a great deal about the early days of Galiano.

Oh! my aching back!

by LORNE SILVEY

On Tuesday, May 31, the Grade 5, 6, and 7 students of Galiano started on their hiking and back-packing trip along the beach from Porlier Pass Marina to Cable Bay.

The school bus took us up to the North End.

We walked through the trail to Coon Bay. There we ate our lunch and also filled our containers full of water. There wasn't supposed to be any water until we got to Cable Bay, but we found a couple of fresh water streams.

From Coon Bay, Angela and Lis took a wrong turn and got lost. Brad and I went along the beach to look for them. We didn't find them because they were in the woods just a little way away from the rest of the group.

We set up our tents under the trees. It rained all the time, but it was still fun.

The next day we started out for Cable Bay. After a while of walking Jenny noticed that she had left her PJ's back at the campsite, so she ran all the way back to get them.

A while after that we spotted a back pack lying on the beach about 100 yards away from us. When we got there Grant saw two legs sticking up from underneath the pack. We pulled the pack off and found Adrian under it. He had fallen down and couldn't get up because his pack weighed a lot.

We finally reached Cable Bay and set up our tents in the field. That night, after a game of soccer with the ball we had carefully carried all the way, there was a lot of singing, not very good, but still it was singing.

The next morning was warm and sunny, just like Wednesday. We went along to Pebble Beach to look for agates, returned to the camp for lunch, then packed up and hiked out to catch the bus at one o'clock.

Saturna and Galiano take part

Winners are named in historical essay contest

by CLARE McALLISTER

There were eight entries from Saturna Island and 11 from Galiano Island in the recent Gulf Islands Historical Essay Contest.

Among these were ten entries from students in grades 4 and 5, and nine entries from those in grades 6 and 7.

The overall standard of entries was very good. The reader was especially impressed with the capacity of even the youngest students to present their material in logical sequence, with a clearly ordered beginning, middle and end.

The young writers had been diligent in research, using written material and local islanders as sources. Pride in family, pride in one's island, delight in the eccentricities and strength of the pioneers, were beautifully sought out, and delightfully put down.

A boy who can write, "My father's grandparents watched Vancouver burn (from Galiano Island) and rowed over to see the remains", surely has a living sense of history. The reader can learn a good deal about the past from the work of the student essayists. They see clearly that the past has contributed to the present in island life: notably in a pattern of co-operation among neighbours.

It was difficult to choose among so many good entries. An industrious search for material and an interesting choice of topic, have carried weight with the reader... indeed they have weighed more heavily than perfection in spelling or handwriting!

Regrettably, no scholars from Mayne or Pender Islands entered the contest.

Here are the winning essays: Grades 4 and 5: Jimmy Money, "Saturna Cemetery", first; John Stafford, "Herring Salteries on Galiano", second.

Grades 6 and 7: Colleen Crocker, "History of Galiano", first; Lana Corkill, "History of Saturna Community Hall", second.

Bobby Wilson's "Tales of Galiano", Kathy Baines' "Nana's Dollhouse" and Erin Boser's "Place Names on Saturna" received honourable mention.

The Saturna Cemetery

by Jimmy Money, Grade 4

In the early days, when some people died, they had to send them to town. But it cost too much money, so the people of Saturna decided to build a graveyard so they wouldn't have to pay a lot of money.

It was built about twenty years ago by the community. The graveyard is situated in the middle of the island on the land used for the site of the first schoolhouse on Saturna. They picked that place because the soil is easy to dig and most of the island is rocky.

When George Copeland was 91 years old, he dug 91 post holes, one for each birthday and on each birthday after that he put in another post hole. He put in eleven more posts. The graveyard is run by a committee of the Community Club. Plots cost $5.00 apiece and any money they get from the plots is used for maintenance. The plots are dug by volunteers. A plot is a small piece of land big enough for a coffin.

There are some interesting stories about the graveyard. Once there was a man who picked the hardest place to dig because he didn't like the people on Saturna and he wanted the people to have a hard time digging his grave. Then, after all that he got buried in the city. Two other people bought their plots side by side because they liked to play crib so that after they die they could play crib together. At the last Community Club meeting somebody made a motion to raise the price of the plots. But the motion was turned down to be studied because some people didn't want the high cost of living to affect dying on Saturna.

The people are lucky because they have a graveyard that they can be buried in at low cost.

Herring Salteries on Galiano

by John Stafford, Grade 4

At first, when I came to Galiano, I didn't think much of the remnants of the salteries, only a few old rotting pilings, grown - over cement and machines, and the odd China plate.

When I asked my dad what they were, he said that once they had been thriving herring salteries that had salted hundreds of herring each year. But to get more facts, I went to an old friend of mine, Mrs. Devina Baines. She told me some interesting information. Here it is in my own words.

They started up in 1918 which was sixty years ago. They were run mainly by the Japanese, although a lot of Indians and a few white people also worked in them. At first, primitive tools were used, but as the years passed, more efficient machines were used. Also the number of men increased.

In a regular camp there was: a long cookhouse, a store, and sleeping quarters. They had ten fish boats, each with a crew of nine. Altogether there were a hundred men. The wood was cut locally, on the island, and was mainly rough. The fish were sold in Vancouver, and shipped to Japan and China.

But World War II brought an end to the salteries, and in 1941 all commercial salteries were shut down. However, during the war, the Millard's cannery supplied the soldiers with fish. Today we use more and better ways to catch herring. Also, the men are only allowed to fish herring two weeks. But they still catch a lot. Why just this year, they caught $83,000,000 worth of herring roe and shipped it to Japan.

History of Galiano

by Colleen Crocker, Grade 7

My story of the island is of many years ago. The Indians were mostly the first settlers on the north end of Galiano Island. My mother's great-great grandfather was among the line of settlers. Still the Indians weren't alone, there were a few Japanese families living here too. Most of the people occupying the island then were fishermen and their families, living on the island long meant fishing and hunting.

It wasn't that long ago when the first white people moved to this island. Frank Allison and his family were the first white family to open the marina on the end at Porlier Pass. There were many families after that that moved to the island through the years.

Still another phase the people went through was progressing in utilities. By utilities, I mean electricity and fuel. Before, and many years after, the marina was opened almost all of the people used coal oil lamps for lighting inside the home. Heating in the house was mainly wood stoves and heaters.

I remember when I was still really very young, we did not have electricity in our home. In the evening time when it would start to get dark our mother would fix the lamp. After we had our dinner we would sit around and listen to our parents or our grandfather tell old stories. Now things are changed. We have electricity in our home. Now electrical utilities are needed in the home. We now also have radios and television to watch and listen to, which means we very seldom hear those old stories from our parents. We also have an oil stove for cooking and heating the home.

Our father and his brothers went to a school right near where we live. My father only went to grade three. The school he went to is now called the Galiano Community Hall. The Community Hall is really very old now. Sometimes in the summer and on holidays the people at the north end put up a dance.

From where we live we can see Valdes Island very clearly. There are houses over at Valdes that are older than a lot of houses at the north end of Galiano.

I guess that our island hasn't really changed that much over the years. Although we've progressed from coal oil to electricity, and from wood to gas or oil, the island is still a lot like it used to be.

Although there are a few more stores, more transportation and a lot more business men that make their living by repairs for other people, at least half the people on the island make a living by fishing. I like the island a lot, it's quiet compared to the cities but a least we aren't so crowded as the people in town. I hope the island never gets too crowded by houses and big buildings. At least on our island the people get to know each other.

History of Saturna Community Hall

by Lana Corckill, Grade 6

Our Community Hall has been very helpful and useful. Just think, back in 1934 there wasn't anyplace to have dances, meetings, and many other social events. When the men were having their meeting at the old school where the Cemetery is, a man by the name of Arthur Ralph had an idea, an idea to build a Community Hall. Some of the men said he couldn't do it and there wasn't anyplace to put it. And some of them said the opposite. Arthur took a five dollar bill from his pocket and said, "This is what we will build it with."

The islanders agreed to help. They all went around collecting money for the wood to build the Community Hall. When they all finished, all together they had three hundred and twenty-five dollars.

So, Mr. Ralph went to Vancouver to get the lumber. He asked the man at the lumberyard to get him three hundred and twenty-five dollars worth of lumber. When he got back from Vancouver, they started right to work. In about a week the one room Hall was built.

Later on they built a kitchen and a stage. The kitchen was added in 1935 and the stage was added in 1946. There was also a living room which was added in 1974 and a stage was added in 1946. About a year and a half ago a work bee got together and repainted our Hall and it took two days.

Where did the money come from? The Community Club! Even today our Community Club still does all these fantastic things for Saturna.

Our Community Hall is one of the most important things on Saturna. Our Hall is used at least six days a week. It is used for Community Club Meetings, dances, recreation nights, yoga, bridge, Christmas Concerts, Halloween parties, films, club meetings, playschool, church services, public meetings, and many other social events. This means a lot to our Community because we don't have swimming pools, skating rinks, theatres, restaurants, or many other things that are found in the city. So we are all very thankful for our Community Hall.

They watch it made!

When about 15 newsmen toured the British Columbia Forest Products mill at Crofton, they were still not fully qualified to operate the machinery despite their instruction during the tour. Majority were content to go back to their own end of the newsprint chain.

They were all taking part in the BC and Yukon newspaper convention at Ganges.

The production of newsprint proved interesting to the people who had never seen it before, but the vast ranges of temperature, humidity and noise during the operation proved more extreme than the average newsroom or even the average pressroom.

The tour of the mill was planned by Bruce Marshall, a member of the staff of the mill, whose brother, Keith, is publisher of the Interior News at Smithers and vice-president of the British Columbia and Yukon Community Newspapers Association.

Starting at the top, members of the group were introduced to the entry of raw materials into the plant.

Bruce Marshall explained that the mill uses sawdust, wood chips and "groundwood" or the product of wood ground against a carborundum wheel.

UP TO THE TOP

Wood is sawn into short lengths and delivered to the top by means of elevators and an overhead flume. Sawdust is blown up to the top and I didn't see any chips.

The wood is fed into hoppers and rammed against the spinning stone. The fibres thus produced are then cooked under pressure to pass through the rolling mills and come out as white paper. They are bleached and other chemicals are added en route.

The entire process is hot as the pulp is cooked to produce the required effect.

Hottest of all is the drying area, where the pulp is rolled into its final form and dried out in ovens en route to the final rolls.

Tour lasted for some two hours and the party returned to Ganges on the 4.30 pm ferry.

Visiting Mrs. Nelly Schwagly Ganges, from Rotterdam, Holland is her niece, Mieke Boekelman. Mieke is seen here at the recent Salt Spring Island Rotary Club night in Fulford Hall.

Pony camp for young riders set up on Mander property

Pender Island Pony Club on May 27-28 had a camp-out on Peter and Shirley Mander's property, with 10 girls and their horses. It was set up and run on the pattern of a real pony camp.

The parents and officers of the club set up tents for sleeping, cooking, storing of food and tack.

The girls, with their horses, were divided into teams and all their events were totalled and prizes awarded the last day.

Marks were given also for mucking-out, cleaning of tack, and care of horses.

The events consisted of dressage, roads and tracks, cross-country and a scavenger hunt.

Their instructor from Saanich Ann Pye, supervised and judged, posting the results after each event.

The horses were tethered on military cavalry lines set up by the District Commissioner, Cyril Ripley. A double birthday, team

A. Woolcott, teacher from Pender Island School, accompanied by the Grade 7, 8 and 9 classes enjoyed an interesting day on Thursday, May 19, when they attended the Canada-Wide Science Fair in Victoria. There were 138 regional winners' effskits, a sing-song, and a marsh-mallow roast by the bonfire were enjoyed before flashlights were extinguished.

Sunday afternoon, parents and friends arrived to see Chris Wade present the prizes to the winners.

A Sportsman Award was given to Debbie Auchterlonie, and first prize went to Captain Anne Mander and teammates, Carol Bradley, and Jennifer Fraser.

Runners-up were Captain Debbie Auchterlonie and teammates, Leslie Frache and Tracy Milton. The Scavenger Hunt was won by Captain Cindy Wallace and teammates, Jennifer Auchterlonie, Karen Amies, and Judy Austin.

This camp-out would not have been possible without Mr. David Auchterlonie and his favourite back-hoe. Such was the first Pender Island Camp.

May holiday visitors with Mrs. Connie Swartz at Clakili were Bob and Zena Georgeson of Cedar, V.I., and Marta Powell of Peachland. The women had one big thing in common - the Cello. Mrs. Powell plays with the Okanagan Symphony Society under Leonard Camplin. Mrs. Georgeson is a past member of the Victoria Symphony.

Mrs. H.A. Spalding, of Little Bay, South Pender Island, was in Victoria recently to attend the University of Victoria Convocation, when her grandson, Jonathan Spalding received his degree of Bachelor of Science with Honors in Geography. He also received the Canadian Association of Geographers' University of Victoria Undergraduate of the Year Award. The subject of his thesis was the geography of Pender Island. Jonathan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Spalding of Smithers, B.C., where Mr. Spalding is the Regional Director of the Fish and Wildlife Branch.

A Memorial Service for Peter (Pete) Carter was held on Saturday afternoon, June 4, at St. Peter's Church. He was, until recently, operator of the Pender Island Freight Service and a well-known resident of the Penders. He passed away suddenly in Edmonton. Rev. Jim Daniels conducted the service and was assisted by members of the Canadian Legion. Many friends from Pender attended to pay their last respects. The Islanders' sympathy is extended to Doreen, David and Judy and to the members of his family.

The meeting of the B.C. Historical Association which was held Sunday, June 5, at Saturna Island was attended by three members of the Association from Pender Island: Mrs. Helen Claxton, Mrs. Gertrude Bennett and Mrs. Connie Swartz.

The Pender Island Annual Fish Derby Will Be Held on Sunday, June 26.

The Derby is open to all fishermen and is orgaized by the Pender Island Canadian Legion.

Tickets are $3 per person, excepting persons over 65 years, and under 18 years, who may purchase tickets for $1.50 each. All tickets will include refreshments.

Each ticket will have a chance on prizes, a gold watch for the ladies and a gold watch for the men.

All juniors must be accompanied by an adult. Weigh-in time is from 11 am till 6 pm at the Pender Legion Hall. Trophies will be awarded for the largest salmon, the largest cod, the largest flat fish, the most unusual fish, and the heaviest fish caught by a man and likewise caught by a woman.

Competitors may check in at Bedwell or Browning Harbor or Otter Bay marina. The Pender Legion cannot assume responsibility for accidents. It is reported all the money collected will go to improving the Legion Cenotaph area and surrounding grounds in honor of fallen comrades.

You need a fire permit if you intend to burn. It's free and can be picked up at your local fire department.

The idea behind the permit is to insure that controlled household and industrial fires are conducted in safety. The fire permit is required from the 15th of April until the end of the fire season, sometime in September or October, depending on conditions.

And don't forget that you can prevent a major fire by keeping alert while travelling our highways this summer. Report forest fires through the nearest Ranger or by phoning the operator and asking for Zenith 5555, our hot line.

WINTER WATERFOWL FOODS — While freeze-up generally sends waterfowl south for the winter, some fall migrations are lateral in nature. In coastal Canada the hardy species such as the black duck and goldeneye migrate from the interior to the salt water. The inter-tidal zone is the winter feeding ground, providing eelgrass (Zostera maritima) for grazers such as geese and brant and the marine snails Hydrobia and Littorina as well as small fish for the more carnivorous black duck, merganser and goldeneye.

Photograms: Pictures without a camera

BY ROLLY FORD

An inexpensive box of light-sensitive photographic paper; a "Tri-Chem" pack of photographic chemicals; three disposable trays; a red light bulb; and a working area that can be darkened down for use as a temporary "darkroom", are the basic requirements for making photograms.

No camera; no enlarger; no expensive equipment! Making photograms is a wonderful way to become involved in the photographic process.

Photographic paper is available in a wide range of surfaces (textures) and sizes. The picture-frame 8 x 10 inch size is most commonly used.

A package of 10 sheets costs as little as $2. Mural-size paper is available in rolls 54 inches wide by 100 ft. long when you graduate to recording life-size images, an art form popular with lovers of abstract art in decorating and interior design.

Photograms are created when opaque objects cover and prevent selected areas of the photographic paper from being exposed to light. Place your hand on an upturned sheet of photographic paper, flash on the room light for 5 or 10 seconds, develop your sheet and you should have a perfect outline of your hand.

MULTIPLE IMAGE

Anything from a sprig of parsley to a girl on a bicycle serves as a photogram subject.

"Creative Darkroom" photo student Brenda Mouat created a striking photo abstract by multiple exposures of a flute-like musical instrument. By adjusting exposures, selective areas of the photogram were reproduced in tones varying from light gray to jet black. The resulting photogram is an artistic masterpiece.

Room light, enlarger light, flashlights and penlights are among the various types of light source used by the photogram enthusiast. The work is done under the illumination of a red light bulb. The paper is not

A Victoria reader who works with senior citizens has asked my help in explaining what an aneurysm is. She wants to know where they are located and how they are treated.

The word 'aneurysm', which is Greek in origin, means the widening or ballooning of an artery, due usually to a weakening of its walls by disease. Sometimes localized arterial weakness is congenital in nature, being present at birth.

While any artery can develop an aneurysm, most are seen in the aorta, the main blood vessel of the body, or in the arteries of the brain. Aneurysms are also fairly common in the arteries of the legs.

HARDENING OF ARTERIES

The vast majority are due to atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries. Sometimes they are the result of a local area of infection in the vessel, and syphilis at one time was a frequent cause, but many other germs are also capable of damaging the artery wall.

A further cause is trauma, or injury, to the part. Gunshot wounds, knife injuries, and sensitive to red light. Making photograms is an interesting, relatively inexpensive approach to becoming a creative darkroom hobbyist. Try it!

blunt blows may result in aneurysm formation, often after a period of time.

Aneurysms are dangerous because they may rupture, obstruct blood flow, or damage neighbouring structures. Sudden rupture of unsuspected small aneurysms in the head is a fairly common cause of sudden death in relatively young people.

The commonest aneurysm location is in the abdominal aorta. The artery walls become rigid and unyielding due to the presence of cholesterol containing plaques, and sometimes the muscle tissues of the vessel become calcified. The blood pressure, usually high in these people, forces blood into the layers of muscle that form the artery wall. Bulging occurs, the walls weaken and may rupture. The resulting hemorrhage is an emergency at best, and frequently a calamity.

It may take several years to go through the weakening, ballooning, and rupture phases. Diagnosis is often made in time and in these cases treatment is possible.

Definitive treatment is surgery. In most instances the aim is to remove the diseased area and replace it with a synthetic or vein graft. Results depend in part on the condition of the patient at the time of surgery, and on the location of the aneurysm.

SATURNA SCENE

BY KUKLOS

A young folksinging duo, Raincoast, consisting of Ted Woodard and Nadine Bohna, together with friend Barbara, arrived on Saturna last week. They entertained in a number of performances, appearing before most of the island -- several times at the school, for the Old Age Pensioners Association meeting, at a general concert at the Community Hall, and at impromptu and even more informal gatherings. Ted and Nadine are travelling around British Columbia for the months of May, June and July, giving free concerts at schools, hospitals and other establishments. They are University of British Columbia students, and their tour is being funded by UBC from government monies.

A talented and personable pair, they provided delightful entertainment, capturing especially the hearts of the little islanders. While on Saturna, they were treated to various kinds of hospitality -- from a hot dog roast at Breezy Bay, a pancake breakfast up at Jimmy Campbell's, a barbecue in the Valley, swimming and refreshments at John and Shirley Money's, and an evening at the hilltop home of the Hindmarches. After two days here, they were off to Salt Spring and the other Outer Islands, to share more of their music and songs. Ted, Nadine and Barbara were very welcome visitors here, and warmly invited to return soon.

During the weekend, the Gulf Islands Historical Association held their regular meeting here, this time at Saturna School. They elected a new slate of officers, and announced the winners of their recent essay contest. In the grade 4-5 group, Jimmy Money won first prize with a History of Saturna cemetery, and Erin Boser was awarded an Honourable Mention. In the grade six-seven division, Lana Corkill achieved second prize.

At the hall on the same day, Phyllis Coleman, a registered nurse from Salt Spring, gave a nutrition workshop, with emphasis on proper diet, exercise, yoga, massage, and stress reduction.

Lynda McKewen, public health nurse from Mayne, who visits here once a month, was also in the news this time. She arrived with Dr. Wooldridge, courtesy of Bob Hindmarch's boat, but planned to return home via her own boat, which was to be sailed over by husband Keith.

Expecting to depart around 4.30, Lynda was on Saturna, instead, until almost nine o'clock as Keith was tied up with water taxi and other emergencies! An unexpected chance to get to know us a little better.

Lots of birthdays this week. Shawn Crooks celebrated his, as did Michael Jack, who had his uncle Ernie for company. And a very special happy birthday to a longtime Saturna resident now on Salt Spring -- Clarice Warlow who will have her festivities on June 16. The good wishes of the island are sent her way.

On Thursday the whole school went off for a day-long trip to Vancouver. Meeting the Mayne Island classes of Cathy Takagaki and Pam Edge, they chartered a bus to inspect the Vancouver Game Farm with a wide variety of exotic animals. This was followed by a trip to Fort Langley, with its personnel in period costume. The group watched demonstrations of barrel making, etc. at the B.C. Pavilion later. They were impressed with a massive aerial view of the province. Finally through smog impaired visibility of the Gulf Islands, everyone enjoyed a Grouse Mountain Sky Ride. A number of parents accompanied Taimi Hindmarch and Michael Hayes. They included Pat Neumann, Bernice Crooks, Terry Siemens, Eileen Corkill, Karen Boser, Melanie Gaines, Juanita Hutton-Potts, Jan Crooks.

In the Comings and Goings Department, Irene Lawson and

— No red tide here

The red tide reported in coastal waters of B.C. is nowhere near the Gulf Islands, a spokesman for Environment Canada said on Monday.

The red tide is located in Queen Charlotte Sound and Johnstone Straits.

The spokesman warned, however, that there was contamination of shellfish in the Gulf Islands in areas where various sewage outfall pipes were located. He added that warning signs have been erected in these areas.

Laura Coombs are back, respectively, from a few days in Victoria and Vancouver. Vaughan Steeves has been in hospital, and we wish him a speedy recovery. Clint and Geri Davidson have returned from a visit to grandmother Hazel on Vancouver Island. One-time Saturna residents Helen Norman, with Donnie and Melissa, spent some time recently with Jan and Dave Crooks. The Tom Coultons have been on island, and Dave and Bernice Brown have been at their Lyall Harbour home. Finally the Ritchies, long time residents, made a nostalgic visit recently.
