Contract for study at Ganges

H.A. Simons (International) Ltd. has been awarded a $97,000 contract for an oceanographic, biological and environmental study of Ganges Harbour.

The study was approved recently by the Capital Regional Board subject to the approval of the loan authorization by-law by the proper authorities.

The examination of Ganges Harbour was the subject of considerable debate when the last public hearing was called to challenge the issue of a permit to discharge partially treated effluent into the harbour.

Tides, temperatures, currents and every aspect of the harbour relative to the dumping of effluent will be considered before the Ganges sewer project gains formal and final approval.

Winner of birthday hamper

Gulf Islands Trading birthday draw was a bonanza for K. Donaghy. The Donaghy family will eat well this week.

The winner gets groceries and meat to the value of $300.

Two island girls in tournament

Two secondary school students from Salt Spring, Loretta Dods and Jill Johnson spent last week-end on Vancouver Island golfing in the Dale Shaw District 1 Championship and Marlyn Palmer Tournament.

Jill Johnson won low gross in both events and also participated in the successful four-girl Vancouver Island team which defeated the team from the Mainland.

Rider is charged

Damage amounting to $1,200 resulted when a motorcyclist, C. Parnell, was in collision with an automobile at the corner of Vesuvius Bay Road and Mobrae Ave., on July 4.

The previous day another motorcycle had come to grief at the same corner.

Driver of the car was Nellie Jackson. Both drivers were taken for treatment to Lady Minto Hospital.

The motorcycle rider was subsequently charged with impaired driving.

Hang glider glides in at Fulford Airstrip

Hang glider is seen hovering over the runway at Fulford Airstrip on Sunday when several hundred visitors joined mainland flyers for island air day. Story of the successful fly-in is on Page Eight. Day's entertainment was arranged by Pacific Flying Club at Richmond.

His parking lot is not happy one

A building inspector's lot is not a happy one. Particularly when it happens to be a parking lot.

Charlie Harris, Salt Spring Island building inspector, parked his car in the Court House parking lot on July 5.

When he came back to it damage estimated at $269 had been caused by a hit and run driver.

It was a day of driving tests, but there was nothing to connect the two incidents.

Shooting goes to court

Shooting on the beach at Montague Harbour on Monday will have its sequel in provincial court. Charges are to be laid of dangerous use of firearms following complaints of shooting from tourists.

RCMP at Ganges have not disclosed the name of the man to be charged.

Top man is Ben Greenhough with his 10 lb. 12 oz. salmon

Top fisherman in the Salt Spring Island Rod and Gun Club's annual fishing derby on Sunday was Ben Greenhough. He proved that a near 11 lb. salmon is worth $100.

That was the first prize for the 10 lb., 12 oz. fish.

In second place came Phil Stacey with a 9 lb., 4 oz., salmon worth $75 and, third, Tom Shelby won

Rummage Sale

Ferryman to sale into park Saturday for bursary fund

It's going to be a big sale in Centennial Park on Saturday. It's the rummage and bake sale planned by the BC Ferry Employees in aid of the Mike Wells Bursary Fund.

The ferry staff are collecting everything they can lay their hands on for the event in Centennial Park at Ganges. It will start at 9.30 am.

Former Ganges boy drowned in Kamloops

Young son of a former Ganges couple has been drowned in Kamloops.

Cameron Roberts, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Roberts, was drowned when he was visiting a swimming pool in Kamloops on a school function on June 26, the last day of school.

He is reported to have been in the shallow end of a public pool at the time.

Besides his family at Kamloops, he leaves his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Roberts, on Rainbow Road, Ganges.

The beginning has already started. The ferry crews have been selling useful used items to one another and paying the price into the bursary fund.

The fund was launched several weeks ago when a graduate of the Gulf Islands Secondary School was stricken and had to have a leg amputated. Fellow students decided to make sure he was not going to miss the opportunity of attending university this fall and launched a campaign.

The students raised $3,000 and the service clubs on Salt Spring Island also contributed to a fund.

The plan is to allocate the necessary fund to Mike Wells and to retain the fund in his name for future needs.

Saturday's sale of used items and baking will be part of the campaign to keep the money coming.

Holidayers involved in car crash

Retired Ganges businessman is recovering from injuries sustained in a car accident while on holiday in Saskatchewan.

Ronnie Lee, who sold the Shell Station in Ganges several weeks ago to Bill Windsor, has been released from hospital and is awaiting final surgery before coming back home.

Ronnie and Evelyn Lee, with their family were in the car and the four were hospitalized. All have now been released from hospital.

Their travelling companions, Clifford and Gladys Lee, were not in the car at the time of the accident.

Two sheds destroyed in blaze

Two sheds were burned to the ground on Rainbow Road, Ganges last week.

Buildings at the Parker home were destroyed in a fire on Wednesday. Damage to the two sheds was estimated at $1,500. The side of the house was singed.

Volunteer firemen attended the blaze and saved the house.

Cause of the fire has not yet been ascertained.

Percolation testers to be licensed?

Capital Regional Board is looking for the licensing of persons carrying out percolation tests on properties within the capital region.

The board recently approved a motion calling on the Associated Boards of Health to petition the provincial government for such licensing.

It is urged that the procedure be undertaken under the Health Act and that persons engaged in the practice of soil percolation testing be subject to licensing, examining, registration or certification.

City group to fight regions

A new organization has been formed for the purpose of pressing the provincial government to eliminate the regional district from the British Columbia scene.

Identifying itself as LATRAC of BC, the new function is operating under the full title, Land Owners, Taxpayers and Citizens' Rights Committee of BC.

Latrac charges, "The only way to halt this nightmare bureaucracy is through a massive public outcry and provincial legislation."

It also calls for the "return of control to the municipalities". It does not identify this call with the lot of rural communities in electoral areas. Such communities have no municipality to resume the administrative power.

Latrac appears to be geared to the larger municipal centres and particularly Victoria, with its expressed concern for the expenditure of millions on "outdated sewage outfalls."

Killer Whales

Killer whales were the victim of trigger happy boatmen in Porlier Pass on Monday night.

Island resident reported the shooting, but there was no means of ascertaining the marksmen.

Great snakes! IT'S FOR REAL!

A true story of a sea monster as recounted by island mariner

By Tony Richards

There was little to disturb the peaceful serenity of that morning 27 years ago when the 400-foot Cliffside lay at anchor two miles off an island in the Philippines. The quiet was a welcome change after the bustle and activity that had surrounded the ship the previous day when hundreds of tons of copra were loaded on board.

The occasional footfall on the deck and the low hum of men's voices as the crew began the day's work were the only sounds that marred the tranquillity of a quiet morning in the South Pacific.

Capt. Charles MacIntosh and

First Officer Stewart Stevenson were just sitting down to a breakfast of ham and eggs.

When it came, they were not prepared for the sudden, startling interruption to the relaxed atmosphere on the ship. Half a dozen men were running across the deck, and within minutes they were telling a surprised captain and first officer of an enormous creature on the foredeck.

OUT OF HALIFAX

The ex-Park boat, Cliffside, steamed out of Halifax on April 5, 1950 and made for Searsport, Maine, where she took on a cargo of potatoes; 7,000 tons of them to be delivered to Spain to ease the starvation that had come as a result of a major famine.

The events related in the following story took place almost 30 years ago when Stewart Stevenson, of Salt Spring Island, was serving as first officer aboard the freighter, Cliffside.

Stevenson was born in Belfast, Ireland, 68 years ago and has spent most of his life at sea, both in the merchant marine and in the marine division of the Royal Air Force. He obtained his master's papers in 1945.

He took up residence on Salt Spring nine years ago and worked for both B.C. Ferries and the Coast Guard before retiring in 1976.

The ship's passage to Vigo, Spain was a routine one. The potatoes were unloaded and the ship departed for Takoradi, on west Africa's Gold Coast. But it wasn't long after the ship set sail that the crew began to feel that something was amiss.

They began seeing things: a figure resembling a large animal was glimpsed from time to time, and then cans of milk began disappearing from the crew's messroom.

Things came to a head when one of the crew refused to stand watch on the fo'c'sle head. A man had been sitting outside on deck eating a sandwich, and returned to find his sandwich gone.

As a result, one of the crew, Pierce, refused to stand watch outside. Capt. MacIntosh's threat to "log" him had no effect.

"He was so scared he was shaking," recalled Stevenson, "and the fear spread to the rest of the crew."

So the captain initiated a search of the whole ship. They combed her from stem to stern but found nothing, and it wasn't until a boat drill was held a day or two later that the mystery was solved.

The drill entailed blowing the whistle, sounding of all the alarms and lowering a boat over the side; the activity had the effect of flushing out two stowaways who were certain the boat was sinking. IT WAS FAR

Following that incident, the atmosphere on the Cliffside was by no means relaxed. The crew had been scared before the discovery of the stowaways, who had hidden themselves on board while the ship was in Vigo.

After loading ore in Takoradi, the ship returned to Canada, loaded up with dynamite, and departed for India. From there, the Cliffside made for Ceylon and then on to the Philippines. What happened there is something Stewart Stevenson will never forget. Looking back on the incident now, 27 years later, he cannot remember having been so scared at any other time in his life.

He cannot remember the name of the island, nor the bay in which they anchored, but the Cliffside had loaded up with copra. But when the loading was completed, they found they were 140 tons short. An official protest was made, in which it was specified that the company that had chartered the ship would have to pay for the wasted space.

So the Cliffside left the loading pier and dropped her anchor about two miles away though she was kept in readiness in case she was called upon to return to the pier to take on more cargo.

The ship spent a quiet, peaceful night at anchor. At least, to those on board it was a quiet night. They weren't to know until the following morning of what had been taking place on the foredeck, up near the bow of the ship.

Dawn arrived and found the crew cleaning up the ship after the previous day's activity: the derricks had to be taken down, many preparations had to be made before the Cliffside could weigh anchor and proceed to her next port of call.

But it was like the calm before the storm. The captain and first officer had barely begun their breakfast when the sudden rush of footsteps on the deck served as an alarm that something was seriously wrong.

A group of sailors burst into the officers' messroom and their faces displayed fear and alarm.

A BIG SNAKE

"Chief, there's a big snake on the foredeck," they shouted to a disbelieving captain and first mate.

"The captain and I," remembered Stevenson, "decided to finish our breakfasts. We thought it was probably something a couple of feet long, especially after the episode involving the big animal that turned out to be stowaways."

But the crew were insistent. "I'll be up after I finish my breakfast," said Stevenson, but the crew announced that they wouldn't return to the foredeck until he did.

"So I thought I'd cut my breakfast short, go up for five minutes to ease the fears of the crew so they could get back to work," said Stevenson.

But when he got as far as number two hatch, he found what looked like a big coil of rope, fawn and mottled in colour, but bigger than any rope he had ever seen.

Before the coil began to move, the Cliffside's first officer realized that the crew had not exaggerated what they had seen: it was indeed a snake, the biggest snake Stewart Stevenson had ever seen.

His next thought was to absent himself from the immediate vicinity of that awesome sight and let the crew take care of it.

"Put the hose on it and I'll go back and finish breakfast."

"No bloody fear."

So Stevenson abandoned all hopes of returning to his meal and set himself to the task of disposing of the monstrous serpent. The two

How will a director be elected to the regional board? An amendment to the Municipal Act this year has had many representatives up in arms. Should the director from a municipality be an alderman named to the region or should he be elected to the regional board? The question is being thoroughly examined by every public official, past and present. Last month saw the Capital Regional Board hoist with its own petard. Director Sturrock told his colleagues on the board recently that they should oppose the enactment of that legislation. The Regional District Review Committee will be reporting on this aspect of regional districts later this year, he observed. Then Mr. Sturrock made an interesting observation. "One wonders," he commented, "by what kind of logic a minister sets up a review committee to report among other things on Regional districts and their relationship with the citizens and without waiting to hear from the committee introduces legislation affecting this question..."

By the same sort of logic, one imagines that prompted Mr. Sturrock's board to ask the citizens of Salt Spring Island whether they wanted the Islands Trust and having gained a clear indication from those citizens that they favoured the Trust, to take action to have that Trust eliminated. Oh! Would some power....

When Jack Whyte of Gulf Islands Auto Sales advertised a Datsun sports car in Driftwood recently, he could have sold it several times over, he told me the other day. The most distant enquiry came from a reader in Edmonton, who phoned after the car.

When I was very small the only dates I knew were April 6, the day on which I received largesse to commemorate my birthday and December 25, the day on which I received largesse to commemorate Christ's birthday. I had no occasion to write them. As I advanced in years I wrote April 6, or December 25. Into high school I adopted the Latin style and wrote 6-IV-34 or 25-XIII-34. I knew what it meant and most people who read it knew what it meant. When I sailed the submarine-riddled Atlantic I found that there were two methods of writing such a simple message as the date. North of the 49th parallel, we wrote 6-4-34. Southwards, they wrote 4-6-34 to indicate the same date. I adopted the Arabic form of the romantic letters in the middle and continued to write my dates, 6-4-34. Now we are metric we have a new one. It has the added advantage that almost nobody knows what it means. Governments and agencies of great erudition have adopted it. That same date now becomes 34-04-06. Easy, isn't it? Not for me, it ain't. For mine, I'll stay with the way I've been writing it for 30 years and let the generations of the future argue the new patterns.

You know, I got so many worries trying to do too many people's jobs these days that I got no time to worry about them!

I've spent 32 years trying to live happily ever after. And I haven't learnt the recipe yet! It sure takes a long time when you're a slow learner!

There's a lot of talk about the Canadian constitution. But it will never be as useful as the British constitution. Years ago when a police patrol figured you'd had a little too much to drive, one of the sobriety tests they gave you was to say, the British constitution. If you said that without slurring, they

Named for his home in England

Welbury Bay and Welbury Point, on Ganges Harbour were both named by the pioneer settler, William E. Scott.

Welbury House, in Bradford, Yorkshire, England, was the home of William Scott after the death of his parents.

Scott was an early settler on the island and served as a Justice of the Peace.

would probably ask you to repeat. The Leith police dismisseth us. And if you could say that, you're a better man than I am. And that ain't so hard!

I don't like all this reflecting on my former staff. But last week an erstwhile Driftwood reporter learned an important law of the sea. Tony Richards sailed up the coast of Vancouver Island last week. And he learned that the man who does without a radio may well have to do without a boat. The radio, which he hadn't got, was telling all and sundry to get their small boats into safety. Tony was unaware of the gale warning and sailed on. He ended up with his small boat on the rocks of Texada Island, beaten by four-foot waves. It was easier on the news beat!

Thank heaven this business about Canada Week is all over, because I don't mind telling you when it comes to driving, the Albertans must be about the worst. When you tread daintily along a smiling B.C. highway in the interior and a mighty roar goes past on the other side the double solid line you can bet it's got an Alberta plate on the back. Don't those guys have laws the other side of the Rockies? And worse, he's smiling like a British Columbian!

Two news reports last week: one was the guy who quit the CIA and wrote his memoirs. A US court has confiscated his earnings on the grounds that he shouldn't have written the thing. The other report is that a pregnant woman puts on a dog collar and gets rid of her fleas. But the effect could deform her child. So it all boils down to it that you can't write in criticism of the government and get away with it. But there's no law against messing up your baby. I like to get my values straight, that's all!

Two fellows were crossing the desert. One carried an umbrella and the other had a car door. They met. Each eyed the other with some amusement. Tell me, said the first, why do you carry an umbrella. It's the heat, came the reply, I can always open it and sit in the shade: but why do you carry a car door? For exactly the same reason, said the parts man, if it gets too hot I can always wind the window down! And you were right! Ray Horsefield was here for a few days at the week end. He was staying with Ethel at the home of Pam and Doug Wilson. Archdeacon Horsefield lives and laughs, with Ethel, in Sidney. First holiday in three years, he says. Holiday! And he's retired!

Motorcyclist loses control

Chemainus motorcyclist ran out of the road last week when he was driving on Vesuvius Bay Road at Mobrae.

B.C. McDonald lost control of his Yamaha machine at the road junction on July 3. He suffered minor injuries and the motorcycle was damaged to the extent of $300.

the other day that surprised even a chauvinist pig like me. I was assured that there are many young ladies fully trained in law who are unable to find a career because the law is so steeped in masculinity it does not eagerly open its doors to wigs and skirts. And I was surprised because here am I, steeped in chauvinism, surrounded by a staff in skirts: at least, sometimes. Yet the law, so far above most of us, can be so selective. Tut! Tut! your honour!

There should be fair competition

There should be fair competition. There have been more enquiries to Driftwood this summer for commercial copying, duplicating and printing than is usual at the time of year. It is not part of this newspaper's normal commercial endeavour.

Enquirers have been very frank about their concerns. The school is closed for the summer and they have to look elsewhere for their commercial work.

This air of frankness extended into every area. A number expressed horror at the going rate for small printing and office work and explained that they must try to find somewhere cheaper. Two explained that they did not like having to pay for their work and that the school equipment is so superior to an ordinary commercial shop that they didn't want any part of Driftwood work.

The enquiries and the rather dismaying loyalty to public enterprise gave rise to a quick survey of other communities.

Most small printing establishments on Vancouver Island, located in small centres, report the same sudden increase in commercial work during the summer holiday period.

This is very wrong.

The standard of instruction in commercial endeavours is high in provincial schools and probably as high as anywhere in the province at Gulf Islands Secondary School. But the use of such facilities to service commercial customers in the community is not playing the game. The small shop established in the small community is striving to make enough revenue to be able to pay the very substantial school taxes. The operator should not, in fairness, lose out to the facility which is taking a fair part of his revenue.

Commercial instruction in the schools is a long-established and valuable contribution to a number of students. There can be no doubt that the production of custom work in the schools keeps the students on their toes. But it should not be for free. Schools should not be in unfair competition with industry.

The production of commercial work should be charged out at a properly competitive rate. The students might well learn the principles of costing in order to reach a proper price for their work. But no work should be done in any shop, anywhere, without the provincial tax being levied. Final profits, however small, should then be set against school taxes.

Canadian Constitution

The pundits have found substance. The political pundits are confident that there will be a fall election because the Prime Minister had introduced his plan for a new constitution. They are equally confident that the election will not be until spring because the Prime Minister has introduced his plans for a new constitution.

While the wise men of the land engage in this delightful profundity, it might pay to bear in mind that election or no election, the potential changes in the constitution could bear examination.

It is not only French Canada which could be affected by any changes. It is not only a matter of language that is guaranteed in any new constitution.

The Pacific coast region was developed separately from the east and the central plains of Canada. The Pacific coast was developed by a different settler and by very different motivations from the rest of Canada.

When British Columbia entered the federation already established, the problems peculiar to British Columbia, already evident or yet to arise, were not all considered during the period of negotiation.

Questions of off-shore rights and certain privileges had never been considered. The sharing of benefits has been eagerly examined by successive generations. The sharing of responsibilities has also been considered.

More important to British Columbians of the future is the pattern of any new constitution. It is even more important than the date of the election. And each western province has its own little preferences and problems.

Majority of Canadians who cite the terms of the British North America Act have probably never read it. Let us ensure that any new constitution is more widely read and understood. Now is your chance!

HELP HANDICAPPED

Sir,
At a recent meeting of the Board of Duncan and District Association for the Mentally Handicapped a motion was passed that all money received by them from Salt Spring Island in connection with the Flowers of Hope Campaign will be donated to the Salt Spring Island Association for the Handicapped.

It was felt that the establishment of this new workshop for the folks on Salt Spring was a very worthy cause and it will, in some measure help expand the work being done for the people with special needs.

Over the years Salt Spring Island residents have been very supportive of our efforts and we feel, in spite of our own expansion needs, we should give a "helping hand" to our friends across the water whose aims are similar to our own.

SHE IS MISSED

Sir,
The many friends of Dorothy Wrotnowski are sadly mourning her passing.

She was a warm and charming person, always interested in people as well as keeping up with world events.

The Victoria Daily Colonist valued Dorothy greatly as their social editor. She wrote many interesting articles on people she met in her long career as a newspaper woman reporter. Among those she interviewed were H.R.H. Princess Margaret, the chatelaines of Rideau Hall, Ottawa, and Government House, Victoria.

Every year she attended the Opening of the House of Parliament in Victoria, the tea at the Empress Hotel and the State Ball at Government House, describing the gowns worn by the ladies.

The Salt Spring Island Anglican Parish Church Fete held at Harbour House for over 20 years always saw Dorothy with Colonist photographer Bud Kinsman attend. She devoted an entire page of this event in the Colonist.

Dorothy was a keen horsewoman in her earlier days. Later she decorated the winning horses of the Victoria Daily Colonist races held at Sandown, Sidney, B.C.

She was a gourmet cook and delighted in entertaining her many friends to delicious luncheons, dinners, or just to welcome you with tea or "cup of cheer".

Besides writing social events and cooking columns, Dorothy often went to judge cooking sections at various agricultural fairs, among them the yearly Mayne Island Fair.

After her retirement from the Victoria Colonist, Dorothy was happy to come to live permanently at her pretty cottage at Vesuvius Bay. She loved and worked in her garden, was a keen bridge player and reader, with a swim every day during the summer months..

She is missed by all who knew her.

LEGISLATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION

Sir,
Whatever happened to our elected representative, Mr. Bryce? We hear nothing from him.

Where was he when Jim Campbell and Denis Young reported to the C.R.D. board members after the controversial meeting of May 4, that there was no opposition from anyone on the sewer issue?

Did Mr. Bryce wear ear plugs that evening?

What was the reason for your silence? Upon whose instructions are your decisions made? Certainly not from public input, because no one has heard from you since the election!

I submit to you Mr. Bryce, that having no interest in the people you are supposedly representing, having failed in all the promises you have made in order to be elected, that your resignation would be quite in order! How can you justify the fact that no matter what remuneration you are getting for the job, you might be well overpaid? As the job you were elected for is not being done?

Is it any wonder that we are being legislated without being represented, even from our M.L.A., democracy at its best? What a farce this has become! Where will it all end?

How can we stomach our tax dollars being misused for what perhaps could be classified as a method to suppress anyone who dared to stand up for their democratic rights at one time or another against the C.R.D.?

Is it not time for all of us to stand up and demand to have our democratic rights restored? Are the C.R.D. employees not being paid by all of us? Then why should they not treat all of us as equals? Dictatorship is what we now have! Let's get rid of it!

Chamber gets the message

The annual dinner and dance of the Galiano Chamber of Commerce washeld in the Galiano Hall on July 8, with vice-president Donald A. New in the chair as President Les Woodbridge was unable to be there.

Catering was done by the Rod and Gun Club, under the capable hands of president Hank Knudson and his wife.

Although there were not too many there, everyone had a great time and enjoyed the baron of beef dinner.

Mr. New introduced the speaker for the evening, Dr. Perry Whittingham of Sooke, who is the president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island and the Zone Director for the B.C. Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Whittingham expressed thanks to the Chamber for inviting him over to our island, and to the ones who worked so hard to give us such a nice dinner.

His speech was light and informative.

BANK ACCOUNT

"Our world is like a bank account" he said, "if you don't put anything into it, you don't get anything out of it."

He urges everyone to get involved with the community. The Chamber of Commerce is chartered to become a community leader, he averred, and we should work hard to help ourselves and our neighbours to do just that.

He said that we have so much to learn from our older people, if we would only listen, and if we want a good place to live in, we have to work for it.

Mr. New thanked Dr. Whittingham for coming over to speak. Unfortunately, the speaker had to go on the late ferry back to his home.

Dancing was then enjoyed by Ray and Virginia Newman, and their daughter, from Ganges. Their music was a delight to dance to.

Tour of Russia for Mayne travellers

BY ELSIE BROWN

Vic and Edith Griffiths have returned home after an extended tour of the European continent, which included Germany, the Netherlands and Russia.

They flew from Vancouver to London, leaving on May 19.

Their tour began at Hamburg, Germany.

From there they travelled to Copenhagen, across the Baltic to Stockholm and then on to Turku and Helsinki, in Finland.

At Leningrad they stayed at a former palace, now Pavlousk Hotel, with 1,500 rooms. While there a visit to Hermitage Museum was most interesting, along with visits to other points of interest.

A two-day drive through farmland followed. Fields were well cultivated and houses neat and well kept. Arriving in Moscow, they were billeted at another fabulous hotel, the Ukraina.

They attended a performance of the Bolshoi Ballet at the world-renowned theatre in Moscow which they thoroughly enjoyed.

The travellers were impressed by the cleanliness of the streets especially the underground where several million people pass through every day.

A local Tour Guide was provided to describe the points of interest in the cities visited.

REBUILT MINSK

Minsk, completely destroyed during the war is now re-built. Modern equipment is used by workmen and store window displays were colourful and clothing appeared to be plentiful featuring modern styles, house rents are low and so are wages. New cars appear to be in good supply on the streets.

Edith reports they had complete freedom to take photographs and were free to explore on their own. People were friendly but the language created a barrier except that they understood that the Griffiths were from Canada.

Warsaw was also completely reconstructed since the war with modern buildings and tree-lined boulevards.

Stops were made at East Berlin and West Berlin requiring the usual stop at Check Point Charlie.

Before returning home the Griffiths visited Vic's cousin in London where they saw the State Visit of the President of Rumania.

Automobile motor is vandalized

Police at Ganges are investigating charges of wilful damage to the automobile owned by Stuart Foerster, of Ganges.

Foerster was on Mayne Island last week when his car broke down. He reported to police that a piece of metal had been introduced into each of the four cylinders on his car and the cylinder walls were wrecked.

Church wedding at Mayne

BY ELSIE BROWN

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mary Magdalene Church, July 3, when Graham Fishlock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Len Fishlock, of Delta, exchanged vows with Edith Akrigg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Akrigg of Vancouver. Rev. John Rodine conducted the ceremony.

Best Man was Andy Stepwiewski, of Jasper, assisted by Ed Peck of Vancouver.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Cecil Akrigg.

She wore a floor-length gown of ecru tiered lace with matching picture hat and carried a bouquet of pink roses, daisies and gypsophila.

Special music was provided by Roy Betts, Fernhill Road.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the new restaurant operated by Barbara Ross on Village Bay Road, "Under the 5 Roosters", where a delightful wedding breakfast was served.

Ken Downing of Vancouver proposed the toast to the bride.

Among the guests were the groom's grandparents from Mission, Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith: parents of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Akrigg and Mr. and Mrs. Len Fishlock: the bride's brother, Kenneth Akrigg of Vancouver and brother of the groom, Kenneth Fishlock of Delta and John Overton, Vancouver, great-grandson of Canon Paddon.

Other guests from Vancouver were aunts and uncles of the bride and groom: Miss Peggy Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. H.A. Matthison, the Misses Diane Dardault, Barbara Cockril, Phyllis Swartz, Vickie Police, Anne Chalmers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chalmers, and Miss Edith Putnam, bride's godmother.

From Mayne Island, were Rev. and Mrs. John Rodine and Roy and Sophie Betts.

Later, the guests gathered at the home of Stan and Kay Lowe on Maple Drive where a buffet supper, arranged by relatives of the bride and groom, was enjoyed.

The couple plan to make their home in Delta after a honeymoon spent at Bowron Lake, B.C.

India, the cradle of chauvinism where all watch low-grade films

BY MARY WILLIAMSON

Last week I quoted extensively from Professor Otis L. Graham's "World Issues" article on India. For some obscure reason, halfway through the column I changed his name to Skinner. My sincere apologies to the Professor and my readers.

Graham discussed the horrendous problem of communication. Indira Gandhi once explained the impossibility of broadcasting birth control appeals: even if the receivers had been available (there are only 17 million radios and 350,000 TV sets) there was no language in which she could have reached even half of the 620 million people. (But I assume they manage somehow to collect taxes and enforce laws?)

Eighty per cent of the people live in rural villages and farms, out of reach of the 830 daily newspapers which are read by only 9 million.

Religious divisions are deeper still. The conflict between Hindus and Muslims is traditional, and there are significant numbers of Christians, Sikhs, Buddhists and Jews.

LOTS FOR LITTLE

Professor Graham suggests they could have been reached through the cinema. "Indian movie houses can seat 2.7 million people at any given time, and movie attendance is about 1.7 billion a year. Indians love movies but do not learn from them. Their films exceed Hollywood's worst B products for insanity, violence and social irrelevance."

The Deccan Chronicle complains: "The politician, businessman, industrialist, bureaucrat,

More Food for Thought

everyone is subordinating the larger interest of the country to his personal interest. Everyone is engaged in a rat race. V.S. Naipaul calls ours a 'wounded civilization' and he is not far wrong. The various crises the nation is encountering are only parts of one big crisis; the crisis of character."

That is certainly not peculiar to India. Readers of the Province or Maclean's are familiar with that theme and many variations!

WOMEN'S PLACE

Professor Graham continues: "But no summary review of the internal impediments to Indian progress can proceed far without mention of the place of women... Observing Indira Gandhi as Prime Minister and the occasional political prominence of other women of high caste and superior education, it may seem that Indian women are reasonably well on the road toward that degree of social equality which characterizes all modernized societies. But other evidence suggests that Indian women are not very far along that road at all.

At one meeting in the planning commission offices, five women were included in a group of 25. They sat together and did not speak during the long general discussion. I was told the women "almost never speak."

NOT MUCH CHANGE

Out in the rural areas, life has not changed much at all. Women are expected to breed children. So completely do they accept the traditional valuation of male and female babies that they co-operate in the child-rearing customs which allow fewer girl babies to survive than male.

With due exceptions to be noted for the educated classes, the Indian man is still a terrible male chauvinist, wanting most of all from his wife that she bear sons...I asked the foreman of a marble-inlay factory why there were ten men, including two quite young boys, but no women. The work requires skill, not strength. He answered at once, "no woman could do the work."

NOT ONLY THERE

These attitudes are not peculiar to India. They are found everywhere among human beings, but are most prevalent in what used to be called the "backward societies" where population pressures defeat economic and social progress. May it not be set down as a rule that economic and social progress in the developing world is demonstrably correlated with the ability of women to perceive, and to be conceded the prospect of, fulfilment apart from child-bearing? Not much progress will be bought unless some price is paid by male society in this regard."

So now you know! Not that any readers of this column could or would be guilty of chauvinism. But when you hear chauvinistic attitudes expressed, remember that the offenders are, in Professor Graham's terms, uneducated and guilty of holding back not only equality, but economic and social development.

Loses pole en route to fire

Telephone pole on Lower Ganges Road at Canal Road was knocked out again last week, when Lyle Brown lost control of his truck en route to a fire.

Fire Captain with volunteer fire department on Salt Spring Island, Brown was heading to a fire in Ganges, although not travelling at any high speed.

Part of his equipment was on the seat of the vehicle and it rolled as he went round the corner. In making a grab, he lost control of the truck and clipped the pole. No charges were laid.

SALT SPRING ISLAND GOLF AND COUNTRY CLUB

GOLFING

BY PAT DOHERTY

BY PAT DOHERTY

In the nine-hole ladies' section, 13 turned out for an "Iron competition".

The winner was Olive Wilkie, and Peg McLean had the high putts.

In the 18-hole division in their "Iron competition" on July 4, Bev Menzies was the winner, and Lois P.C. runner up. Lois also won the putting contest.

Our ladies' team came back from Galiano with only 6 of the 24 points available. Hopefully our girls will have got over the shock before the return match on July 18.

On Wednesday, July 5, 36 members turned out for another enjoyable evening of social golf. Again they played the popular "Scotch foursomes" but with a new twist.

Players were grouped according to handicaps, and the full handicaps were allowed. This produced some interesting results, in that the foursome of Shirley Parsons, Libby Noble, Nels Vodden and Harold Wichman not only won the low net with a fine 39½, but tied for low gross with a neat 70.

The fewest putts champs were Kas Black, Jean Hopkins, Ray Parsons and Bob Marshall with an incredible 9 putts.

NO RESULTS

We have no results of the mens evening play on Thursday, July 6. Members are reminded that the Shipley Cup takes place on Saturday, July 15, and if you intend to play it is high time you and your partner had their names on the sheet which is on the notice board.

The golf will be followed by a Happy Hour and Bar-B-Que. Even if you cannot play in the Shipley, it will be worth your while to read the entertaining account of bygone Shipley Cup days as narrated by Jack Scott, a copy of which is on the notice board just below Shipley Cup entry sheet.

The ladies, under the leadership of housemother Kas Black, are to be congratulated for the effort they have put into making the clubhouse more comfortable.

AN ASSET

The new carpet and drapes are really an asset, and cannot help but add to your enjoyment, as you sit in the lounge and have a relaxing drink or two while you talk over the game just played, and how much better it might have been. On Saturday July 8, the men played off in the Tom Butt and Buzz Brown Trophies.

Bob Atkins won the Tom Butt Trophy for low net, with a 63, and is therefore nominated as "Sand-bagger of the week." In the Buzz Brown Trophy for low gross, it was Carl Simpson with a fine 78.

Carl's effort is all the more remarkable when you consider that he was in hospital with a heart attack a couple of months ago and has only played about three games all year. It's been so long since he played regular that he could not find his old handicap card, otherwise he thinks he might have won the Tom Butt Trophy for low net too. Now that's what I call Heart. Congratulations, Carl!

Accent on comedy at this year's Summer Theatre

BY SHARIE LOMAS

Salt Spring's Summer Theatre '78 season is approaching, so get your calendar out now and mark down the dates! You won't want to miss any of the productions to take place the weekends of July 28/29 and August 4, 5, 6 at 8 pm sharp.

Comedy is the feature this year, with two excellent productions visiting from Nanaimo and Vancouver, as well as contributions by our own Salt Spring Players.

On July 28 and 29 you will see "Here We Are" and "Lemonade". "Lemonade" is produced by the Nanaimo Theatre group and is a perceptive and funny study of two frustrated and lonely women selling spiked lemonade to highway travellers. "Here We Are", on the same bill, is a delightful 1930's piece, with two newlyweds setting off on their honeymoon.

The Salt Spring Players are presently at work on this production.

On August 4, 5, 6, the holiday weekend, Douglas College will be bringing "Happy Journey" by Thornton Wilder. This play received the highest possible honours at the recent Provincial Drama Festival.

If you miss this one it's guaranteed you'll be sorry!

Also on the same evening as "Happy Journey", it's rumoured that Captain Cook along with shipmates Bligh and Vancouver, will be making a secret stop on Salt Spring Island. Virginia and Ray Newman seem to be the instigators of this rumour, so it's bound to be good.

As you no doubt find it impossible to forget, Virginia and Ray produced "Madness Strikes Back" last summer, which had Salt Springers seceding from Canada.

The Salt Spring Players hope you'll enjoy Summer Theatre '78.

This is a non-profit endeavour which we hope will eventually put Salt Spring on the map. Come out and support us, and be rewarded by unforgettable evenings of theatre! Tickets will be available at Et Cetera Book Shop, 537-5115.

If you have something for this column: call Elsie Brown at 539-2480

Mainly Mayne

BY ELSIE BROWN

Mayne Island students who will be attending Gulf Islands Secondary School on Salt Spring Island next term are Amy Lambert, Gordon Wittner and Aaron Somerville.

Congratulations to Linda Lane who graduated from Salt Spring Island Secondary School in June! She was the recipient of the Mayne Lions' Bursary given to top students annually. Linda plans to attend B.C.I.T., where she will study to be a laboratory technician.

Congratulations also to Steven Lane, who graduated from B.C.I.T. in Electrical Engineering Technology and is now employed in that capacity by B.C. Hydro in Prince George.

Visiting Bill and Sally Burden, Miner's Bay, recently were their son and daughter-in-law, and family Bob and Judy Burden with Shannon and Kevin of North Delta. The Burdens have been babysitting their grandson, Darryl, son of Billie and Ross Peterson of Vancouver.

Get-well wishes to Dale Piggott who has been a patient in Lady Minto hospital where he had surgery! Effie reports he is coming along nicely and is expected home shortly. We wish him a belated speedy recovery.

My thanks to Cissie Nightingale, Frances Tipple and Blanche Anderson for delivering my copy to Driftwood.

Lions wind up plans for Siesta

BY MARY HARDING

The Galiano Lions have been having meetings recently to co-ordinate their coming "Fiesta" on August 5. President Roy Harding has his committees all organized, and hopes for a great day.

Recently, at one of their regular meetings, the Lions of Galiano gave $100 to send a crippled child to summer camp, and they also decided that they will pledge $1,000 for the new Personal Care hospital at Ganges, this will completely furnish one room in the name of our Lions.

Their next meeting will be held soon, for final preparation for the Fiesta.

SUNDAY AIR SHOW HOLDS ATTENTION

Airstrip is busy as they fly in for Fly-in

* * *
Judy Williams was sponsor of social air trip

Judy Williams is enjoying the help of Leah Pallot as she loads her camera at Drummond Park on Sunday.

Miss Williams was the moving spirit behind the Fly-in on Sunday at Fulford. She organized the program and made all the preparations for a quarter of the Pacific Flying Club to spend an afternoon on Salt Spring Island.

Judy is a pilot and flies with the club, of which she is a director. In addition, she is chairman of BC 99, the women's flying club which she is pushing for British Columbia. On Sunday she took on both roles when she wasn't busy cooking salmon on the beach.

Leah is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Pallot. Her father is also a pilot.

The Pacific Flying Club has a membership of some 200 pilots. It operates a score of airplanes in its flying school, based at Richmond.

President Milton Legg explained that the school is a functional and famous part of the club. This year about 70 new pilots will get their wings from the Richmond school.

The president also suggested that the efficiency of the club, measured by its students' test standings, ranks above any on the coast.

ANNUAL EVENT

The Fly-in to Fulford is an annual social event, but it only just made the grade on Sunday. It was not until after midday that the members could be sure that the weather would hold off sufficiently to permit of the flight. Rain and low cloud dissuaded a number of north Vancouver Island flyers from making the trip.

Milton Gunn explained that when the Fly-in is planned other clubs are advised and invited to take part. He estimated that about 50 members had taken part in Sunday's event.

The planes were parked at the Fulford Airstrip and the food and beer garden were in Drummond Park.

During the afternoon hang gliders made a series of jumps from Mount Bruce and landed on the runway. One landed on his belly on the runway and slid to a stop on his parachute. Any slight change in lift or wind will bring the occupant down when he lands.

For the early part of the afternoon there was rarely a time when there were not two or three gliders in the air.

AEROBATICS

Chief flying instructor for Pacific Flying Club, Gred Cleland put on an aerobatic display over the park and two parachute jumpers dropped in on the party.

Owner and operator of the airstrip at Fulford, Gordon Cudmore was on hand to greet the visitors. Flying instructor Clifford Hatch was also at the airstrip.

Cooking salmon for the visitors and selling it for the women's flying club, Judy Williams was wearing her two hats with some aplomb.

She explained, between fishbones that the 99 club was established by Amelia Earhart many years ago when she staged a reception for aviatrixes and 99 showed up. They formed the 99 Club. It has a branch in Alberta and in Port Angeles. She has launched a branch in British Columbia and is hoping to woo away some of the members who fly in this province and pay allegiance south or east. She has lined up 11 members as yet.

The airstrip and the seafront park were popular with island residents during the afternoon. The beer garden was particularly attractive for the fact that it was able to offer real beer.

When the seafood was gone and the beer garden closed the visiting pilots went back to the mainland and Vancouver Island, thankful that the wet weather had held off.

Airstrip owner Gordon Cudmore, left, and flying instructor Clifford Hatch watch the parachutes out of sight of the camera.

One of the smaller visitors on Sunday.

After the glide comes the reckoning. Here they dismantle their mounts.

Volunteer grandparents

* * *

Is there a need in islands?

A volunteer grandparent is a person who spends time with a child who has no grandparents close by.

There are a lot of people in the Gulf Islands who have left their families to move here. Some of these are young people with new families and some are older people who are alone far away from their families.

It has been said that the young child gives a grandparent a view of the future and a chance to participate in it indirectly. The grandparent gives the child a sense of the past and the continuity of life.

This makes it a very precious and special relationship.

As one child said, "A grandmother and grandfather is someone who isn't always in a hurry, who tells me stories and who isn't always trying to catch me doing something bad."

IN VANCOUVER

In Vancouver there is an established foster grandparent organization working very well. They have arranged many "adoptions" and have established some procedures. They emphasize that being a foster grandparent is not a babysitting service nor an errand-running thing.

It is arranging for grandparents and grandchildren to meet each other and begin that relationship. They can do the things that grandparents and grandchildren always do together, such as going to movies, taking walks, fishing, watching the child's ball game, knitting, hammering, reading, and, most important, just talking.

The Salt Spring Island Family Centre would like to begin a Foster Grandparent program on the island and to encompass the rest of the Gulf Islands if an interest is shown. There will be a meeting Thursday, June 20, at 7 pm for all interested children, parents, and prospective grandparents. Babysitting service will be offered. Transportation may also be arranged. Please call if you will attend or need a ride. This will be a meeting, not a commitment.

[From Page Two] pumps on the deck were put into action and the hoses trained on the snake.

By this time Capt. MacIntosh had arrived on the bridge to see what the commotion was about. His first thought was to shoot it, but as he aimed his pistol, the thought occurred to him that no one on the steel deck would be safe from the bullet as it ricocheted were he to miss the snake.

HE STOOD

The high-pressure water hoses were not trained on the intruder for long before the coil began to slowly unwind, and move out from between the two forward hatches where it had lain. And it was not long before Stewart Stevenson became aware that he was in the snake's path, and being forced into a corner.

"I was getting too scared to call out any orders. I was holding a hatchboard about eight feet long, but the snake could have swallowed me and it at the same time it was so big."

Each hatch on the ship measured about 40 feet in length and Stevenson said that after the snake uncoiled itself, its full length extended far beyond that.

The crew, at this point, exchanged the hoses for axes and began dissecting the enormous serpent. They had cut it into five or six pieces and it was still moving steadily towards the first officer when one of the crew finally reached the head and delivered the final, fatal blow.

It was none too soon for their first officer who says now that he had never been so scared in all his life.

HE NEVER WANTS TO SEE ANOTHER 60 FOOT SNAKE

It was an experience that remains, and always will remain, vivid in Stevenson's mind. His ex-captain, Charles MacIntosh, now lives in Victoria. He has verified the truth of the story although he doesn't agree with Stevenson as to the length of the snake. He feels it was closer to 40 feet in length whereas his ex-first officer swears that it measured a good 60 feet long. But even at 40 feet, it is the longest snake ever seen in the recorded history of mankind.

The longest on record is an anaconda captured in eastern Colombia in 1944: it measured slightly over 37 feet long. And a reticulated python was shot in the Malay Archipelago in 1912. It was over 32 feet long.

MacIntosh said recently that the Cliffside had been anchored near a river when the incident took place and he surmised that the snake had swum down the river into the ocean. He and Stevenson believe that it must have boarded the ship via the anchor chain.

It may sound like a tall story, but the retired island seaman will swear that is authentic. Stevenson says he would give anything to go back to sea again. But to see another 60-foot snake? "I don't figure I ever want to see another one, to tell the truth."

Roy and Edith Crispin mark anniversary late

BY ELSIE BROWN

Roy and Edith Crispin, Mountain Park Estates, were entertained by their family and friends who extended greetings and congratulations on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary, Sunday, June 25 at the home of Roy's brother and his wife, Mead and Edna Crispin of Clearbrook.

The actual date was December 14 but since the Crispins were in California at that time the celebration was postponed until last month.

More than 75 guests attended the Open House from 2 pm to 8 pm. Among them were Roy and Edith's son and daughter-in-law and family, Ross and Alexandria Crispin, with Ted, Teresa and Tom of Vancouver; daughter and son-in-law, Beryl and Kin Villagomez, Tacoma, Wash., with their daughter, Darleen and son, Christopher; Crispin's great grandchildren Michael and Michelle Schaler, Tacoma, Wash.; Roy's brother and his wife, Clarence and Doris Crispin of Sarnia, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Milne, Irma, Alberta; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Milne, Coronation, Alberta and Alice Osetsyk also of Coronation.

Other relatives from Vancouver were, Mrs. Annie Moir, Miss Dorothy Moir, Mr. and Mrs. A Nicholson, Laurie and Joy Brown, Muriel and Bill Hilton and many other old time friends.

HUNGER

BY FRANK RICHARDS

Hunger is not familiar to Canadians. Many have been hungry, but few have starved.

When the churches of Salt Spring Island looked at World Development and Relief earlier in the year, students in island schools were invited to express themselves on the plight of the needy.

The reaction of youthful students varied, perhaps according to how they understood hunger as a desperate, transcendent, inescapable ordeal. And not many can imagine that far.

Here are a few of the comments made by the wise and youthful when they were invited to give their careful scrutiny to the lot of those in countries where there is just not enough to eat.

As I stood there I could have thrown up. It was sickening! Those people starving, dying....Why?

Because we are reluctant to sell them food, because they can't keep it safe?

I wonder.

Think about it...Think about your friends and relatives dying every day!

Some of the comments put you off eating, at all.

Have you imagined being that way? Being hungry: no food: being thin instead of plump or fat? Then, seeing a rich man eating a big lunch?

Some were signed and some had been presented to me, blank.

One of the signed papers was written by Dawn Guilbault:

Why can't we help them,
And make them understand
Why can't we reach out
And lend a helping hand?
Can we help them by giving them equipment?

Can we help them
With many grain shipment?
And then we go and hurt them
By churning up their land
All we were doing
Was lending helping hands.

As the years go by people are getting less and less food and more and more hunger, philosophized one young writer.

How to meet the needs of the situation? You could eat some of the things you throw in the compost.

And the indifference of the well-fed is startling to them

Here are some things that go into your compost bucket that you could eat.

1. You could eat orange peels; 2, or you could eat apple peels; 3. you could keep the peels on potatoes; 4. you don't have to cut the fat off the meat; 5. you could eat the cores of fruit; 6. you could eat leftover dinners; 7. you could eat the piece of bread at the end of the loaf; 10. you could eat the crust of bread.

These are ideas thought out by youngsters. Others looked with a critical eye at ourselves, always eating selectively.

The gigantic structure of a man waddled slowly into his large living room to devour a large meal selfishly. His great layers of fat overflowed his five foot belt. The large chair creaked as he settled his large bulk comfortably in front of his turkey, steak, chicken, creampuffs, and caviar. That was only the first course. He took his silver fork and grunted and gulped as he consumed his large meal. He burped and knocked his steak on the floor. His fat St. Bernard came over and wolfed it down and fell asleep on the spot. He did not try to save the steak. He just didn't care.

He had lots of money. He could buy lots of food. He didn't care about the poor and starving people in poor countries. What could he do to help? He was just one man. Let other people help.

The thing is this is what most people are thinking. If we don't act now few will be saved.

STARVATION

My name is Abel. I live in a small village in the west corner of the Orange Free State called Boshof. We are very poor and my mother is dying from lack of food. My father has tried plowing the fields but it is too dry to plant crops. So most of the time we starve. Sometimes I go hunting but I don't catch much as all I have to hunt with is stones.

Four years ago we had food to eat, but it became rotten because it wasn't kept in proper facilities. So now we are going hungry. My grandfather used to have some fertile soil but during a war it got wrecked and he was killed.

I used to have three brothers but they all died of malnutrition so I am the only child left.

The people from other countries say they will send food but it never comes.

-Andrew Wooldridge.

WASTE

In North America 25 percent of our yearly food goes to waste. And about 2/3 of the world is starving.

So that means all of the millions of dollars put in for guns, military uses could go to the hungry.

But the most critical waste of all is our waste of soil and energy.

One restaurant in New York City kept track of part of what people

Saturna Scene

BY MAGGIE HAYES

Well, only 51 weeks till the next Lamb Barbecue!

Omitted last week were the names of the raffle winners on July 1. Laurie Cunningham won the pretty afghan crocheted by Daisy Bavis, and the Saturna sheepskin was kept on island by the Frank Raynor family (Bonny Bank Road).

During Dr. Maureen Piercey's regular visit, she made her first official use of the Medical Services Facilities atop the Fire Hall. This new roomy environment, plus the appointment schedule she is now using, should greatly improve efficiency for all concerned.

The outside of the property has been enhanced by the addition of flowers chosen and planted on behalf of the Community Club by Priscilla Janszen.

A very important meeting has been called at the Capital Regional Board offices on Thursday, July 13, with members of the Community Club's Water Committee in attendance. The engineering report by Willis-Cunliffe and Tait will be thoroughly discussed, as well as property assessments. Representatives of the Capital Regional District spent a day on island last week and were hosted by Graeme Howarth.

A baby sea lion (orphaned when only a day or so old) was found by Barry Adams at East Point on Saturday. With the help of the Hutton-Potts family, and a supply of infant formula from Colleen Carpentier, the little one was kept alive until it was taken to Sealand in Victoria with Janet Comstock.

Former Saturna resident, now living on the mainland, Ben Begon, was over recently for a visit. He spent some time fishing with Al Kerr, and catching up on the news, and was given all good wishes to take back to Donnie.

Tom and Margaret Moore made weekend visits to their Russell Beach property, with Wade, and bringing son Bradley for his first introduction to the Gulf Islands.

Bob and Taimi Hindmarch for a few days welcomed daughter Leni Hoover from Victoria, with her children Phillip and Sally.

Lynda McKewen, our Public Health nurse from Mayne Island, was forced to cancel her regular monthly visit. She will be here Friday, July 14th - and after that, will be in attendance on Saturna the first Friday of each month.

The big excitement during the week was the Tuesday evening - Wednesday morning fire at the saw mill.

Started by spontaneous combustion in the sawdust piles, and fanned by 25 mph winds, the blaze was well underway when spotted by John Money, (among others), returning on the night boat. About 40 men fought the potentially dangerous fire. Most felt it was just luck that the surrounding forest was not ignited.

The end of the week saw a colourful Saturday wedding take place here. Details will be in a later column.

Cabbage Island

Public but whence its name?

The island, twelve acres in extent, lies off the southeast end of Saturna Island, and is a favourite port of call for boaters. Under its agreement with the Nature Conservancy, the Parks Branch will provide limited facilities for visitors, and will leave the rest of the island in its natural condition.

The Nature Conservancy bought Cabbage Island from the former owners in 1977, by agreement for sale, and appealed for funds to complete the purchase. The Department of Recreation and Conservation agreed to pay half the purchase price.

The Nature Conservancy received substantial grants from The National Second Century Fund of British Columbia, The Vancouver Foundation and the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show.

Magnificent co-operation was received from the Council of British Columbia Yacht Clubs, whose member clubs gave very generously. Thirty-eight public bodies, corporations and private individuals also helped provide the purchase price.

Speaking for The Nature Conservancy, a trustee, Eric Earnshaw said he was delighted with the successful outcome of the project.

"Public ownership of Cabbage Island for park purposes has been recognised as desirable for a long time" he said, "and we are very pleased to have helped to bring it about."

Neither Mr. Earnshaw, nor recreation minister Sam Bawlf offered any explanation of the origin of the name of the island.

Down Through The Years With Driftwood

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Bill's Taxi will run a regular service for the convenience of the public to Long Harbour to meet the Queen of the Islands. The fare will be 60 cents a trip.

The salt springs which gave Salt Spring Island its name are still in existence. One pool is about five feet in diameter and roughly the same depth. The salt spring bubbles in the middle. The writer was privileged to see them by courtesy of the owners of Fernwood Farm, Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Harkema. Several well-informed people including a former resident doctor, have testified to cures effected for such trouble as rheumatism, sprains and chilblains by the use of the salt spring water. One enthusiastic believer in the healing qualities of the mineral-filled springs was the late J.C. Lang, who purchased Fernwood Farm in 1910 from J.P. Booth, MLA and Speaker for the provincial legislature. In 1911 Mr. Lang obtained a complete analysis of the spring water and surrounding earth. He ascertained that the mineral content is the same as that of the renowned Harrogate Spa, in England. Another firm believer in the medicinal properties of the springs is P.G. (Jack) James, of Vesuvius, whose family lived on the farm and maintained a seed-growing business there for several years.

Where else but on Salt Spring Island would you find a golf foursome with a combined age of 329 years who play several rounds each week? Dr. W.T. Lockhart, W.M. Mouat, S. Adams and Reg Price are the golfers.

Following recipe for blackberry wine was made available to readers by the kindness of Henry Geigerich, Beddis Road: For 1½ gallons of wine, 6 lbs. fruit; juice of one lemon or one-eighth ounce citric acid; three to four pounds white sugar; ¼ ounce yeast nutrient; two campden tablets; one gallon of water; wine yeast. Prepare wine yeast three to five days before readying fruit. Select ripe but sound fruit and reject all mouldy fruit. If you are making 10 gals. or less, crush the fruit by hand. Now dissolve the sugar in warm or hot water, 3 lbs per gallon for dry wine and 4 lbs gallon for sweet wine. Pour the water and sugar solution over the crushed fruit; add yeast nutrient; crush and stir in campden tablets, two per gallon of water. Allow this mixture to cool to room temperature, 70-75 deg. F. Then add wine yeast. Do not stir in. Cover with a sheet of plastic fastened with elastic or string. Stir the fermenting fruit twice daily for seven days, then strain. Press the pulp or squeeze as dry as possible before discarding. Cover and leave to ferment another seven days. On the 14th day strain into gallon jugs or a barrel and attach fermentation traps. Rack after two months. Bottle after six months. Wine should be kept at least one year for best results. This recipe may be multiplied to produce as much wine as you like.

The Salties wound up the regular season games on Sunday, undefeated as they bombed the London Boxing Club, 13-2 at the George Pearkes Arena.

The Capital Regional District and the Advisory Planning Commission are engaged in the designation of agricultural land in accordance with the requirements of the provincial government, reports Marc Holmes, Salt Spring Island regional director. Community Plan for the island may well be approved by the Legislature at its fall session, forecast the regional director.

Trustees of Gulf Islands School District have decided to apply for special funds to support an alternate program in the Salt Spring Island Elementary School.

MR. AND MRS. BENNETT AND THEIR ANCESTORS

BY ANGELA BYRNES Grade 8, Mayne

INTRODUCTION

I have had the pleasure in interviewing pioneers on Mayne Island. The pioneers I have written about are Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and their ancestors. Their forefathers were some of the first white men to homestead on Mayne Island.

I am also writing about a few general facts on Mayne Island.

In 1880, Thomas Bennett and his wife, Elsie were the first of the Bennett family to homestead on Mayne Island.

They came from Yarrow, England.

They had eight children, two of whom were born in England. Their names were James and Ann. Their third son, Fred, was the first white child to be born on Mayne Island.

After Fred was born they had five other children whose names were, Alice, Mary, David, Tom and John.

Out of those eight children, Fred and John were the only children of that family to remain living on the island in their adulthood.

Fred later married Daisy Blair and they had eight children, whose names were John, Bill, Fred, Clifford, Lillian, Elsie, Gertie, and Edith.

Their third son Fred (named after his father) married Margaret Beech and they had four children, Doreen, Peggy, Marie, and Fred Jr. As you can see the Bennett's families have lived on Mayne Island for close to 100 years.

FIRST ISLAND CAR

In 1914 the first car on Mayne Island was a Model T Ford. It was owned by Tom Mayne. Gas in those days was said to be ten cents a gallon.

I remember when I interviewed Fred Bennett, the second. He said, he was walking to school when this car came roaring down the road and it almost scared him to death. It was Tom Mayne in his Model T Ford, which was the only car on the island at that time.

Eventually, when more cars became known on the islands, people wanted to commute to other islands with their cars. So then the first wharf was built at Point Comfort and the Princess Patricia made her rounds to the islands and the mainland.

This was the only way the farmers could export their goods.

When cars were taken aboard this ferry they put slings around the car and hoisted it on the boat. That also was how cars were transported to the islands. Eventually Miners Bay ferry wharf was changed to Village Bay because the ferry was having trouble docking due to the strong tides.

Another reason was that Village Bay was a federal dock and Miners Bay was a Provincial dock.

FIRST SCHOOLS

On Galiano, Mayne and Pender the first schools were built. The Saturna Island children attended school on South Pender and some children had governesses. The school on Mayne only went as far as grade four. Children also took exams on Pender and if they wanted to go on to high school they either went to Victoria or Vancouver.

Most of the island schools only received $20 a month for school funds.

In 1909 a Mr. John Aiken ran the general store on Mayne Island. In 1905 Dr. Kingcade was the doctor on Mayne Island.

In 1948 land on Mayne Island sold for $10 an acre and today land on the island sells for about $15,000 an acre.

In those days a cannery worker earned 20 cents an hour so he would have to work a little over an hour to buy three loaves of bread (selling for 25 cents for three loaves). Now, today's cannery worker would be able to buy 14 loaves of bread selling at fifty cents a loaf, in one hour.

Before the 1900's the Japanese settled on the islands. They produced eggs, tomatoes and were fishermen. At one time Horton Bay was a Japanese settlement.

The Japanese producers were going strong until the Second World War, when they were evacuated from the coast and taken to other parts of Canada. Although eggs, cream, tomatoes, pears and plums were still being produced on the islands.

ISLAND DANCES

Many dances were held on each island monthly. They were chosen on moonlit evenings because this made it easy for people to see when they walked home. Islanders played lots of cricket games, card

BY RICK NEVILLE:

TAYLOR POINT

In 1892 George Taylor came from England and bought some land on Plumper Sound from Warburton Pike. He came with his wife and four children, Valley, Christine, Thomas, George, and Derwent, who was born on the Island in 1907. All the children went to school on Pender Island.

Warburton Pike started a stone quarry on his property and Mr. Taylor, being a stone mason, soon had some rock to be shipped away. They chipped, drilled and blasted the rock out then they removed the rock to Victoria and other cities or towns. Some stone was used extensively in Victoria and can still be seen on the Public Library. You can also see it on the caps of the gate pillars of Royal Roads.

Mr. Taylor had a few sheep, cattle, and chickens. The only child games, football and tennis. In the winter they had sleigh riding.

There was quite a lot of visiting between islands and a lot of competition with sports.

The biggest fire on the island was in 1908 and it started at Horton Bay and spread to Mount Park.

Hurricane Freida was very bad, the islanders were without power for four days. The Hydro sent over a power plant to recharge people's fridges so their food wouldn't spoil.

Galiano had phone service before Mayne did. The Hydro first came to Galiano because it was more populated, and then it was going to go to Pender and leave Mayne out. But then they thought it was better to skip to Mayne and then to Pender.

When I interviewed one of the pioneers this is what he said, "When the tide is out the table is set."

I have enjoyed gathering information about the Bennett family and about Mayne Island.

Grade 7, Saturna

left in the family is Derwent still living, at 71, on North Pender Island.

MURDER POINT

In 1863, Fred Marks, of Waldron Island, decided to move to Mayne Island. With eight people and most of their belongings he started out in a small boat, but ran into bad weather in Plumper Sound. Chris Myers, of Mayne Island, saw their condition, and went to help them. He took Mrs. Marks and five kids into his boat, but later the boats got separated.

Mr. Marks and his daughter, Caroline, landed in a small cove on Saturna Island for shelter.

As they sat by the fire a band of Indians attacked them. They shot Mr. Marks and chased the running Caroline, whose body was found stuffed into a rock crevice. But Mr. Marks' body was never found.

The boat was looted and reduced to splinters. When the crime had been reported, naval vessels were dispatched to investigate.

The leader of the Indians was found hiding in a cave on Galiano Island and in his hands were strands of Caroline's hair. Four men were convicted and hanged at Victoria in July, 1863.

Murder Point was also drilled for coal, about 800 feet, but found nothing.

TRUEWORTHY BIGHT

Billy Trueworthy was a bootlegger and a caretaker for Bradley Dyne, an owner of Campbell's farm at one point of time. Warburton Pike built the shack that Billy lived in, which was small but cozy. The rest of the chimney is the only thing left of the ruins of the house. Billy's house was down in a Bay now called Billy's Bay, which is about 3/4 of a mile from Saturna Beach.

Billy, being a caretaker, also went around the islands shearing sheep. Mae Georgeson was Billy's niece. Billy also had quite a few cats and dogs.

Billy's best friend was Mr. King of Salt Spring Island, who he played the violin with.

Billy Trueworthy is now dead. He died in the year 1933 at the age of 64.

The guy in the hat

The guy in the hat is looking around.

He started out watching houses. Now he's watching boats. You can't miss him: he has his coat collar turned up and a hat. All you see is his eyes.

He was Neighbourhood Watch. He was watching for suspicious characters around. And he warned all those suspicious characters that the valuables in the house had been indelibly marked for purposes of identification.

Now he's marking boats. At least he marks the things in them.

Helping the Neighbourhood Watcher to watch is Const. Bert Allison, of the RCMP at Ganges. Now Bert's helping the Marine Watcher.

Any islander with a boat who has valuable property aboard can call Bert Allison at RCMP, Ganges to get the dope on protecting his possessions. He's got everything to mark valuables and render them less valuable to the petty thief.

They will write songs with a thought for Kathmandu

BY BRUCE EASON

Have you ever wanted to write a song, and didn't know where to start? This Sunday is for you! On July 16 there is a songwriting workshop at the Community Centre on Ganges Hill across the street from the R.C.M.P. office.

Local songwriters Valdy, Marianne Grittani, Rick Nunez and the writer will be taking part in the day's activities.

It will begin at 10 am with some open dialogue, where people can get to know each other and group questions can be determined.

During the time that follows, inspiration and analysis may be considered; rhythm, melody, and harmony discussed; hopefully a song or two written...and don't forget the lunch break!

Around 2 pm, the focus and location will change, with different members of the group performing their works in an outdoor songfest weather willing.

Donation of $3 for the day's activities will go to the orphanage in Kathmandu, Nepal, founded by a Canadian: Betty Mendies.

Doris Anderson of Fulford Harbour, will be on hand with pictures and other information regarding the orphanage.

See you there!

READ ANY GOOD LABELS LATELY?

A basic guide to the Who, What, Where, When and Why of Shopping Canadian.

Why should you Shop Canadian?

Every time you buy something made in Canada, you help keep a Canadian working. You help keep Canadian money inside Canada. You help to expand and strengthen Canada's economy.

When you think about it, you help yourself.

When should you Shop Canadian?

Whenever you're satisfied that the product or service you need is

- (A) made or grown in Canada and
- (B) of equal or better value and quality.

That's not just good advice...it's good sense.

What is made in Canada?

Just about everything you need to help you live the life you want.

As the saying goes, we have no bananas, but we do have Apples, Bandages, Cranes, Drills, Elevators, Furniture, Glassware, Holiday resorts, Insulation, Jewellery, Kitchen appliances, Lumber, Machinery, Newspapers, Office equipment, Potatoes, Quilts, Rope, Steel, Tires, Umbrellas, Vaccines, Wines, X-Ray equipment, Yarns, and Zippers.

Everything, in other words, from A to Z.

Who should Shop Canadian?

Every day, most of us have the choice. Whether we're buying groceries for the home or supplies for business, farm or industry.

If each of us added only $10 a week to Canadian made purchases, Canada would be over 10 billion dollars better off in just one year.

Who should Shop Canadian? You should.

Where does it say Made in Canada?

Sometimes it doesn't. Sometimes a sign says "Produce of P.E.I." Or "B.C. Apples" or "Fabriqué au Quebec" or "Made in Manitoba" or "New Brunswick Sardines" or "Grown by Saskatchewan Farmers" or "A product of Alberta" or "Fresh from Newfoundland" or "Manufactured in Ontario" or "Nova Scotia Lobster."

The point is, if you take the trouble to find out, you can usually tell.

And, if it's made anywhere in the ten Provinces or the Territories, it is made in Canada.

DOES YOUR WATER SMELL LIKE ROTTEN EGGS?

Culligan announces greatly improved technology to eliminate hydrogen sulfide, the cause of "that odor", tarnished silver, ruined washables, blackened paint. Take the first step to solving our water problem by calling for a free water analysis, no obligation.

NOTICE
BEWARE: The smile situation on Salt Spring requires our immediate attention. Smiles have been discovered, spreading rapidly over the island, over the last week. Although this contagion has been largely confined to the under 10 year-olds, out-breaks are occurring more and more frequently amongst all age groups.

People are advised to watch for carriers. They may be identified by their easy smile, bright eyes, bouncy walk and nonsensical talk. Other symptoms include laugh wrinkles, rosy cheeks and an appearance of feeling warm inside.

This social disease usually begins as a slight puckering of the mouth then a tightening of the cheek and facial muscles, and the widening of the lips into an upward curve. If it is not arrested immediately, it can lead to uncontrollable spasms of the breath and entire body. Both smiles and laughing are highly contagious!

It is feared that the smile will spread to epidemic proportions, engulfing the entire population of the island in hilarity and ecstatic bliss.

The only chance we have of averting this gaffuffal, is for those of us who have not already succumbed to it, to strive to maintain an attitude of seriousness in all situations. With a lot of hard work, grave determination, and a stiff upper lip, we should be able to resist the onslaught of the smile. Willy Winsome. 27-1

Don't go to jail for Christmas!

Don't go to prison to get your Christmas dinner! The plea comes from Mrs. D.M. Jones, of the Pioneer Village in Ganges.

Mrs. Jones enclosed a clipping from a newspaper. It is not identified, but it looks to have an English brand on the style.

***

A reader who sends me the Christmas menu from Holloway prison rightly suggests that there are many old people whose Christmas food by comparison will seem very poor indeed.

Behind bars on Christmas Day, for instance, breakfast included orange, cornflakes, fried gammon steak and eggs. At mid-morning there was coffee and biscuits, followed by lunch of: "Tomato soup, roast turkey, forcemeat stuffing, bacon and sausage roll, roast potatoes, Brussels sprouts, green sliced beans, vichy carrots, gravy, Christmas pudding and custard."

That evening the festive felons also received plates piled with "sweet cured gammon, grated cheese, lettuce, tomato, onion, cucumber, icecream and Christmas cake."

Finally, for supper they had "pork pie, cream crackers, cheddar cheese and cocoa."

"I hope too many will not try and get in there for Christmas," she suggested, "I wonder how much it costs?"

Problems of labelling

Bilingualism is fraught with perils. A bilingual student is one who has one parent who grew up in a francophone setting, the ministry of education has decided. A bilingual writer has to speak and write in two tongues.

And spelling helps.

The label has stumped various Salt Spring Island scholars. It isn't in a standard French dictionary. What is it? Competitive brands offer no guide. The contents of the carton, milk cream and disodium phosphate, are in French as well as English, but they figure that a name like Kreemo is in any language you want.

The day is already in sight when a linguistics scholar might well seek his advanced studies in label translations. It is becoming a specialty.

She met her target at Mayne

The regular meeting of the Mayne Island TOPS chapter was held on Tuesday, July 4, because of the Monday holiday.

Margaret Bennett, the co-leader, occupied the chair.

Attendance was not up to the usual but weight losses were consistent.

Awards were made as follows; Best loser of the month for June, Blanche Anderson; best loser of the day, Eva Amburgy; winners of "Reach for the Top" contest, Mabel Johnston for TOPS and Pat Dawson for KOPS.

These all received suitable awards.

Congratulations of the members went to Blanche Anderson, who reached her goal the previous week.

New or prospective members may come and will be welcomed any Monday morning. Members of other TOPS chapters who may be on the Island during vacation may visit the island chapter.

Paris comes to Vancouver

Elizabeth Steward's exhibition of paintings opened on July 3 at the Bau Xi Gallery in Vancouver and was well attended. People came from Vancouver, Victoria and Galiano and from much further afield and all were enthusiastic.

Those who knew Paris were particularly interested in and admiring of the pictures displayed, as they were chiefly on that city; street scenes, churches, shops, markets and houses, one or the latter being the home of Joe Plasket.

They were all done in ink and water colour and the excellent draughtsmanship was enhanced by the colour washes. One of the most striking was that of a house on fire, done from sketches done on the

Galiano

BY MARY ELLEN HARDING

Four sisters were re-united for a short holiday recently, when Mrs. B. McKenna, of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia and Miss Joyce Lockwood of Gabriola Island, visited with Misses Jean and Jacqueline Lockwood, of Galiano.

Jean Lockwood took her sisters, Joan and Jacqueline, also Mr. and Mrs. Harry Richardson, of Ganges, for a holiday to Banff, along Joan's way home.

Mrs. McKenna had not been to our coast for some time, and they had a very happy reunion.

Jev Tothill, president of Cowichan-Malahat-the Islands Liberal association came over for a holiday, visiting his mother. On July 1, his guest was Islands Liberal candidate David Anderson, of Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Patchell, of New Westminster, came over for a short visit to their father, Tom Carolan.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Lloyd-Walters and daughter Susan, came from Campbell River, for several days to visit their friends here on the Island.

We hear that Mervin Ferguson is very happy these days. He is an avid fisherman, and recently caught a 17 pound and also a 25 pound salmon. He is really proud of getting two such big fish here, so it goes to prove that patience pays, especially in fishing.

WEAVERS AND SPINNERS

On Saturday, July 1, the Galiano Hall was transformed into a really glorious sight for the fifth annual Weavers' and Spinners' show and sale.

On one corner of the stage, there was the traditional mauve spider, spinning his web, and in the other corner, a collage of wool, of all colors, making a just beautiful sight.

The work of the spinners and weavers were lovely, displayed in a most interesting manner. It defies explanation. If you could not see this show, it is really hard to explain. They had all kinds of their work, from lovely baby's blankets in a delicate blue, to little purses, pictures, purses woven in all colours, and many more exhibits. Much credit is due to the ladies, under their chairlady, Mrs. J. Coffee, and it seems all of the rest of them for their excellent showing.

Last weekend, Friday, June 30 to Sunday, July 2, the first Okanagan fruit-run was made to the Outer Islands. Each weekend during the fruit season, Okanagan fruit and fresh local vegetables will be sold at open markets on the islands. On Friday, July 14 it will be at Galiano Community Hall. On Saturday at Salt Spring Centennial Park and Sunday in Mayne Agricultural Hall.

The Galiano Rod and Gun Club will be holding a two-day derby this year, on July 30 and 31, with a dance on the Saturday night to the music of Rex Weaver.

PENDER ISLAND ART GROUP ANNUAL SHOW

Annual art show will be held in the school Community Complex, on August 5.

All painters are welcome to participate and show their work. If they wish to sell their work, price must be shown on it.

At the special meeting of the Islands Trust Council held in Victoria on June 23 and 24, Gordon Wallace of North Pender Island was elected Chairman of the Island Trust Committee on property taxation for the area covered by the Trust, which consists of 13 islands in all, extending from Quadra Island in the north to Saturna at the southern end.

Allan C. Brooks, of South Pender Island, was elected Chairman of the Wildlife Committee and W.B. Irving of North Pender Island is the representative from the Penders on the Committee negotiating with the Ferry system.

New lake access at St. Mary Lake is seen in this picture. The beach access was formerly next the far power pole at the curve of the road as it passes Blue Gables Resort. New access permits launching of boats and provides access to the water for visitors and residents. The beach has been changed by the ministry of highways at the request of the Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce. The pressure to change the access followed many years of protest by John and Gladys Lee at the holiday resort. Public access was previously too close to the resort entrance.

How to use that camera better!

BY CEDRIC BARKER

Once again summer has rolled around and everyone is planning the summer vacation. Be sure not to forget to pack your camera and lots of film.

For many people, this year will be marked on the purchase of a new camera. If you are one of them, then the second thing you should do after reading the instruction manual is to run a short test roll of film through it to be sure that both you and your camera are working properly

The new wave of photographic apparatus from Japan resembles computers more than cameras. These highly sophisticated little electronic boxes as supposed to be the most easily operated cameras ever invented. The only catch is that you must understand them first. Frequently the instruction books are literally translated from Japanese, and quite a bit is lost in the translation. So be sure to ask the salesman to thoroughly demonstrate the camera before you leave the store.

POINT AND SHOOT!

A friend recently told me of an acquaintance who bought an expensive camera because she thought it required that she only point it and shoot. Her first roll of film was shot on vacation at some distance from home. The results were a disaster. Unfortunately she had returned home before having the film processed and now she has no means of replacing those lost photographic memories.

Expensive cameras are not the only ones to create such difficulties. The simple camera's idiosyncrasies must also be understood. Another friend came to me with a series of pictures with strange circular halos and assorted hot spots, that is, intense white areas in the pictures. Careful examination of the negatives proved that her 110 instamatic was suffering from reflections off pots and pans on the picnic table and the hood of the car.

Admittedly, this is not the sort of problems you would find an answer to in the instruction booklet, but it might have been anticipated with the experience gained by more frequent use of the camera. Most cameras go into storage immediately after vacations end and don't see the light of day until the following year. Very little can be learned about making better pictures that way.

OFTEN FAIL

Your older cameras should also be tested. Instamatic cameras using 110 and 126 cartridges often fail to advance the film. A simple repair will ensure that the back door of the camera is closing securely. It also has the added

There are still small things to be built and others to be finished, but, by-and-large the construction is done, and prettying up commenced.

At last we can see the shape of the fruits of our endeavours, and they are pleasant to behold.

Our endeavour has been to maintain the atmosphere of the old Hall, yet bring it right up to date and well able to cope with today's needs - modern but not modernised!

Our grants for wages run out this month, and, while we still have many hurdles to jump, we have no debts, for we have worked on a pay-as-you-go basis.

BEAUTIFUL AND BARE

What we will have will be a beautiful but bare hall. Light fittings, plumbing fixtures, kitchen cabinets, furniture, stoves, hot-water tanks, floor coverings and other items still remain to be bought, and paid for.

Whilst we are in the happy position of having no debts, we are also in the unhappy position of having no money. However, donations continue to arrive, and our Brains Trust is busy devising ways and means of getting more cash, and will continue to do so until all is finished and all is paid for. Only then will we rest from our labours.

BINGO SESSIONS

As soon as the Hall is usable, we hope to commence weekly Bingo Sessions, and later on, weekly movie shows. Planned also is a concert for three nights, and a plant sale.

Sales of Salt Spring Island Spring Water, the Water that made Salt Spring famous, are going well, and Mouat's, Ganges Pharmacy, and Embe Bakery were all in need of replacement stock immediately after the holiday week-end.

Strait would have been easier name

Pity he couldn't keep his own name! It would have been a sight easier for British Columbians today if Apostolos Valerianos had sailed under his own name.

The Greek pilot found the Strait in 1592. George Vancouver was to follow him 200 years later.

Valerianos? Whoever heard of the Strait of Valerianos?

But he had adopted the name of Juan de Fuca.

The Greek was sent by the Viceroy of Mexico on a voyage of discovery. He subsequently reported sailing to the 47th parallel and finding the inlet and the inland sea, through which he sailed for 20 days.

Until many years later, de Fuca was not accepted by geographers who had never been there. It was his identification of the pillar of rock, de Fuca's Pillar, two miles south of Tatoche Island that proved he had, in fact been here and explored the coast.
