Triathletes make main event

Active participation and perfect weather marked Salt Spring's first official fund-raising triathlon held in the north end last Sunday.

The event saw 116 athletes complete all or part of the swim, cycle and running extravaganza as individuals and teams.

Between 40 and 50 volunteers helped pull off an error-free triathlon.

Over $3,000 has been raised to date through pledges, with proceeds being split between the Salt Spring Island Swimming Pool Society and Island Pathways.

Nancy Geertz was a fundraising whirlwind collecting $1,500 in pledges. Geertz also enticed several off-island family members to be participants and cheerleaders on Sunday.

Overall winner of the triathlon with a time of 1:44.46 was 25 year-old Victoria triathlete Mike Basanta, also known as "the Banana Man."

Ian Best of Victoria was second with a time of 1:50.51. Both Basanta and Best were entered in the individual under 35-years male category.

Triathlon co-organizer Mernie Irwin of Cedar Beach Resort said watching the highly-trained athletes perform was "almost like a ballet, it was so beautiful."

He said "when they were done they looked fresh as roses" and joined the social scene without missing a beat.

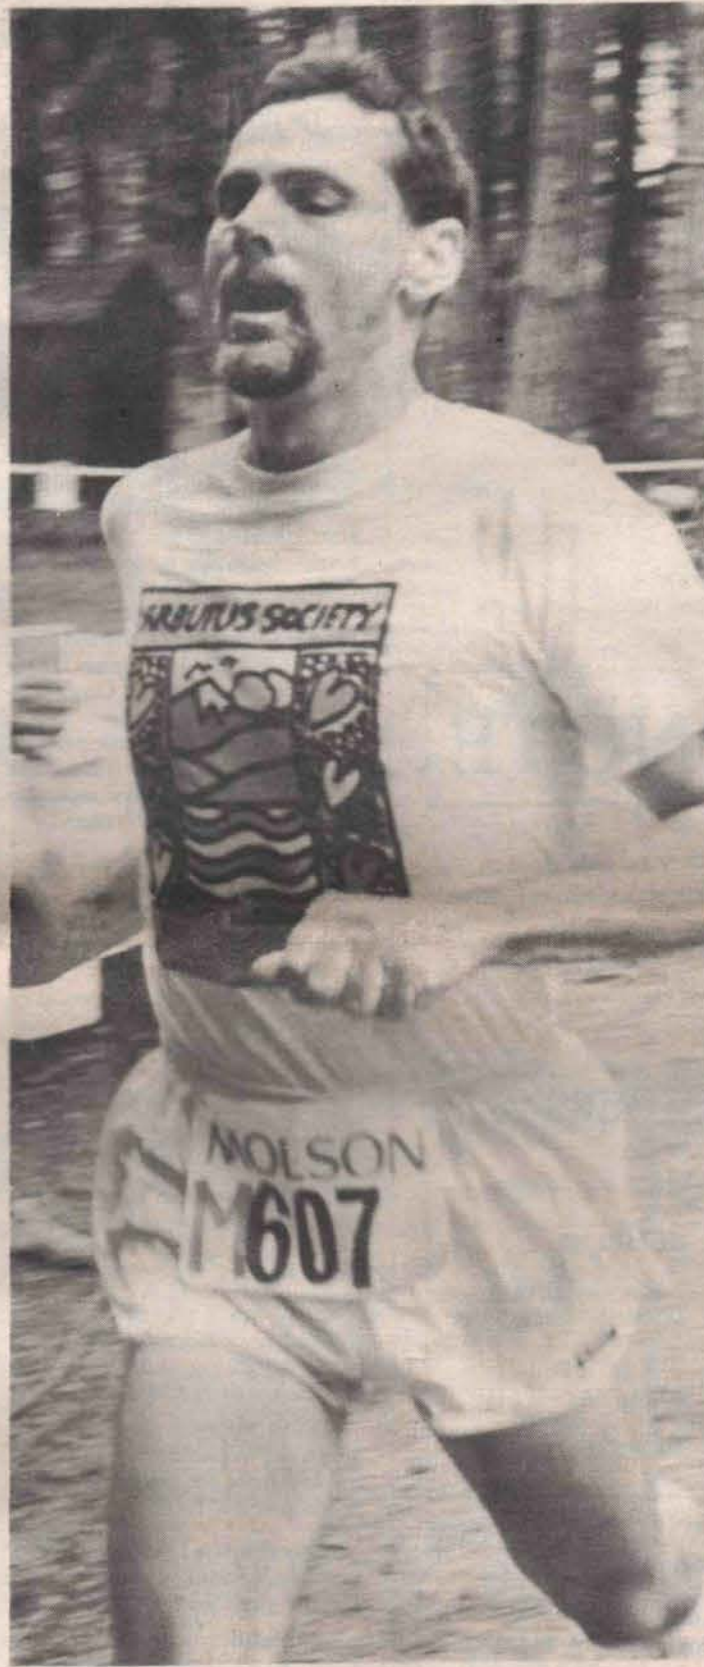

Irwin described himself as event "sweeper," the last person to complete the route on his bicycle as one-third of an over-45 team with Fred Sanders and Bev Frankcombe.

In the 35- to 45-year-old male class, Greg Compton was first, Bill Coons second and Bob Marsh finished with the third fastest time.

Monty Holding completed the route first in the 46- to 59-year category, followed by Galiano's Ian Hooley.

The only Salt Spring man to attempt the whole triathlon on his own was Andrew Hughes in the 35-45 category, completing the

Market issues debated

Supporters of the Saturday Farmers' Market as is and those seeking changes to its operation crowded into the school board office Monday night to give their views to Parks and Recreation Commission members.

At the same meeting, Retail Merchants Association secretary Marguerite Lee outlined her group's concerns about the present market.

By GAIL SJUBERG
Driftwood Staff Writer

Association concerns include its size, hours of operation extending beyond 1 p.m. and area parking congestion. Vehicles block access to both the park's "green space" and local businesses, she said.

She said 29 out of 30 Ganges store operators surveyed reported a loss of revenue on Saturdays this year.

The main problem, said Lee, "is there are too many people and too many vehicles in a confined space."

Lee also presented signatures collected on a petition asking the PRC to move the market to Sundays immediately and out of Centennial Park by January 1, 1992.

Vendors had responded to that petition by collecting 29 flip-chart pages of 789 signatures and comments in support of the market remaining in Centennial Park on Saturdays.

Market Vendors' Association president Wendy Beatty told the board that merchants and market vendors "have mutual concerns that need to be addressed." She outlined increased efforts by vendors to park away from the village core and "further afield" in the Catholic Church's Drake Road parking lot.

She defended the market's size by showing that use of the entire parking side of the Gasoline Alley complex for the Saturday Farmers' Market was written into an easement created in December of 1986. This means the market is not "spilling over" into that area but using it with legal authority.

She also said "flea market" vendors no longer have a presence at the market and only eight of 95 annual permit-holders are from outside the Gulf Islands.

Beatty invited merchants to join the market or work on a plan for encouraging market patrons to con-

Full house wishes the best to grads of 1991

Graduates of Gulf Islands Secondary School were told there are two ways of spreading light in the world.

"One way is to be the candle; the other is to be the mirror that reflects it," said Larry Roy, one of two physical education teachers asked by the Grade 12 students to be guest speakers for their graduation ceremony last Saturday evening.

After watching them advance to the stage, one by one, carrying a lighted candle, he said it was ap-presentation of graduates with family, teachers and friends in attendance filling the chairs, bleachers and spilling over to stand around the gymnasium. Silver and blue stars and balloons as well as draped material above the floor transformed the normally sporty look into a magical venue.

Students chose "Wind Beneath My Wings" as their theme song to enter the gym and selected "Imagine" for the recessional as they left the stage.

Stacy Proctor, Jamie Armitage, Lise Rondeau and Irene Lam took the candles and extinguished them as each graduate mounted the stage

Grade Eight five years ago they began another process of their education.

He said he wanted to recognize their accomplishments as a class and individuals both at school and in the Gulf Islands community. A multitude of talent converged on the stage as a testament to the strengths of the Class of 1991.

District superintendent of schools Mike Marshall asked if students remembered what they...

event in 2:40.33.
 Salt Spring's Jaci Sanders was the sole female entry in the individual 35-45 year class.

Ghislaine Jauselon was the first woman to complete the St. Mary Lake swim in 28:25. She and teammates Peter Gunstone and Pat Reite also finished second in the over-45 mixed team category.

First place in the men's under-45 team event went to Robin Bridge, Dave Barrie and Rob Richter. Salt Spring's Walter Rumsby, Bruce Grey and Peter Bennett combined for the second best time in that event.

The first under-45 mixed team to finish the course was Dave Arthur, Brian Geertz and Patti Geertz in 2:03.54.

Speediest over-45 mixed team was John Edwards, Lynda Laushway and Warren Rudd, with a time of 2:14.26. Organizers noted that Edwards completed the 10-kilometre run in a remarkable 34 minutes.

Best women's team was Nancy Geertz, Lisa Grey and Ann Greenwood, with a time of 2:26.03.

Other local team participants were Joanne Sequin, Tao Kimball, Gary Robb (on roller skates); Judith Hart, Geoff Cooper, Bill Goddu; Karen Berg, Diane Baxter, Nick Pawlowski; Patricia Brown and Holly Kemp; Vicki Blevins with off-island friends Julie Moore and Suzie Cutt; Rob Bill, Jeff Tatum, Doug Pearson; Mike Garside, Geoff Barrett, Ron Reznick.

Doug Pearson also participated on a team with Shandra Platts and Michael Lax which placed second in the under-45 mixed team class.

Pump Primer participants were organized by Catherine Bennett and included Daniel Hidion, Melitta Kandler, Claus Andress, Elizabeth Grant, Margaret Zoce, Fred Powell, Dennis O'Connor, Catherine Bennett, John and Ann Page, Edith Sacker, Ann Goose, Jack Bishop and M. Volc.

Co-organizer Lisa Grey said the seniors' group vowed to have 50 participants in next year's triathlon.

Grey stressed that many people deserved thanks for making the event a success, volunteering time and donating prizes.

Gary Lundy provided music at Cedar Beach Resort, Trix Studio handled parking and Sweet Arts Patisserie provided food on site.

The RCMP were given accolades by Irwin. "We appreciated the help and assistance and consideration the police gave us," he said.

Lois Phillips was master of ceremonies, with help from spouse Dave towards the end of the event.

Ambulance service, highways crew, Search and Rescue volunteers and Island Paddlers Club also provided safety assistance, said Grey.

Special thanks were given by organizers to the many individuals and businesses which donate prizes.

MARKET ISSUES

continue on a shopping tour through Ganges on Saturdays. "I think we should begin to appreciate one another," she said. "We are a community and we live here together and we have to support one another."

PRC member Ian Fraser said his impression from hearing Lee's and Betty's presentations was that there was "room on both sides for negotiation." He said PRC commission members "will certainly do our part to help that along."

Parks committee chairman Bill Curtin described the membership and functions of a committee formed last year to resolve market-related problems and draft bylaws governing its operation. Representatives of the PRC, vendors and merchants are members of that committee.

He said the committee process is "still alive" and a cooperative solution can likely be found by this method.

"I think our committee always realized it (complete resolution of problems) wasn't going to happen in one year," said Curtin.

PRC member Allisen Lambert asked people to define the "burning issue" about the market.

Sharon Crouse — a member of both the merchants association and the committee described by Curtin — reiterated the four main issues to be resolved from the merchants' point of view. These are parking, hours of operation, commercial goods being sold and the flea market aspects of the market.

Crouse also stressed her feeling that the market issue is the responsibility of the PRC and CRD director Julia Atkins as Salt Spring's "highest form of administrative government."

Beatty disagreed, saying "it is not up to them to decree what we do and what we don't."

Rod Filtness suggested a referendum be held to finally decide the issue.

Tom Toynbee said "one of the problems with this venture (the market) is that it started out as a happening and is now a substantial business venture." He feels the commission should be ensuring "it is getting its pound of flesh out of this" on revenue from vendor use of the park.

Donna Johnstone said she paid more rent for market vending space than she did as part-owner of a Ganges store.

One vendor said he didn't make much money at the market but that it is a social entity representing "an extraordinary community situation that is rare in North America." He suggested the Ganges parking problem is not confined to market Saturdays.

Fraser concluded the discussion by asking all parties to continue working towards a mutual agreement. He also emphasized the commission was willing to entertain further submissions on the market from individuals and groups.

A side issue was raised by Lee in her presentation. She said PRC administrator Tony Hume had reportedly been "soliciting signatures" in the market for the vendor-organized petition on Saturday.

Hume responded to that allegation later in the meeting. He said the "soliciting" rumour stemmed from his asking a friend as they walked through the market, "So, are you going to sign the petition?" The person he spoke to then passed that comment on to a merchant association member.

He said he also continued talking to people in the vicinity of the name-gathering table for five or 10 minutes on Saturday.

HERE'S WHAT SOME ISLAND RESIDENTS HAVE TO SAY:

LETTERS SECTION

Bicycle paths

To the Editor,
The City of Vancouver is contemplating an increased surcharge (to six cents) on gasoline, to be used to improve public transit.

Safety, (or bicycle) paths are much needed on Salt Spring roads, and for many reasons — health, the environment, economy, safety among them — it is a multiple-win situation. A surface for a bicycle can't cost more than a fraction of a per cent of what is needed for yet another car. And, in addition to other considerations, let's not forget the peace of mind of drivers.

I think it is possible that a majority of car owners would support a surcharge of say, two cents a litre for safety-pathing our roads. If Vancouver's initiative is okayed by the controlling authorities, that would suggest that it could be done here for a more modest but equally laudable purpose, assuming of course that it is generally favoured.

Another plus could be that the work would provide employment for students and others who need it.

ANDREW GIBSON,
Ganges

Helmets not the answer

To the Editor,
I wish to respond to the very emotional issue raised in this paper regarding cycling accidents. No one can see, or even hear about a child being left bleeding and bruised, or worse crippled or killed, without having the tragedy tug at his heart strings.

The bicycle is a marvellous piece of technology. Its value as an efficient, environmentally friendly and healthy form of transportation is rapidly gaining support in all communities but especially in urban centres.

Alas, its two wheeled design also makes it susceptible to rapid loss of control and only riders' quick reflexes, luck and advanced planning for how to handle a spill will work to reduce the likelihood of injury. I know that there is a ground swell of protectionism riding on the crest of emotion that wants to mandate the use of cycling helmets to reduce injury. And I acknowledge that there may be some small percentage of incidents where head injury would be avoided through the use of a helmet.

However, we must face the facts. Very few people land on their heads when they take a tumble (although those horrid low-slung handlebars make a person's face extremely vulnerable to road rash).

The vast majority of injuries involve the person not knowing how to tuck and roll and minimize the impact with the ground. Hands, wrists, ankles, knees and faces take the worst of the impact. None of these areas are protected by helmets. Any impact that can fracture a skull is going to be severely traumatic to the neck and spine also. Again areas that a helmet will not protect.

Back to head injuries. The majority of these are the result of a bicycle colliding with a motor vehicle and is accompanied with numerous other severe trauma like broken necks, spines, crushed chests, ruptured organs etc. Once again no protection is provided for these areas by a helmet.

I do not say that helmets aren't of some small value as protection from injuries. However, we would be better served by such things as having knowledge and training on self-protection techniques like tuck and roll, not tensing up and sticking out arms and legs in a rigid manner.

The banning of bicycle accessories used primarily for racing (low slung handlebars, foot stirrups, narrow rims, etc.) from normal cycling activities, accepting that, for safety alone (not to mention avoiding the exhaust fumes) bicycles deserve separate routes where grass meridians would be much more comforting to land on, and finally, accepting that some accidents are going to occur, no matter what measures we take.

In conclusion, I object to those who would put rubber bumpers on everything in the world so that we should not ever bang our shins. I also object to using emotions and scare tactics to promote yet another rubber bumper product, namely cycling helmets.

DAVID CLEGG,
Ganges

Sexist editing?

To the Editor,
I would like to thank the Driftwood for allowing me the privilege of being a guest columnist in the June 12 issue. I appreciated the opportunity to speak of support groups and self esteem issues, and I received some very nice feedback from the community. So thank you very much for publishing the piece.

I would like to make one very small comment on the way the original was edited.

Although the article began with a comment from a men's support group, it was intended to apply to all forms of support groups, for all people. The edited text used the phrase "one's reluctance to accept himself." Perhaps reluctance to accept oneself is more of a male than a female characteristic, but I wasn't trying to say that in the original text.

Even though I have the value profile of a traditional male, I have so many friends who are feminist that I ignore the feminist complaints of sexism in common language only at my peril.

Thanks to their awareness I have learned to be very sensitive to the use of inclusive language when I am writing and so, I would like to suggest to you, softly, gently, with a touch of humour and of course a lot of support, that you be the same for me when you are editing my work.

WILLIAM MANFIELD,
Ganges

Editor's note: The Driftwood follows Canadian Press (CP) style on language use. Therefore, "it is proper English to let he (him, his) stand as a word of common or indeterminate gender."

Unfair

To the Editor,
I think it is unfair that a responsible club like the Lions may not have its beer garden in the park this year.

How many people decided this? In my opinion, not enough. Sure there are more pressing issues, but fair is fair. Maybe we should let more of the community voice opinions the next time around.

CLEO M. WESTON,
Ganges

Thank you

To the Editor,
On behalf of the Sea Capers Society I wish to thank you and your staff for the support given to us prior to the event, and particularly for the full coverage you gave of the weekend.

All too often it seems that brickbats are hurled when things do not please and bouquets forgotten when good service is received. Sea Capers weekend was a truly community affair and we thank our community newspaper for being there to catch the action and report the news.

To prove that we are human I also wish to thank all those persons and organizations who assisted with the community dance at Fulford Hall. These names were not tendered with the balance in our "thank you" ad

HUBERT BEYER

VICTORIA — It occurred to me last week that I hadn't written one column about the Socred leadership race. I wonder why. At the risk of boring you to tears, however, I would like to end my silence on the topic and offer some observations on what is more of a crawl than a race.

First off, all those who recognize the name Barry Blow, raise your hand. Nobody? Well, I'm afraid I don't know much more about the gentleman, except that he lives in Duncan, used to be president of the Chilliwack Social Credit Constituency Association, wants to be premier, but has, so far, not been able to raise the $9,000 it takes to be officially in the race, pardon me, crawl, for party leader.

Next is Duane Crandall, MLA for Columbia River. Not having received an awful lot of publicity, except for the brief period during which he and two other backbenchers left the Social Credit caucus, Crandall hasn't exactly electrified the leadership contest.

I never understood why former premier Bill Vander Zalm didn't take Crandall into his cabinet, but then, I didn't understand a lot of things Vander Zalm did.

Vow to democratize government

Initially a supporter of Vander Zalm, it didn't take Crandall very long to develop a sound understanding of what parliamentary democracy is all about. After that, it took even less time for Crandall to realize that Vander Zalm's approach to public office was wrong.

Crandall's main platform is his vow to "democratize" government, to put an end to the centralization of power in the premier's office. In one of these press releases, he said he sees the premier's role as that of a conductor rather than a one-man band.

He followed up on that theme in another press release. If elected premier, he said, there will be much more democracy in the government's decision-making process.

The third leadership contender is former finance minister Mel Couvelier. He's the one who wants to be adopted by an Indian band, so he can "get on the gravy train."

Aside from being somewhat of a loose cannon, Couvelier is definitely long on experience, albeit short on charisma. Then again, after the chaos wrought by the charismatic Vander Zalm, lack of personal magnetism is probably an asset.

Have not been setting the world on fire

The fourth and, so far, final contender is Premier Rita Johnston, who was handed the job by her caucus when Vander Zalm resigned and would now very much like to keep it.

To date, the foursome has not been setting the world on fire. The campaign for the leadership has been pretty low-key. The only one who occasionally lashes out at the incumbent Johnston is Couvelier. Crandall ignores the current premier in his bid for the leadership, and Blow, I suppose, is still looking for his $9,000.

The leadership campaign, it seems, is destined to keep moving at a snail's pace towards the non-event, billed as the leadership convention. That anti-climactic phenomenon will take place July 18-20 at the Pan Pacific Hotel in Vancouver.

But wait, there are still a couple of potential candidates who could upset the old leadership apple cart — Grace McCarthy and none other than Bill Vander Zalm.

True, McCarthy has said over and over again that she is not a candidate for the leadership of her party, but every time, she has added the words "at this time."

There are two scenarios that could and probably would prompt McCarthy to throw her hat into the ring. One is the universal ballot, the other is Vander Zalm.

Split vote would give McCarthy chance

If Vander Zalm decided to go after his old job again, and he keeps saying he doesn't rule out that possibility, he will split the delegate vote that is now behind Johnston, which would give McCarthy a chance to come up through the middle.

Adoption of the universal ballot by the party would almost certainly bring her into the contest, because she would have a genuine chance of winning the leadership contest on the convention floor.

Selecting the leader by way of universal ballot would mean that every qualified card-carrying party member could cast a ballot for the leader, rather than just those who have been selected to attend the convention as delegates.

McCarthy still has a lot of clout in the party, a lot more than Johnston, but the delegate-selection process is stacked in favour of Johnston, and McCarthy has no intention of losing her bid for the leadership a second time.

The irony of it all is that McCarthy is the party's best, if not only chance to give the NDP a serious run for its money. With McCarthy as leader, the Socreds would at least have a fighting

Save old growth

To the Editor, MacBlo and Fletcher Challenge are just releasing their management plans for TFL 44. They include such beautiful places as Clayoquot Sound, Meare's Island, Namint, Carmanah and the Walbran.

Claude Richmond's assistant has informed the media that there is "no environmental problem." He said that there is 168,000 ha of accessible old growth left and he doesn't know how much is enough. Well, it amounts to about two-thirds of TFL 44 or about one-third of one per cent of the province's accessible growth.

Carmanah Forest Society director Syd Haskell claims that it's asinine to only be given a week and a half notice and 12 hours for the world's most important forestry meeting. I agree.

I phoned MB headquarters in Port Alberni at 755-3508 and found that Bernie Waataman (Regional Forester for Port Alberni Region) will entertain changes to the management plans until the end of June. Further, I found that the plans could still be viewed at 65 Front St. in Nanaimo or at the Ministry of Forests in Victoria (phone 387-8303 first) and at two places in Vancouver.

Did you know the AAC for the area is only based on saw logs and doesn't include logs for any other use including pulp logs and all the other logs that are clear-cut down?

We have been lied to for years about the AAC as if it was indicative of the sustainability of the forest when in fact it is a meaningless number that has nothing to do with the actual amount cut.

I think it's long past time to be angry with our politicians. MB and Fletcher Challenge have already made a mess of these areas.

Go see these plans if you can and write or call Claude Richmond's office asking for these plans to be made available for longer, demand that the rest of the remaining old growth be saved and that the government pay more attention to the public interest in the forests.

These five year management plans are revised every year. This means that they are only one-year plans. Also important areas such as the Sypre and Bulson rivers are omitted on their maps. Watch for deception, be informed and speak up.

Wonderful market

To the Editor,
Today as I was visiting Ganges and its wonderful market I was asked to sign a petition to save the market.

To me, and my family, it has been a most delightful draw to this island. I have for the past three years been a happy tourist to Salt Spring. I had heard of the market, the ferry ride, and in general of the Ganges/Fulford communities.

Over the past years I have purchased upbeat clothing from Mouats, local crafts from Sharon's and bought local honey, bread, hand blown glass and jewellery from Art-Craft.

To do away with the market would deter visitors on day ferry trips to Salt Spring. If merchants are having a problem I personally do not believe a market of five hours per week is the detriment. The real problem lies elsewhere. To me the market is a positive influence to the merchants of Ganges.

JUDY ANDERSON,

If shoe fits

To the Editor,
With Murray Shoolbraid's request to respond to his letter "Lack of compassion," I will now attempt to enlighten both he and letter writer Leroy Jensen on a few matters they have stated.

Yes, I am comfortably employed as a collection agent and bailiff, and I do not prey on poor people.

The service I perform is that of a person hired in a capacity to collect delinquent accounts. Most accounts, I receive are not due to a person's lower financial status. Many are for people who for instance issue N.S.F. cheques and then ignore them, and also people who overspend and ignore the repayment of monies, after being trusted and extended courtesies by merchants.

Very few of the accounts I handle are from as you call them "poor people."

Most people in the lower income bracket seem fairly responsible as to handling their financial problems, and are honest and above board. So there is a difference.

I certainly show due consideration of the misfortune of many debtors who have gotten into financial difficulty due to the economy, but there are many to whom this occurs through self-inducement.

In many cases I have personally assisted them with Debt Consolidations at no charge, and arranged for them to obtain assistance. No, I am not uncompassionate for the unfortunate, however, I do not either condone or have any use for those who abuse the system.

There are many who have disabilities but do show some initiative to at least be partially self-supporting. Then there are some who show no initiative at all.

I do not represent anyone in particular as you state but speak for myself, there is no free train in this world I know of and most of us have to work to assist the unfortunate, and I do not object to that at all. I only object to those that are physically and mostly mentally able to work but choose not to, and use the taxpayer's money when they are capable of contributing something to the economy.

On one hand you wish me to come forward and state who these people are, yet you agree that this is of a confidential nature, well it is, and I refuse to publicly state what is a matter of privacy, but it can be dealt with through the proper channels.

The people that I am referring to are those who obtain assistance and utilize the monies to sit in the local beer parlours for instance and play pool all day and very frequently, fre-passion for as much of their problems are self induced. They are the takers, not the givers.

Yes, I do own my own house, and I have worked and even during the raising of four children worked, have never been unemployed and I also get a great deal of enjoyment out of keeping busy. I have never begrudged working — in fact I kind of enjoy it.

If I have offended any person who is rightfully in need of assistance and utilizes it in the proper fashion, then I do apologize, but to those who use, and abuse: if the shoe fits, wear it.

LETTERS

"Short memories"

The following is an open letter to Tony Hume, Parks and Recreation Commission, filed with this newspaper for publication.

I am glad you have called for public input into the question of the Farmers' Market. Quite honestly, I had hoped this had been laid to rest, after the enormous expenditure on brickwork, tilework, flower beds, public signs, restrictions, permits, Vendors Association and so on.

It seems to me that most of those who call for the removal of the market have short memories or short residence on the island. In either case, they cannot remember Ganges on a Saturday morning before the market came.

If that's what they want to return to, good luck to them! And to merchants at empty streets and vacant parking lots.

As a regular church-goer, I view the suggestion of changing the market to Sunday with some dismay, but I realize I'm in a minority. As for moving it out of Ganges... well, the above comments don't even touch on the "boat people" who come here because of the market and its accessibility. They will certainly not walk any distance to wherever the market might be relocated. They will just stop coming, and the marinas, as well as the local eateries and stores will suffer.

But if that's what they want... Just tell me — who are "they"? Who formed and forms this "ad hoc" committee? I'm still a relative newcomer after 21 years on Salt Spring, and I would hesitate to express an opinion on behalf of anyone else!

MARY C. WILLIAMSON,
Ganges

More market support

To the Editor,
As relative newcomers to Salt Spring Island, we have a genuine regard for the apprehensions of longtime Salt Spring residents who have had to watch encroaching development, even if many profited from them.

While there seems to be general agreement that continued development on the island is inevitable, we would like to make some observations for consideration, especially by those petitioners asking for immediate action to remedy congestion in Ganges caused by the Saturday morning market.

We enjoy the creative, energetic ambience at the market and appreciate its role as a gathering place for the community and for the exchange of ideas and information. These are time-honoured functions of the rural market place.

In addition, it's hard to imagine that the Saturday market doesn't attract weekend visitors to Ganges, which in turn must further the interests of many local merchants.

The petitioners' proposed solution to the congestion — to remove the market from the commercial centre of the island — seems likely to subvert the market's function as a meeting place, as a centre of activity for all, and as a sustainer of local commerce and craft. Such a move also seems likely to reduce the income of island residents who regularly sell goods and wares at the market.

We hope that the market will continue to operate at Centennial Park. Further, we applaud the vendors association's effort to encourage the use of bus transportation by market visitors.

Clearly, available bus transportation is not adequate to meet demand. We urge all islanders to think seriously about planning, supporting and implementing expanded public transportation. This transportation would alleviate not only Saturday congestion in Ganges, but the impact of increased, and still growing traffic load on the Salt Spring ecology, economy and spirit.

Fletcher Challenge Canada continues to believe it's important to inform the public, our neighbours in nearby communities, and our own employees about how we utilize the forest resources of British Columbia and what we do to protect the environment. Our summer tour program at Crofton pulp and paper mill is one way people can see for themselves.

Beginning July 4th and continuing every weekday through to the end of August, there will be two 2½-hour tours daily, starting at 12:30 pm and 2 pm.

During a walk around the mill (one and one-half hours) visitors will see how kraft pulp and newsprint are made and learn more about the major environmental improvements nearing completion at Crofton.

We're proud of our operations, and we invite you to come along and see why. Reservations are required. For further details and to book your tour, please call (604) 246-6391. All tour visitors must be at least twelve years of age. Comfortable walking shoes are required. Please, no cameras.

BRIEFS from the PRC

• Parks and Recreation Commission members learned upgrading of Fernwood Elementary School fields to provide more baseball diamonds on Salt Spring will be delayed until at least next year.

PRC administrator Tony Hume told the commission's June 24 meeting the project appeared to be considerably more expensive than originally estimated, even for "cut and fill" work. Contractors had requested engineers' drawings and drainage plans before considering the upgrading work.

• A request for funds from the island's new rowing club to build a dock for activities on St. Mary Lake raised questions at the June 24 PRC meeting.

Chairman Kellie Booth wondered who or what body the dock would legally belong to upon completion and expressed concern about liability issues.

Allisen Lambert agreed to investigate the matter for the board.

Ian Fraser recommended the request be returned to the PRC finance committee for consideration.

• Tony Hume reported on the first month of Shelby Pool operation. He said a few minor "maintenance bugs" had almost been resolved.

He also said the cold weather had resulted in higher than anticipated heating costs but that "as a worse case scenario, the pool will break even."

No space problems at schools -- ministry

School trustees learned there are no space problems at Salt Spring schools — according to education ministry standards.

The subject was addressed at a June 12 meeting as trustees discussed where to place the island's eleventh portable classroom.

District secretary-treasurer Ken Starling told school board members that Gulf Islands Secondary School was the only district school entitled to an additional portable in 1991-92.

"According to ministry standards," he said, "we have adequate space."

Starling said the real story was different and required a decision from the board.

He recommended moving a portable from Salt Spring Elementary School to alleviate pressure at Fernwood, where the most overcrowding is anticipated.

Discussions with SSE staff indicated the music, computer or diagnostic rooms could be used if an unexpected influx of students arrived at SSE in September, he said.

Trustee Charles Hingston observed that with seven portables being used by the three elementary schools, "we already have four elementary schools worth of students."

There are currently three portables at Salt Spring Elementary, two at Fulford and two at Fernwood Elementary.

Three portable classrooms service Gulf Islands Senior Secondary School.

Hingston said education ministry numbers were "practically meaningless."

Schools superintendent Mike Marshall also confirmed that Grade

Eight GISS students would likely be taught core courses in Mahon Hall for the next school year. He said between 50 and 60 more students were expected at the school in September.

"As classes fill up more and more we really have a major space problem," he said.

RCMP File

Charged

• A 16-year-old Salt Spring youth faces charges of break, enter and theft after Ganges RCMP investigated theft of a stereo from a Booth Canal residence.

The theft occurred sometime between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. June 20.

The stereo system has since been recovered.

• A gas-siphoning incident on Mt. Erskine led to the arrest of a local 16-year-old.

Police are investigating a possible connection between the gas incident and a rash of other Mt. Erskine complaints reported the same night.

The youth was apprehended June 21 after a resident allegedly spotted him and another youth siphoning gas from a vehicle. Local RCMP members were called to the scene and subsequently located the youth.

In addition to gas siphoning complaints in the Mt. Erskine area that night, police received report of a theft of two power saws. One has since been recovered.

• An 18-year-old man is facing charges of causing a disturbance and assaulting a police officer following an altercation at Vesuvius Bay last weekend.

Ganges RCMP were called to a disturbance at Vesuvius Bay June 22 where they found two men fighting.

One of the men allegedly turned on and assaulted an RCMP member.

• Two females currently living on Salt Spring were apprehended and charged with shoplifting at Ganges Village Market June 19.

The 20- and 21-year-olds allegedly stole a pouch of tobacco.

Introducing a mower that gives you an immaculate lawn without bagging.

While the rest of the world is still mulching, Toro is introducing homeowners to the Recycler™. A unique new concept in mowing that gives your lawn a beautiful, just-bagged look, without bagging.

The Toro Recycler™, with its patented grass deflectors and specially designed blade, cuts and recuts the grass, then injects the fine, sliver-size clippings back into the turf, hidden from sight. You get a spotlessly clean lawn, and cut mowing time by up to one-third.

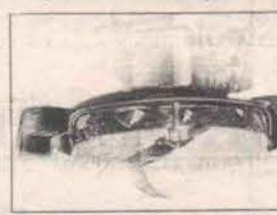

Only the Toro Recycler™ puts lawn clippings where they do the most good—back into the grass—without the clumps left behind by mulching mowers. The Recycler also features a reliable 5 hp Briggs™ engine by Quantam™ stration, zone start and your choice of hand-propelled (Model 20213) or self-propelled (Model 20214). You can quit bagging and still have an immaculate lawn. With the one and only Toro Recycler.

To cut extra tall or wet grass, convert the Recycler to a Rear Bagger by removing the adapter and adding the bag.

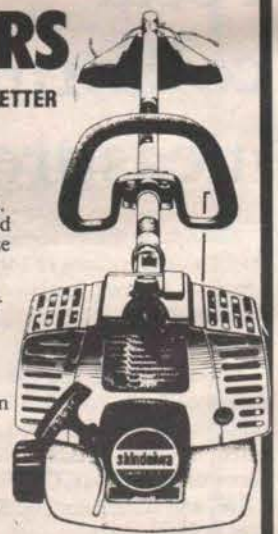

The Toro Recycler helps you do something about the high percentage of yard waste in landfills.

Patented deflectors and unique blade inject fine clippings back into grass.

Seeking a healthy community

A survey to determine what Salt Spring Islanders think is important for health is the object of a new Healthy Community Project.

The project was initiated by Salt Spring's newly-formed Community Health Council, and is one of six in the region funded for one year by the Ministry of Health.

The survey also will seek to discover what islanders would like to see done to make their community healthier. It will be conducted at the end of September at the same time as a "Wellness Wonderland" health carnival, jointly sponsored with the Registered Nurses Association of B.C.

Results of the survey will be sent out to everyone who participates in the survey and to all other interested parties.

The project is being overseen by the healthy community sub-committee, chaired by Margaret McKay, administrator of Greenwoods Intermediate Care Facility. Part-time project coordinator is Christine Bradley, a social anthropologist with a special interest in health.

Bradley moved to Salt Spring last fall after working in various parts of the world. Most recently she spent 10 years in Papua, New Guinea where she designed and coordinated a national program on violence against women now used as a model for other countries.

"Do you want to improve your health, and that of your family?" asked Bradley in a prepared statement. "Would you like to think that decisions affecting your community were being made with health in mind? Then you will be glad to hear that Salt Spring now has its own healthy community project."

The project's purpose is to help people stay mentally and physically healthy rather than focusing on illness and the provision of ever-more expensive medical services, she explained. It also aims to increase ordinary people's involvement before decisions affecting their health are made instead of the current situation where public involvement tends to be in the form of protests afterwards.

"Health is seen as a state of physical, mental and social wellbeing," Bradley said, "not just as the absence of illness. People have a better chance of staying healthy if they live in a healthy community. A healthy community is one which recognizes that health is affected by a wide range of environmental, social, economic and cultural factors, and where individuals, the community and government work together to create a setting favourable to health."

After the survey is completed, Bradley and committee members will spend several months meeting with interest groups and neighbourhood organizations to draw up a plan of action which will be presented to the public at an open forum next spring.

Anyone wanting to find out more about the project or interested in being trained as a volunteer interviewer can contact Bradley at the project office in Room 205 of the Upper Ganges Centre or call 537-2093.

CPA plans forums and requests input

Salt Spring Community Planning Association members are seeking community input on subject matter for upcoming community forums.

The CPA plans to hold forums three times each year — one in September, another in January, and one in the spring.

The next community forum will be held in September.

In the meantime, CPA members are soliciting subject matter to carry into these forums. The association has identified approximately six planning issues that need addressing on Salt Spring and welcomes additional input.

Anyone with an idea is asked to contact a CPA member. Executive members include: Syd Wigen, chairman; Ken Renaud, vice-chairman; Murray Shoobraid, secretary; and Russ Crouse, treasurer.

Fecal coliform measured

Salt Spring waters registered low fecal coliform counts as the Capital Regional District initiated annual coliform testing at regional beaches last week.

Weston Lake registered the highest coliform level at 14 per 100 millilitres of water. Stowe Lake followed, registering nine. Next was Vesuvius Beach at six, Cusheon Lake at five, and Blackburn and St. Mary lakes at four.

Fecal coliform is an indicator for sewage pollution of water and the subsequent risk of gastrointestinal disease to swimmers. Beach warnings are posted when counts exceed 200 fecal coliform per 100 ml of water.

Warnings are also issued when values fluctuate dramatically, or when there is other evidence of beach contamination.

they had entered kindergarten. He offered congratulations on behalf of the bus drivers, water taxi drivers, custodian and maintenance personnel, teachers and district staff.

Members of the audience shared a common feeling, board of school trustees chairman Marg Billsten told the students. "That feeling is pride."

It was mentioned that seven previous graduates of GISS were among the scholarship and bursary presenters for the evening.

Some $22,000 worth of scholarships and bursaries were presented to graduating students. (See photos and a complete list of recipients on Pages B14 and 15.)

Valedictorian Kirsty Walde bade farewell on behalf of her fellow graduates. Her speech and photo are provided on Page B15.

Joining Roy as one of two guest speakers, Sally Walker described the graduates as "sharing, caring kids with a great acceptance for each other."

"As we taught them, they taught us."

Walker concluded by giving students her recipe for success — "Inspiration, aspiration and dedication."

Draining of Heal Lake approved

Environment Minister Dave Mercier recently announced that in response to a request by the Capital Regional District, the provincial government has passed an Order-In-Council permitting the CRD to implement its Solid Waste Management plan and drain Heal Lake for garbage disposal.

The draining is still subject to approval under the Water Act.

CRD's Solid Waste Management Plan, which was approved by B.C. Environment in early 1989, includes provision to use the Langford-area lake as an expansion of the existing landfill site.

"CRD has been the most pro-active regional district in the province in trying to meet the provincial goal of a 50 per cent reduction in municipal solid waste by the year 2000," Mercier said in a prepared statement. "In fact, it expects to reach the target by 1995, five years ahead of schedule."

Mercier went on to say that in the short-term, some "difficult decisions" have to be made on where to put the garbage. After extensive review by the CRD, B.C. Environment and an independent study, as well as consultation with the public, it was determined that Heal Lake was the best option, he said.

CRD board gives approval to Galiano landfill request

Capital Regional District assistance to purchase and operate Galiano's current landfill site has been requested by the Galiano Club.

members reviewed the club's written request at their meeting last Wednesday and recommended the board approve procedures to get the plan in motion.

CRD environment committee

A staff report to the committee explained that the club has operated the Galiano landfill since 1979 on 163 acres of land leased from Mac-Millan Bloedel. The forest company gave the club the option to purchase the property for $315,000 or to vacate the premises by October 31, 1991 and return the land to its original state.

A public meeting was held on Galiano May 24 to discuss the island's solid waste disposal options after Outer Islands Regional Director Jacquie Campbell asked CRD staff to compile and present a report of solid waste disposal costs and options.

The Galiano Club advised the CRD in writing that after considering information presented at the meeting, residents reached a "consensus" decision asking the CRD to purchase the existing landfill site from MB, improve it to environment ministry standards and expand recycling facilities with operation of the site being handled by an elected group of residents.

Property owners would be given the option of paying for capital costs in either one year or over 15 years and will determine the method for setting rates and charges.

CRD chief engineer Mike Williams informed the environment committee in his report that in order to proceed with the club's proposal, a referendum to enact bylaws would be necessary.

Bylaws will be required to establish a "local service area" to acquire, operate and maintain a landfill site and for establishing a "refuse disposal local service committee." Authorization to borrow capital funds and establish a fees and charges system must also be obtained through bylaws.

A preliminary schedule, if approved, sets a referendum for mid-October this year.

The CRD engineering department has estimated total project cost, including land acquisition and site upgrading, at $466,228.

Annual landfill operating costs in 1991 are an estimated $73,385, rising five per cent annually to $94,062 in 1996.

Cost for preparation of bylaws and referendum is $5,150.

Proposed referenda

Next week (July 3) the Capital Regional District Environment Committee will consider once again the solid waste issue on Salt Spring Island.

Three related items are on the agenda. The first is a letter from Mr. Twa to the Board, requesting a one-year delay in the closure of Blackburn landfill so that a proposal for an on-island landfill can be developed.

Next are two items involving referenda for islanders to vote on approving funds for: a study of how best to reclaim the Blackburn site ($121,660); a study which would locate a maximum of three potential landfill sites on the island and do the necessary investigations on one of those sites to enable its permitting as a landfill ($334,400).

Galiano Islanders are proceeding in a similar direction, requesting a referendum to approve funds to purchase and operate their present landfill, located on MB land. I expect that the CRD will agree to all of the proposed referenda.

Successful referenda generally depend on good public education about the issues. In this case, we need to make sure that everyone is aware of the costs and benefits of reclamation and of developing our own on-island landfill.

What does "reclamation" mean? How much will it cost? How much waste do we generate? How much of it can be recycled? How much would we be shipping off-island? How much will it cost? Who will pay, and how will they pay? There are a number of important questions that we all should consider.

I intend to form a committee to prepare information and to facilitate public dialogue on these issues. I will be contacting various groups on the island to ask for their participation. If you or your group would like to be involved, please contact me at 653-4533. With your support, this initiative can proceed quickly, and islanders can get on with acting on their decisions.

Summer Schedule

Although it has been a little dubious when we look outside, summer has arrived. I would like again this summer to limit my activities as regional director somewhat so that I can spend some holiday time with my children.

I will continue to represent Salt Spring at the board and all initiatives underway now will proceed as scheduled. On Salt Spring, my alternate, Helen Keys, will respond to day-to-day inquiries and will attend a number of regularly scheduled meetings on my behalf.

If you would like to contact her, the number is 537-2774.

As with last summer, I will continue to be available, by phone, to all committee chairmen should the need arise. Thank you for your cooperation. I hope that everyone has a hot, happy and healthy summer.

CRD meeting to discuss Twa letter on solid waste

Salt Spring solid waste will be a major topic at next Wednesday's Capital Regional District environment committee meeting.

On the agenda for discussion and recommendation is Norman Twa's written request to delay closure of the Blackburn Road landfill and referenda required to authorize two studies.

The first study — estimated at $121,600 — will look at reclamation of the Blackburn site. Another study to locate up to three landfill sites and assess one of those in detail will also need authorization by referendum. Salt Spring CRD director Julia Atkins estimates the second study at a cost of $334,400.

CRD chief engineer Mike Williams told Driftwood he is preparing a staff report in response to Twa's June 10 letter. The report, containing relevant background information and staff recommendations, will be presented and discussed at the July 3 environment committee meeting.

Williams also said Twa's letter was not considered a "proposal" by the CRD as referred to in a June 12 Driftwood article.

"I see it as a letter requesting a one-year extension on closure of the

Flip is the best

A Salt Spring Island dog was named best of breed for both days of a competition held last weekend at Nanaimo Kennel Club.

Champion Roetmop Flippant CD, or Flip for short, was in the ring with his owner and handler Anne McPhee.

Her second dog Roetmop Cameo at Salt Spring earned another point towards becoming a Canadian Champion. Cameo now has two of 10 points required.

Five-year-old Andrew McPhee competed in the junior handling at the pee wee level. Both his mother and father, Bruce, were in attendance.

"We thought it was great because it was Father's Day and all," said Anne McPhee.

Final placements are not given out at the pee wee level, but Andrew continues to improve his skills, McPhee said. This marks his fourth competition this year. "Pee wees" are asked to present their dogs to the judges and walk them all around the ring at the correct pace. They then have the dogs stand in form while the judge examines them.

Andrew will compete in the pee wee level until he turns eight and goes to the next level which is competitive.

Both mother and son are continuing a family tradition. Andrew's great, great, great-grandfather trained Curly Coated Retrievers at the turn of the century while his grandmother Pam Mastenbroek of Salt Spring used to show Boxers during and after World War II in England.

Ceremony installs ITC officers

With theme: Challenging Our Growth

"Challenging Our Growth" was the theme chosen for Salt Spring Speakers ITC Club's incoming president.

Carol Voorhoeve and the rest of the club board were installed last Thursday in a special ceremony conducted by Susan Nicholl, past president of Charter West ITC Club in Victoria.

Other officers are: Gail Beattie, membership; Joyce Carlson, programming coordinator; Dorothy Kyle, secretary; Linda Quiring, treasurer and Margaretha Nordine, delegate to council.

Nicholl chose butterflies to emphasize the growth theme, telling members and guests the stages a caterpillar goes through in becoming a butterfly are similar to stages of growth members go through as they become more involved with ITC. Each member was presented with a butterfly after hearing the duties they will perform for the club and making a pledge to perform those duties.

International Training in Communication is a world-wide organization with a four-point program for personal development. It provides training in leadership, organizational skills, speech improvement and communication.

Two other special guests attended the installation ceremony. Diane de Champlain is a member of Swiftsure ITC Club in Victoria and president of Council 5 which includes 12 clubs with approximately 200 members in Vancouver Island and Salt Spring communities. She spoke briefly on planning for the future with enthusiasm, innovation and flexibility.

Birgitta Malmbord of Karlstad, Sweden, attended the meeting as a guest of member Margaretha Nordine.

Salt Spring Speakers have adjourned for the summer and will resume meeting in September. Anyone interested in coming as a guest or potential member is invited to call Carol Voorhoeve at 653-4364 or Gail Beattie at 537-4069.

Ganges resident awarded degree at a SFU ceremony

A Ganges woman was one of 1,200 students honoured at recent convocation ceremonies held at Simon Fraser University in Vancouver.

Ann Irene Witherspoon of Ganges was awarded a degree in Canadian Studies.

Witherspoon's area of study was appropriate as SFU president William Saywell delivered a speech encouraging students to become personally involved in promoting national unity.

"Lend your talent and time to preventing the unthinkable — a divided Canada," he told more than 1,200 students attending the June 6 and 7 convocation ceremonies.

SALT SPRING ISLAND LOCAL GOVERNMENT COMMITTEE

CALL FOR CONSULTANTS

The Ministry of Municipal Affairs is supporting a study of local government options & opportunities.

A committee appointed jointly by the Island Trustees and the CRD Regional Director is now seeking a consultant to carry out the study.

For full terms of reference and supporting information you are invited to contact

David Borrowman
Chairman
Local Government Committee
c/o Islands Trust
1205 Grace Point Square
Box 840
Ganges, B.C. V0S 1E0
or Phone 537-5984

Final selection will be by interview of those consultants who indicate their interest, in writing.

TAVI funding upped

Partners in Tourism marketing funding for Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands has been increased to $1.5 million.

Salt Spring Chamber of Commerce manager Neville Atkinson said the announcement was made by Howard Dirks at the 28th annual general meeting of the Tourism Association for Vancouver Island. The minister of development, trade and tourism spoke at a reception during the AGM.

"These additional funds will enable us to draw more tourists to Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands," said Atkinson.

Last year the area had a marketing budget of $1.2 million.

Atkinson is serving the second year of a two-year term, one of 12 directors of the board. He said he is "happy to continue to provide a voice for the island on this important board."

Donna Dawe of Duncan remains board president.

Achievement Centre

Activity program for the handicapped

Salt Spring Island Achievement Centre is a day program for adults with mental disabilities. The mission of this service is to provide integrated activities based in the community. Activities include: a market garden and greenhouse, a woodworking workshop, expanding abilities, and a variety of recreational options such as bowling, exercise, drama, camping and special outings.

Some of the most successful programs are entirely supervised by dedicated volunteers. The tutoring program provides opportunities for computer training, reading skills, basic mathematics and everyday information. Smiles Cafe luncheon is a weekly event that focuses on planning, shopping and cooking skills. The public is served in a real cafe setting and the books are tallied at the end of the day. Volunteers provide real contact with typical people on an ongoing basis and are probably the most important component of the Achievement Centre. More volunteers are needed.

Coordination efforts are directed to providing as individual a program as possible with the emphasis on community support, acceptance, and involvement. The goal for 1992 is to provide skilled job developers and coaches to support people with mental disabilities enter the competitive workforce or supported employment options.

Youth Programs

Street worker offers help

Wendy Fields is a Youth Worker whose help is available to young people on the island. Her position is varied, providing support in areas such as drug and alcohol dependency, family and relationships, loneliness and general confusion.

Also involved with the training of peer counsellors with Ann Marshall at the high school, Wendy will be providing sessions on specific topics hoping they will be able to offer support to other students. She feels that a large part of her job is to help with this process of youth helping youth.

The Youth Centre, scheduled to open this fall, will be a place where young people can go to relax and socialize. It will be situated in the old "GIPSY" building behind the Community Centre main building, which will be renovated this summer. Teens are invited to give input as to what they would like to see happen there.

Counselling services

Professional counselling, consultation

A Community Worker is available weekdays at the Centre to offer support to those in crisis. There is no cost for this service. Self-referrals are welcome. To access this counselling service, people are asked to telephone for an appointment or stop by the Centre. After hours Salt Spring residents may call toll-free the 24 hour NEED crisis line... Dial "0" and ask for zenith 2262. The Community Workers provide an emergency resource service to both the RCMP and Lady Minto Hospital on weekdays and after hours.

Community Workers also do liaison work with the Ministry of Social Services and Housing. Clients having problems or concerns may contact them for advocacy work. Social Services and Housing application forms are available at the Centre.

Recycle Depot

Project makes environmental sense

On May 22, the CRD directors approved funding to allow Salt Spring Island Recycling to opt out of the Regional recycling program and set up a pilot project. For the past 18 months, newspaper, glass and cans have been recycled by Laidlaw Waste Systems in Sidney, who had the CRD contract to supply and haul the bins. A Federal Environmental Partners Fund grant has funded a cardboard baling service, an office paper pick-up service and educational programs. From September, 1991 SSI Recycling, under the administration of the SSI Community Society, will have full responsibility for collection, processing and shipping of all recyclables.

The Recycling Program will consist of two sets of dropboxes, one at the Ganges Village Market and one at the Fulford Inn. When full they will be taken to the Recycle Centre and replaced with an empty set. They can use them safely. Each set of dropboxes will accept:

Newspapers (and their inserts), magazines, office paper, cardboard, boxboard, catalogues, telephone books, clear glass, coloured glass, tin cans, aluminum cans and foil, plastic containers, soft plastic bags and household batteries.

The Recycle Centre will be located behind the cement plant on Rainbow Road and accessed by the road leading to the Farmers' Institute buildings. The depot at the Recycle Centre will accept the same items at the drop boxes as well as:

Drywall, gypsum board, clean paint cans and plastic buckets, non-ferrous metals (copper, brass, aluminum gutters and lawn chairs, etc.), window glass, white goods (fridges, stoves, hot water tanks etc.), wood shingles and shakes, household hazardous waste, yard and kitchen waste.

The Recycle Centre will be a practical and useful method to provide the 3 R's of Reduce, Re-use and Recycle to the whole community.

Volunteers

They help in many areas

Volunteer effort is an integral part of the operation of the Community Centre. Continued dedication is shown as volunteers generously give of their time and varied skills to assist the staff and Board of Directors in many areas.

Office volunteers are on the job every day to answer telephones, greet visitors, provide information and assist administrative staff.

The purchasing, stocking and distribution of food for the Food Bank is another vital volunteer effort.

In the Achievement Centre, volunteers help the staff with tutoring, arts and crafts, wood-working, gardening and other projects for handicapped persons.

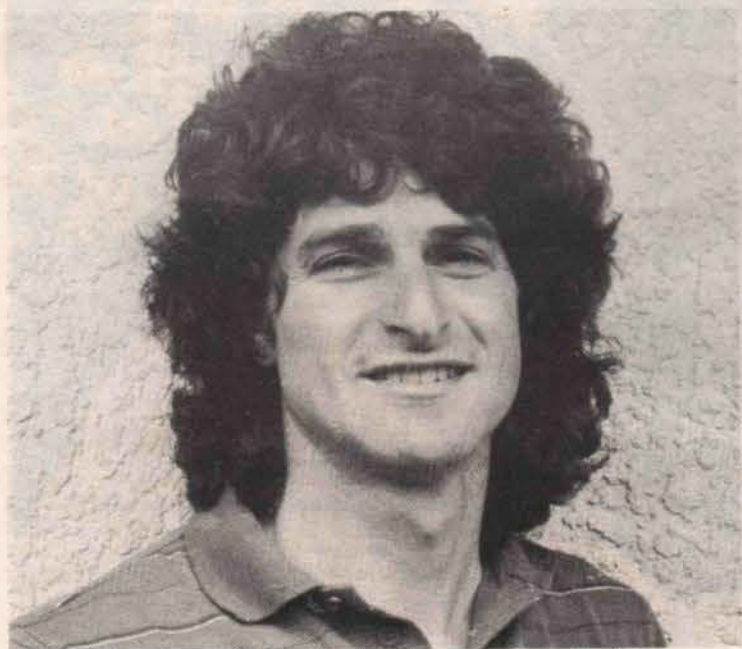

There is a list of volunteer drivers who provide transportation for those in need of medical and other important appointments.

Throughout the year, there are special events such as the Craft Fair, Food Bank Auction and Christmas Hampers which are wholly dependent on a large group of volunteers.

As the Community Society continues to grow rapidly, so has the need for more and more volunteers. If you feel you could help out in any area, please call 537-9971 — the volunteer on duty will be delighted to hear from you.

Special Services

Help with special needs

This program is funded by the Ministry of Social Services and Housing and provides service to families in which a child is experiencing serious emotional and behavioural difficulties.

Trained child care workers spend up to 10 hours a week providing support and understanding to the troubled youngsters, and assist the parents in improving their parenting skills. Both teens and pre-teens can be involved in this program.

There is no charge for this service which is available on Saturna, Galiano, Mayne and Pender Islands as well as Salt

Youth/Family Counselling

In conjunction with elementary schools

Jack Rosen is the new youth and family counsellor who will be working with children age 11 and 12 and their families in conjunction with the elementary schools on Salt Spring Island. Jack has a strong background in Outward Bound activities and is interested in assisting children to develop their self-confidence.

Food Bank

Emergency food supplies

The Food Bank is a service for people requiring emergency food supplies. Located in the Community Centre, the Food Bank is open Monday to Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. except noon hour.

The Food Bank is supported by generous donations from Salt Spring residents throughout the year both in monetary form and by deposits of foodstuffs in the food bank boxes located in grocery stores. At Christmas time, the Food Bank Auction contributes to the Christmas hampers which go to approximately 100 families.

Santa's workshop collects, refurbishes and distributes toys to needy children.

The Village Market save-a-tape program and islanders' willingness to place their tapes in the food bank box at the store has done much to make the Food Bank successful. Other merchants are generous in their donations of day-old bread, vegetables and other perishables. Program coordinators express their many thanks to everyone who contributes to this important service.

McGoldrick Residence

Group home for challenged adults

Since 1988, the Community Society has been operating a group-home for four mentally challenged adults. In a home-like setting, which realizes the abilities and individual uniqueness of the residents, caregivers aim to encourage development of independent living skills through the use of role modelling, normalization techniques and community integration in the most supportive and least restrictive environment.

Involvement of the community in this process can result in developing networks of support and counsel and an increased awareness that quality of life and the fullest empowerment of each individual is the responsibility of all citizens.

Family enhancement

Counselling services offered

The Family Enhancement Program continues to provide "no fee" counselling and therapy services to Pender, Mayne and Saturna islands. John Hayashi, our new counsellor, has a masters degree in counselling and is a general practitioner helping clients with emotional crisis, loss, personal development, parenting and relationship difficulties. In addition he has a special interest working in areas of family violence and adult survivors of child abuse.

If you would like more information or want to arrange an appointment call John in Victoria at 592-7205. You can also leave a message with the Salt Spring Community Centre at 537-9971 or the Health Centres on Pender, Mayne or Saturna islands.

Board Members

Offering society direction

Serving on the board of directors for two-year terms are: Catherine Faulkner, President; Kathleen Horsdal, Vice-President; Gordon Keys, Secretary; Trudy Kingwell, Treasurer; Tom Woods, Jon DeWest, Alice Andress, Margaret Morris, Gary Machell, John Price, Heather Denton, Tom Volquardson, Joan Calderhead, Sheila Reynolds, Donald Robertson and Barbara Jordan-Knox, Executive Director.

Mental health nurse

Provides services for clients

Registered psychiatric nurse Kathy Mara provides a service to clients with manic depressive illness, schizophrenia and long term depression. This includes assessment, supportive counselling, teaching, medication monitoring, family support and referral. There is no charge for this service and clients are generally referred to their family physician.

John Hayashi

Substance abuse Alcohol and drug counselling

Patti Locke-Lewkowich is the Centre's Alcohol and Drug Counsellor. She spends half her time on Salt Spring Island, and also works on a regular basis on Galiano, Mayne, Pender and Saturna islands.

Individual, couple and family counselling are available. Patti works with those who have difficulties with alcohol and/or drugs themselves, and is also available to meet with anyone who is concerned with a partner's, family member or friend's use.

She is familiar with resources available in the area and can discuss various options available regarding residential programs, self-help groups and employee assistance programs.)

Patti also works in the schools on each island regarding a preventative approach to the alcohol and drug issue dealing with issues such as peer pressure and self esteem.

She is available to address service, parent/teacher, and other groups in the community on various issues such as identification, prevention, intervention and community mobilization regarding alcohol and drug issues.

This program is FREE and confidential. For more information please call Patti at 537-9971.

Patti Locke-Lewkowich

Trish Nobile

Quit Smoking Program

New support group

A new service offered by the Community Centre is support groups to help people quit smoking. The groups are led by a counsellor and ex-smoker, and offer behaviour modification techniques and group support to people wanting to be free of this addiction. Each group consists of eight two-hour sessions. The cost is $20 or $5 for those with low incomes. To register for a group, call Susan Krug.

GIPSY

Gulf Island Program Serving Youth

"GIPSY" students work on an individual program, at their own speed, in a small group setting and receive one-to-one help and counselling. In addition to the basic required academic courses, students actively participate in a work experience program where they learn vocational skills "on the job" and take part in various life skills workshops. Students have the opportunity for outdoor recreation and field trips throughout the year.

"GIPSY" school is located in a house on Kanaka Road, next to the High School.

This program is jointly funded by School District #64 and by the Salt Spring Island Community Society, who employ a youth and Family Counsellor - Patricia Nobile.

JUNE 29: BBQ and dance at Legion (6 p.m.)
JUNE 30: Art in Centennial Park (daily 10-3)
ALL WEEK: ArtCraft at Mahon Hall

Exquisite wares at ArtCraft

ArtCraft is once again in full swing at Mahon Hall in Ganges.

My first impression when I walked into Artcraft was of a sense of deep richness of creation. Beautifully displayed arts and crafts fill the entire space. Is this really a hall where people did aerobic fitness classes just a few weeks ago?

Wall to wall, floor to ceiling, there is something that will catch the fancy of everyone, from tiny toddlers to adoring grandparents.

Beautiful creations — both functional and non-functional are everywhere — presented in a highly professional manner. The display racks, the labels and information on the various items generally denote a very well thought out presentation.

I will try to touch on a few of the items available at ArtCraft which impressed me the most.

Teleidscopes, a variation of the age old kaleidoscope, available in attractively presented casings with domed glass on the end will appeal to children of all ages.

While I am on the subject of toys, take a good look at Crone and Co.'s stuffed bears. Made with re-cycled materials and local fleece, these individually named bears are a total delight. Jennifer Wiebe-Hass is the master-mind behind their creation. I particularly liked the words on her label describing them as "hand wrought bears" and "wonderful toys."

Another play object of note is Art and Marg Simons' environmental awareness game called Sunflowers and Sewer Pipes.

All the colours of the rainbow are available in Donna J. Vanderwekken's hand-spun and dyed wool. Soft and luscious, this wool comes from her own sheep, a true treasure of Salt Spring Island.

Living Stones by Alberta Evans incorporate the ancient lore of healing and energy carried in various stones into jewellery items. She is also partners with Gloria Nye in Earth Totems — talking sticks in the North American Indian tradition, created from wood, leather, beads and feathers. The idea is that people holding a stick are allowed to speak, uninterrupted until they are finished and pass the stick along, encouraging respectful listening and communication among all the people present.

I wonder if we could use some of these talking sticks at our public meetings?

Attractive recycled hand-blown glass is on display, by Michael Robb and David Borrowman. Phoenix Art Foundry candle holders are creative pieces of sculpture which also hold candles in a most beautiful fashion, by Mel Marchbank. Pottery of note is the exquisitely designed and glazed work of Bas Cobanli and the very appealing sea-green pieces by Mark Meredith.

Arteen

LYNDA LAUSHWAY

There is handmade clothing for the whole family, from sweaters and children's clothing to very sophisticated hand-painted silk garments by Babs O'Brien. Elaine Potter has some lovely hand-painted shirts and dresses on display.

Itzart Designs, by Lynda Joyce, are cotton canvas bags with well executed hand-painted original designs on each bag.

Stunning quilts cover the walls, with the more traditional hand-sewn designs by Aspidistra's L. Ruth Bishop. The more modern quilt, with an absolutely beautiful design and colour combination is by Donna Johnstone.

Details Studio with work by sculptor Chris Denbigh offers hand-crafted pewter pieces, with intricately detailed animal renditions to be worn as various adornments.

I left ArtCraft with a sense of wonder. All these amazingly creative people live here on this island. They are all working away in their homes and studios using their imaginations and highly developed skills to bring forth an incredible bounty.

We are fortunate to live in a community that has this talent, this great energy, nestled in this space. I also wondered why I am not a rich woman — believe me, the treasures of Art-Craft are truly tempting.

DRIFTWOOD Video Review

Walt Disney's White Fang is a predictable but pleasurable movie easily described as a film industry equivalent to music's "easy listening."

The movie follows the maturing process of Jack (Ethan Hawk), who arrives in the Yukon eager to strike gold on his late father's Klondike claim in the late 1800s, and White Fang, a dog-wolf cross also orphaned in the wild ice-capped North.

Jack and father-figure Alex (played by Klaus Marie Brandaur) battle the rugged environment, ferocious wild animals and a collection of "bad guys." White Fang undergoes his own bitter clashes with his major antagonist — man — and the lives of boy and dog criss-cross throughout the first half of the film until their inevitable union.

The film predictably promises a few teary-eyed moments, a good-conquers-bad theme, and "light-viewing" throughout. It is appropriate for family screening and steers away from unnecessary gore and violence.

Some scenes stretch reality: a vicious (but not gory) attack on the men by a wild wolf pack is "disclaimed" at the film's conclusion. The note states there is no evidence of a wolf pack assault on humans ever occurring in Canada.

A note prior to the start of the film indicates that all animals used in White Fang were trained with "care and concern." Remarkable training and clever filming tactics result in realistic animal scenes.

White Fang will not provoke deep, cerebral thinking by viewers, but it will provide a lightly satisfying two-hours of entertainment.

Chamber mixer draws crowd

Nearly 100 people turned out for Salt Spring Chamber of Commerce last Wednesday at lower Legion Hall.

Representatives from all categories of chamber membership — accommodations, professional, associates, restaurants, galleries and retailers — were in attendance.

Master of ceremonies Peter Bardon encouraged everyone to "network and get to know one another. That's what we're here for."

After a few welcoming words from president Sherry Irwin of Cedar Beach Resort, a short address and slide presentation was given by Jim Reger of Brannart Marketing on a business development program for

Salt Spring (see separate story.)

Spotlight speakers were chosen from the chamber membership to give a two-minute overview of their businesses. They were Brian Betts of Century 21 who spoke on his duties as chairman of Dry Grad 1991, Eve Therrep of Eva Travel, Jack Hallam of Salt Spring Driftwood Gallery which opens next week and Ross McLeod of Mansell Farms.

Another mixer is planned for the fall, Bardon said, and six spotlight speakers will be given an opportunity to speak then. Names were drawn from those in attendance after business cards were dropped into a box as people came through the door.

Three door prizes were distributed with Bob Kirkpatrick of Rainbow Rentals winning a mention in the next chamber newsletter, Trix Boyd of Studio Trix winning her next year's chamber membership fees, and Diane Lee of Springfarm Retreat winning a cruise in the Gulf Islands.

Hot band at Harry's

Azure Blue aims to create a party atmosphere for all ages.

The six-piece band will perform this weekend (July 28 and 29) at Harry's Boatworks Pub in the Harbour House Hotel.

Hotel management says the band is definitely back by popular demand, having received favourable island response each time it performed here.

Azure Blue's music is described as "infectious rock and roll" with a "hard driving rhythm section" that is a "proven crowd pleaser."

Azure Blue has been a popular opening act for recording artists Long John Baldry, Doug and the Slugs and Jim Byrnes. The band plays a variety of musical venues in the Lower Mainland and is known for its "capability of playing a wide selection of musical material."

Band members say: "If you can't dance to it, we don't play it."

ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Renowned carver and painter of birds David Jackson

From sales to duck decoys

For those who have wondered how the transformation of duck decoys to popular and collectible art took place, one of Salt Spring's newer resident artists can give you the inside story.

By GAIL SJUBERG
Driftwood Staff Writer

Renowned duck and bird carver David Jackson initiated the dynamite decoy idea about 12 years ago and has been unable to take a thorough break since.

As he contemplated a career change after 20 years in the retail business, Jackson got a brainstorm while attending an antique auction. He bought an old decoy at a Langley auction, studied some library books on carving and made his first decoy from "two two-by-fours glued together."

"I still don't know what kind of duck it is," he says.

He carved a few more decoys and sought the opinion of a friend who owned a chain of gift stores. While discussing the matter in his friend's driveway, a neighbour's acquaintance bought a pair right out of Jackson's hand.

The retailing friend then went to an Edmonton gift show and returned to Jackson with orders for $10,000 worth of ducks.

"From that day to this one, I have been in a sold out business," he says. Success on a commercial level helped Jackson venture into the broader world of bird carving, recreating species as varied as the kinds of wood used.

He took courses with Larry Barth, who Jackson considers "probably the greatest bird carver working today."

Jackson tries to view as many representations of a bird as possible before tackling it as a project. Photos, frozen, stuffed or live birds can be observed for months before a recreation is attempted.

"If you are going to carve something, you really have to know it," he says.

A stuffed owl and Jackson currently exchange glances while at work in his studio. For some time he has absorbed the bird's details from all angles, getting up to move it slightly in another direction when the integration of its image at a certain point appears to be complete.

"I will look at it every day," says Jackson, "and almost now I could carve it."

A malleable clay model allows him to work out mistakes and pitfalls

Artistic activities and rural beauty described as two Salt Spring attractions

before setting knife to wood. Carving a realistic, lifelike bird is painstakingly difficult, he stresses. It must be anatomically correct, which requires adherence to precise measurements and detail. One calculation error can kill the life and realism in a figure.

"One wrong cut with a knife and you may as well just throw it away," says Jackson. "I learned this through experience," he adds, noting that failed birds "make great kindling."

Quiet observation is an optimal tutor, he says. "The best thing you can do is just observe, and pretty soon you begin to get fanatical about it. You look at everything . . ."

Jackson has spent hours simply taking in the casual comings and goings of nature from his Scott Point home and studio. "Moving to Salt Spring changed the way I thought about wildlife," he says.

A typical early morning scene outside his window combines the antics of deer, squirrels and several species of birds. Otters, quail, eagles and whales, in season, create "a wildlife enthusiast's dream" for Jackson.

He confesses to welcoming neighbourhood deer and feeding them "religiously."

Abundant wildlife, green space and quiet is valued by Jackson. "I hope we can maintain a lot of that on this island," he says, though already cognizant of the pace of change witnessed in his first year and a half on the island.

Artistic activities are another major Salt Spring attraction besides its natural beauty, and Jackson suggests efforts to promote the island as an artists' community be expanded.

Jackson is contributing to that development by operating the Tufted Puffin Gallery with spouse Carolyn on their property at 340 Scott Point Drive. Its focus is local and West Coast carving, pottery and painting from several artists and includes Jackson's own works.

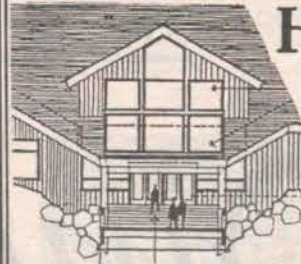

Running the Tufted Puffin has provided his first experience of directly selling work to buyers. He enjoys the personal exchange between client and artist and combining work and exhibition in one setting.

Jackson's work is in private and corporate collections worldwide and held by people like Prince Phillip, Harry Belafonte, Glenn Close and Dennis Thatcher.

Jackson is now venturing into soapstone carving, inspired by Salt Spring's Gary Thurber.

"There comes a time when you have to branch off and try something fresh and new," he says, "even to make what you do normally become fresh again."

Festival slate of western performers confirmed

Photo contributed

As the Salt Spring Festival of the Arts gears up for its July 5 opening, confirmations for the final weekend have kept organizers busy producing an updated information flyer.

Recently confirmed as headline act for the Festival finale country-folk weekend at Mansell Farm July 27 and 28 is Prairie Oyster. This popular and award-winning six-piece band is in the forefront of contemporary country music and will play down on the farm on Sunday, July 28.

Also on the same program July 28 is Valdy, Nolan Murray with Silver City and other bands providing country-style entertainment from 2 until 10 p.m.

Lead act at Mansell on Saturday, July 28 is the well-known and well-loved Spirit of the West.

The country-folk weekend will also include a famous Mansell Farm lamb barbecue, refreshment garden and children's activity area.

Those who enjoy chamber music at its finest will not want to miss the opening Festival act next Friday. The Guarneri Trio from Prague, Czechoslovakia, garnered standing ovations at last year's Victoria International Festival.

Music with a contrasting appeal is offered by Soul Vibrations on Saturday, July 6. Listen and dance to the eight-piece group from the Atlantic coast of Nicaragua, with musical experience representing the multi-cultural nature of that coast. On Sunday, July 7 and Wednesday, July 10, the Festival features "Dance" by Salt Spring's Turnagain Dance Collective. Dancers Robbyn Scott, Anna Haltrecht and Sue Bowler come together with other local dancers to present an evening of jazz and modern dance.

The program includes solos, group work and original choreography in both new and established works.

The Festival continues throughout July. Watch future issues of Driftwood for details on upcoming events.

UPCOMING EVENTS

Children can plan for summer day camp fun

Lisa Koski

Theme days will be a major component of Salt Spring Island Parks and Recreation Commission's "Summer Discovery" day camp program this year.

PRC day camp director Lisa Koski told Driftwood last week the program has been "totally restructured to provide a safe, stimulating, educational and fun outdoor experience for children five- to 11-years of age."

Day camp sessions begin July 2 and continue through August 23. Youngsters can register on a weekly basis for $55 per session or on a walk-in basis for $12 per day, said Koski.

Registration forms can be obtained at the parks and recreation office at Portlock Park during office hours Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Koski said she also will be available during those hours on Friday.

Up to 30 children can be accommodated per session with the present hiring structure of a director and two counsellors. However, Koski said all children would be welcomed and changes would be made to accommodate increased numbers.

She has been working since May on new ideas for the camp but officially started the job June 17. Along with counsellors David Marshall and Christine Carey, she has been analyzing what has worked and what has not worked in past programs.

"From that we have discovered what is exciting; what the kids want so they can learn and have fun at the same time," Koski said. "We want to integrate fun and educational experiences. It's not impossible to have both."

Some activities to be included in the program are beach and lake explorations, nature awareness, swimming in the new pool three times a week, arts and crafts, bowling and off-island waterslide visits.

"We're looking at different approaches to familiar activities such as aqua games in the pool," Koski explained, adding there will be a major outdoor emphasis this year. "In the past there have been a lot of inside activities. But we want to do things outdoors, enjoying the beauty of our island."

Special events will be held each week, starting off with a sports day during the first session. In addition to swimming at the pool, youngsters will play soccer and baseball.

Theme days will include pets, bikes, carnival, Easter and Christmas. Other suggestions from youngsters would be welcome, said Koski. "We are looking forward to the arrival of the kids so we can begin to have fun."

Chamber business program aims for successful retailing in the 90s

More than half the available spaces in a business owners' and operators' development program for Salt Spring Island have been filled.

Guest speaker for a Chamber of Commerce mixer last week was Jim Reger of Brannart Marketing in Victoria who is coordinating the program under the auspices of the local chamber.

Reger said the program, which kicks off with a session entitled "Successful Retailing in the 90s," has been specifically tailored for this island community. It was originally scheduled for Thursday, June 27, but it has been postponed until September.

"We felt it would provide more continuity than having a summer break after the first session," said chamber manager Neville Atkinson.

Some 85 per cent of funding for the six-month program is being provided by the federal government.

A minimum of 40 business participants are required to have the program and both Reger and local chamber executive members are confident that number will be reached by the first session tomorrow (June 27) night.

"The federal government is funding these types of programs because they work," Reger explained to those attending the mixer.

"Studies done over a two-year period showed there was a 40 per cent increase in sales among participating businesses, a 50 per cent increase in profits and a 45 per cent increase in number of jobs created."

Ninety-five per cent of all new jobs in Canada are being created by small business, he said, adding this includes companies with less than 100 employees.

The program being offered on Salt Spring covers home-based businesses as well as retail and small manufacturing operations.

"Every small business on this island will benefit from this program."

More than 10,000 people have taken part in similar programs across Canada, and Reger has provided training for more than 600 in Victoria.

He urged people to sign up because once funding for a program is cut off, "there will be no extension."

Anyone interested can contact chamber manager Neville Atkinson at 537-4223.

Annual sandcastle contest promises $25,000 in prizes

Sand sculptors of all ages can take a shot at one of $25,000 worth of prizes at the annual B.C. Sandcastle Competition.

The event will take place Sunday, July 14 in Parksville on Vancouver Island.

Competitions are open to all ages and categories of skill, including categories for children and rookie entrants, plus categories for the veteran competitors who return each year from around the world.

Organizers expect more than 50 teams will compete for the $25,000 in prizes.

Last year's competition drew over 35,000 visitors to Parksville.

Century 21 wins girls' ball league

The 1991 Girls' Softball season came to a close last Sunday with an end of season tournament at Portlock park.

By MALCOLM LEGG
Driftwood Contributor

The four teams — Driftwood, S.S. Insurance, Century 21 and Rainbow Rentals — came well prepared to challenge for the trophy.

In the semi-finals, Century 21 squeaked by Rainbow Rentals and Driftwood beat S.S. Insurance. The final pitted the league's two top teams — Century 21 and Driftwood — in an excellently played final game which Century 21 won 13-10.

In the consolation game, Rainbow Rentals slipped by S.S. Insurance to gain third place.

Although Century 21 emerged the winner, all teams performed very well and all showed marked improvement over the season — a tribute to fine work of their coaches, Diane Little, Linda Schwagly, Ellen Hazenboom, this writer and all their assistants.

The fine level of play and the ability of the girls to compete and still have fun bodes well for softball next season. In fact, it is hoped that the teams may be split into two age categories to break up the difficulties of the current age spread (9-15 years old).

Special thanks must be given to all the umpires of the season, in particular Brian Little and Doug Underwood for their work in the tourney.

Also thanks to the Parks and Recreation Commission for the good field and lining, especially Dana and her crew.

The league also wishes to thank the four sponsors, Century 21, Driftwood, S.S. Insurance and Rainbow Rentals, for their support and hope they will be back next season.

And finally thanks to the many fans that supported and cheered all the girls on.

PLAY Ball!

Prep team baseball season for NRS ended with a "bench-clearing brawl" after the umpire called the final game, citing the "mercy" rule for Chemanius.

Both teams piled on the umpire but it was "all in fun," according to a team representative. "A fun end to a very good year for Salt Spring NRS prep team." He also expressed the team's appreciation to NRS Realty for its support over the past three years.

The 19-4 victory gave the locals a record of 12-3-1 for the season.

NRS built up an overwhelming 16-0 lead in the first inning and finished its scoring when Neil Beech slammed a home run against the left field fence.

Ricky Tyson pitched the first two innings for NRS before the team went through its complete pitching staff to end the season.

Playing on the very successful prep team were Ryan Smith, Chris Collette, Travis Guedes, Ross Moulton, Ricky Tyson, Norman Borland, Eric Byron, Justin Byron, Mat Eide, Eric Taylor, Bronwen Hogan, Neil Beech, and Corey Johnson. Coaching duties were handled by Michael Hogan while Dale Johnson managed the squad.

Women's Ball

Gamblers came close to pulling an upset last week when they dropped a close 8-7 decision to Driftwood Derelicts. They led 7-5 going into the last inning but allowed Derelicts to score three runs and were shutout in the bottom of the seventh.

Rocky Kinahan recorded the June 17 win while Dora Reynolds pitched in a losing cause. Pam Fetherstone's sixth run homer highlighted the game's offensive play.

Two days later Gamblers folded early when they gave up seven first-inning runs when their bluff was called by Fulford.

Carol Jenik was in the hurler's circle for the winners. Reynolds was tagged with the loss.

Fulford's hitting dominated the game as the team scored seven in the first, one in the third and fifth, two in the sixth and finished with four more in the seventh.

SPORTS

ISLAND SWINGER: Rene Payne may not be a PGA Pro, but he shot a good game in the second annual Vesuvius Inn Golf Tournament last Saturday.

Table full of prizes awarded to golfers

Everyone was a winner in the Vesuvius Inn's second annual golf tournament held Saturday on Salt Spring greens.

Top winners included Don Nemeth who walked away with the men's low gross category, shooting a 77. For the low gross women, Connie Hardy took the top spot with an 87.

Low net with a handicap went to Glenn Woodley, shooting a 65; and the low net honer system category was taken by John Raposo (72).

Winning low gross team members included Dale Klimek, Bud Solitt, and Connie and Mike Hardy.

The second annual Vesuvius Inn tournament was open to all islanders.

GOLF Tees

Ladies in the nine-hole division invited their 18-hole comrades to join a mixed game, June 19. Altogether, 55 ladies participated.

By JOSEPH COCKER
Driftwood Contributor

Low net prize was conferred to Jean Williams and runners up were Babs Ross and Vi Austin.

Second of the low net prizes was awarded to winner from the 18-hole flight, Peggy Thorne. Runner-up was Julie Godwin.

Members perplexed by the mysterious white line bisecting the ninth fairway will be relieved to learn that the irrigation system is not being unearthed for repair. Part of yet another unique competition patented by the nine-holers, the closest shot to the mark gained prizes for both Isobel Heffernan and Sandy English.

The putt pot was shared by Margaret Frattinger and Vi Huska of the nine-hole division. Jackie Vibe accepted in the 18-hole flight.

June 18 marked the qualifying round of the Bank of Commerce Cup. Pam Ellacott and Jerry Alexander scored duplicate 69s to win low-net. The runner-up was Irene Hawksworth by one stroke, also the winner of the putt pot (28).

The Evans Cup which began last week, has now been played to completion, the tie between Olive Wilkie and Marj Cade being broken by winner Marj Cade.

Twenty Mount Brenton members travelled to Salt Spring for Men's Day June 20. Over 80 players teed off on a shotgun start for a 18-hole ball sweep. The day's low net of 66 was shot by S. Hopkins with J. Sutherland the runner up at 69. Prizes were also awarded to the subsequent 20 low-net scorers.

The 1991 inter-island event has now been completed between Galiano, Pender and the Salt Spring golf clubs. Salt Spring retained the Appleby (low-net) trophy and also brought home the Bambrick (low-

To enjoy the benefits of providence is wisdom; to enable others to enjoy them is virtue. He who is indifferent to the welfare of others does not deserve to be called human. # Immersion classes well-attended

Popularity of French Immersion programs in Gulf Islands School District attests to the fact that many people in this area see value in Canada's bilingual position.

Eight per cent of the 1563 students in District 64 were enrolled this year in French Immersion. A total of 130 students took the program which has been offered here since 1981.

Throughout the province five per cent of the 530,807 students enrolled in September 1990 are involved in French Immersion. Starting in 1968 with 47 students in B.C., the program increased dramatically from 862 in 1976 to 21,555 in 1987, just 11 years later.

Last September there were 27,431 students in the program. Only recently has demand for immersion levelled off. One reason given is that French instruction can now start as low as Grade Four.

Bilingualism has been criticized by some Canadians as too costly and is often blamed on demands of Quebec. At a recent symposium of newspaper journalists, several French-speaking Quebecers made it clear they were not proponents of bilingualism. What they have asked for is for federal services to be provided to them in their own language.

Symposium participant Jean Mongenais told the gathering at Bishop's University that while bilingualism is described as too costly by some Canadians, "the cost is less than one per cent of the federal budget."

"No matter what country we want, it will have a cost. If we want a certain kind of country, we must pay the cost."

"It is ironic," said B.C. representative and Driftwood publisher Joyce Carlson, "that interest in French Immersion has been growing in B.C. at a time when francophone Quebecers' support for sovereignty is peaking."

"Many parents in B.C. have bought into bilingualism."

Meanwhile in Quebec, the Montreal Catholic School Commission was criticized for considering a policy that would force French-only in school playgrounds.

Bill 22 in Quebec guarantees anglophones more rights to schooling in the language of one's choice than anywhere else in Canada, francophones contend, even more that provided for in the 1982 Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

Dr. TOMORROW

Consider the numerous appliances you and your family have mastered during the past 50 years. Remember almost no household appliances existed 50 years ago. Some appliances have been around less than a decade. Before delving into what you have to train for next, let's look at the latest in home electronics.

By DR. TOMORROW
Frank Ogden

The very latest models also incorporate a "translator." They record shows simulcast in two languages. By pressing an extra button you hear one language, then another. This is how the Japanese are now learning English.

Televisions are everywhere today but large screens are coming on strong. They will soon be a "must" to fit into your new home entertainment, information and educational centre. A large number of channels is not that far away.

This year saw the introduction of Mattel's "Power Glove." Modified, this computer terminal will allow viewers via computers — to handle shopping, banking, stock market manipulations and, selecting a sad, happy or boring ending for favourite soap operas.

To be current with the new global picture one had better build a good shortwave radio into his budget. These are no longer the crackly, static radios of the past. Today, you punch in the digital frequency and get instant Cairo. The price range is around $200.

Compact Disc-Read Only Memory

If you always wondered what those Morse Code signals were saying, now's the time to buy. Morse-a-Word receivers will pick up the signal, translate it into English and flash it along a reader board for you to see. Software programs that do the same thing are available for home computers.

For your musical system, a stereo enhancer, equalizer, or real time spectrum analyzer ($100 each) will give you more of those flashing lights and enhanced sound. Both phones, standard or cordless can be hooked up to your stereo system so you can really hear from your friends.

If you haven't yet purchased a compact disc (CD) player, go for the latest. The CD-ROM (Compact Disc-Read Only Memory), not only plays great digital sound but can deliver, for example, all the famous art works from the Louvre in Paris, the complete works of NASA, the 15 billion year history of the world or 20 volumes of the Grolier Encyclopedia — all on one side of the common 4.5-inch CD. A library on a disc. The new way to go. Prices are dropping fast. About $1,000 if you look around.

What does the future hold?

Later this year expect "Micro-TV" for the home computer. The ability to "frame-grab" a single picture from TV, freeze it and include in a computer print-out. If your electronic mail is discussing the Berlin Wall, include a picture of it in that letter to mother. You don't have to be everywhere anymore just to take a picture.

Later on: Full-time video on the computer screen as compression transmission allows real time video to be transmitted over present household copper phone cable. It will carry crunched information that expands once it hits a computer.

Satellite dishes using the new frequencies are now broadcasting in Japan. They carry the new High Definition TV (HDTV) with 1125 lines of resolution. Crystal clear pictures. Your present home TV shows 525 lines (when it's new and you're living next door to the transmitter). Present dish size about that of a fibreglass cafeteria serving tray. Other frequencies now in the test stage will deliver a dish the size of a Thanksgiving dinner plate. Later still, the size of a saucer.

Much later with holographic projectors, similar to the big-screen projectors, TV stars will come right out of the screen. Larger than life. To match the new prices. Bigger than most of us can afford, at least for the first few years. Plan on watching it occasionally at the local pub.

Computers and regular TV are merging paths. The computer may win out because of greater versatility. Never mind which wins the race. The dramatic changes that are going to be here in the future it is going

Almost everyone has a videocassette recorder. Many people have never learned to program them to record the desired shows but the new units make it much easier and it can be done "on screen."

Public Notice

Starting Thursday, July 4, and continuing for up to one week, we will be cleaning new steam lines at the Crofton Pulp and Paper Mill between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.

This is a necessary part of preparations for the start-up this summer of our new low-odor recovery boiler, one of the major projects in our mill modernization.

We expect changes in the cleaning process — which passes pressurized steam and water through the lines — will significantly reduce the noise normally caused by this activity.

We thank our neighbours for their patience and understanding and apologize for any inconvenience.

DOWN THE YEARS

Thirty Years Ago

- Flower boxes were installed along the causeway in Ganges by Charles Moat and helpers as a Chamber of Commerce project.
- Graduation ceremonies were held at Mahon Hall, with Ivan Moat as guest speaker and a speech by valedictorian Duncan Hepburn. Ceremonies were preceded by a student banquet at the United Church hall. A dance at Mahon Hall followed the ceremonies.
- Gavin C. Moat Park was virtually complete, with campers allowed to use the facilities beginning July 1. Each of the 15 campsites had a picnic table, benches and a place to cook. Water and rest rooms were functional and wood cut for campers' use.
- McColl & Fleming garbage pick-up rates were $3 per month for weekly pick-up; $5 every three months for bi-monthly pick-up and $1 for a single pick-up of one can of garbage.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

- The exact proposed boundaries of the projected Ganges village were to be discussed and perhaps set at the initial meeting of a village organizing committee. The committee would investigate the feasibility of a village municipality and prepare the initial petition, asking the minister of municipal affairs to hold a plebiscite on the issue.

Committee member C.R. Horel was busy preparing a map of the proposed boundaries.

- Saturna Island's Bill Lawson killed a six-foot female cougar while out for a drive with his wife. Shale plant foreman Lawson packed his rifle that night after learning that Gordie McFadden had spotted a cougar in the East Point Lighthouse area the previous day.

- A Victoria man was seriously injured when the vehicle he was driving left Vesuvius Bay Road as he rounded a corner and skidded sideways into a tree. The man faced charges of dangerous driving as a result of the accident in which a passenger received minor injuries. The car was totally destroyed.

Twenty Years Ago

- Federal conservation minister Jack Davis' proposal to make Georgia Strait a national marine park was called "utter nonsense" by a provincial official. Provincial deputy minister of recreation and conservation Lloyd Brooks told a panel of planners the federal plan would not work.

Sponsored by the Capital Regional branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada, the panel discussion at the University of Victoria was attended by ecologists, planners and engineers. Spokesmen from the B.C. and Washington governments also attended. Community planners agreed the waters are deteriorating and that correction was becoming a matter of some urgency.

- The conviction of an individual sentenced to a prison term for trafficking LSD on Salt Spring in the spring of 1970 was overturned. Convicted in Victoria country court, the man appealed the sentence and the B.C. Court of Appeal subsequently quashed the conviction.

Fifteen Years Ago

- The campaign to protest ferry fare increases continued. Salt Spring Chamber of Commerce president Gerry Bourdin urged islanders to write to Premier Bill Bennett expressing opposition to recently announced ferry rate hikes.
- Permits for 22 new homes valued at $656,000 were issued in the Gulf Islands during May 1976, according to Capital Regional District givings over the installation of an experimental sewage treatment plant in Ganges, the Ganges sewer committee was told. The committee informed the CRD it was willing to agree to the scheme as long as it was not at local expense and a conventional treatment plant was provided as a back-up to the experimental installation.

Ten Years Ago

- Some Fulford parents were upset by a decision of the Gulf Islands school board to not improve the system of busing Kindergarten children one-way to classes in Ganges until a south end elementary school was built. It had been expected that either a temporary Kindergarten or two-way bus service would be introduced.

- The Salt Spring Island Trust Committee granted Fred Howard permission to continue using the Ganges log dump at the foot of Rainbow Road. While trustees said the location was not ideal, it was agreed a log dump should exist for operators at the north end of the island.

- Seven months of negotiations between the Gulf Islands School District and 42 non-teaching CUPE employees concluded with acceptance of a reported 40 per cent wage increase over the next two years. While the result still left local workers paid less than their southern Vancouver Island counterparts, the majority of union members voted in favour of contract terms.

Five Years Ago

- Enforcement of a law forbidding use of single-engine aircraft to airlift passengers after dusk was causing concern in the Gulf Islands. The ministry of transport had decided to clamp down on the rule, saying it was too dangerous to fly a helicopter at night and the privilege had been abused in the past.

- Volume II bookstore owner Roger Coster urged islanders to support a nation-wide protest against tariffs imposed on books published outside Canada. Coster said the tariff ordered recently by Ottawa to protest

U.S. duties levied on cedar shakes and shingles would have little impact on Americans while causing undue suffering for Canadians.

- Lady Minto Hospital was one of 18 Vancouver Island and Lower Mainland hospitals to be served with strike notices. Nurses union spokesman Jerry Miller said some type of job action was inevitable.

- The Vesuvius Inn could have burned down if not for the quick actions of patron C. John Walchuk who saw smoke billowing from a breaker box while he was at the inn for lunch. He looked through the panel, saw flames, grabbed a broom and using the handle, switched off the breakers. He then used a fire extinguisher to douse the fire.
